HAVANA HOTEL BATTLE; 44 DIE

50,000 WATCH DAY LONG FIGHT; AMERICAN SLAIN

Number of Wounded May Reach 300.

BULLETIN.

HAVANA, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A check of hospitals, first aid stations, and the morgue at midnight showed 44 were killed during the day's fighting. It was impossible to obtain an accurate count of casualties in many small clinics and Spanish societies' hospitals, in which there were known to be a number of dead and wounded. The Columbia Military hospital refused to give out information.

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 2.—A battle raged from dawn to dusk in Havana today when an effort was made by counter revolutionary groups to overthrow the Grau San Martin government. From 5:30 a. m. until 4:30 p. m.—with the exception of a three hour armistice period—warfare with rifles, machine guns, and artillery raged between the Cuban army under Col. Fulgencio Batista and some 475 army and navy officers, who for 25 days have been beleaguered in the National hotel.

The officers, bombarded by field pieces which tore holes through the hotel, hung out the white flag at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and surrendered unconditionally.

American Among Dead.

The toll of the battle has not yet been definitely determined, but a semi-official check list thirty-nine dead and more than 120 wounded. Among the dead is an American, Robert Lotspeich, assistant manager here of Swift & Co. Lotspeich had lived in Cuba for 27 years. He was killed on the rooftop of his apartment house while watching the battle.

The presidential palace announced that nine soldiers and one student had been killed and 27 soldiers wounded. The provincial governor, Baizan, announced that in the National hotel he counted 18 dead, while 17 were wounded. Many civilians were wounded.

The government's figures are suspected of being far below the actual toll. Some observers estimate that the dead will run as high as 75 and the wounded in excess of 300.

Report Massacre of Officers.

The killings at the hotel continued after the officers had come out under the white flag. Ten officers are reported by eyewitnesses to have been killed and ten or more wounded as they were leaving the hotel unarmed under a guard of soldiers.

One version of this shooting is that the officers were moving out in groups of five when a soldier is said to have seen an officer at a window with his sidearms on and, raising his rifle, shot the officer in the back.

Other shots immediately came from the soldiers or from the crowd in front of the hotel. The officers in the entrance started to push back into the hotel, fearing a massacre, when a withering fire dropped several on the lawn and steps and in the entrance.

Black Soldiers Blamed.

Another version is that when the officers came out of the hotel with hands upraised they were met by many soldiers who shook hands with their old commanders. Inside the hotel some of the soldiery are said to raided the barroom and to have been reeling about the lobby with bottles.

Eyewitnesses say that when the firing began both the officers and the soldiers with them dropped flat on the ground and that they were shot at as they lay prone.

It was reported late today that the firing came from black troopers who got out of control.

Among the officers reported killed at the hotel are Col. Miguel Angel de Cespedes, former secretary of sanitation under former President Machado and former chief of the Camp Columbia hospital; Maj. Arturo Bofill, chief of Havana police under former President de Cespedes; Col. Horacio Ferrer, former chief of staff under de Cespedes and one of the leaders of the coup which deposed Machado. It is reported that Ferrer took his own life rather than surrender.

Diplomats Offer to Mediate.

A bulletin issued at the presidential palace this evening said the Spanish ambassador, Luciano Lopez Ferrer, called on President Grau as dean of the diplomatic corps and offered the services of the corps to mediate between the conflicting factions. It was

VIRGINIA VOTES ON DRY REPEAL FOR U.S. AND STATE

Richmond, Va., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Virginia tomorrow will take its place among the states which have by popular vote expressed their decision on ratification of the twenty-first amendment. When it does it also will have determined its disposition toward state prohibition.

Should this state ratify the repeal amendment to the federal constitution it will be the thirty-second state in the line opposed to national prohibition, with four more needed to assure the death of the eighteenth amendment. The Virginia convention is to meet Oct. 25.

Mine Strike Vote Today in Pennsylvania

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Thirty thousand miners were invited tonight to a massmeeting that may hold the key to the future of the vast labor walkout in western Pennsylvania. The session is set for 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Three "insurgent" leaders in the walkout movement, Martin F. Ryan, Steve Petronie and W. R. Minerd, asked their followers to gather at Searight, five miles northeast of Uniontown.

Officials Ask Return.

The miners had listened earlier today to a five hour appeal by high union officials asking that all miners return to work or be in a position of "defying the President of the United States." This meeting had broken up in applause after heated debating.

At the same time, Ryan asked that union committees at each mine call on their superintendents and see whether the committees will be recognized.

This was explained as one method of determining "if the H. C. Frick Coke company has recognized the union," a demand that has become the strikers' battle cry.

The miners went on strike three weeks ago with an avowal by local union leaders that they would not resume work until coal companies owned by steel concerns recognized the United Mine Workers of America.

The steel companies last week agreed with President Roosevelt to abide by all the code's labor provisions. They did not promise, however, to write union contracts.

Tells Miners of Pact.

Since that time Phillip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers, has conferred with Thomas Moses, president of the United States Steel corporation's H. C. Frick Coke company, (at whose Fayette county mine the strike started.

"As a result of your conferences," Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson wired from Washington, where he is in the Walter Reed hospital, to Murray today, "I am advised that Mr. Moses has handed you a letter, addressed to you in your official capacity as vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, confirming the acceptance of the coal code through agreement with the President on the 29th day of September and agreeing to maintain working conditions, hours, and wages as prevailing under agreements between other operators and the United Mine Workers of America in the several districts where the mines are located.

Asks for Acceptance.

"I am telegraphing with the authority of the President of the United States urging that the United Mine Workers of America and its membership accept the settlement to become effective forthwith and the mines to immediately resume operations. This request is made in the national interest and I trust that each affected member of your organization will contribute his part to the necessity of an immediate resumption of work.

"They are advised that under the provisions of the bituminous coal code the men will have the right of appeal for the protection of their interests to the national bituminous coal labor board and the administrator of the national industrial recovery act."

HERE ARE STREETS TO BE CLOSED FOR PARADE OF LEGION

Michigan avenue will be closed today from 9 a. m. to about 10 p. m. from Oak street to 16th street for the American Legion parade. Wabash avenue for this distance will be reserved for bus and street car traffic. All east and west streets in this area east of State street also will be closed.

Parking will be prohibited between the lake, State street, 16th street, and Oak street.

Southbound traffic from the north side outer drive will be detoured in Lincoln park to La Salle street and nearby parallel streets. Northbound traffic in the south side outer drive will be detoured west at 23d street.

Private car drivers on trips between the north and the south sides are advised to avoid the downtown district by using Canal street, Halsted street, Ashland avenue, or Western avenue.

For the World's Fair, street car service will operate as usual, while buses and taxicabs will serve the 23d street gate and entrances farther south. Private cars likewise will be able to approach these Fair gates.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS TO THE LEGION; VETERANS SWARM ON CITY

Convention Opens; Night March of 40 and 8.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Chicago became suddenly aware last night that some 300,000 happy and hilarious war veterans and their relatives were in town. The loop was seized by the Legionnaires and the so-called night life gentry blinked their eyes at a boisterous demonstration which extended into the early hours of the morning.

It began with a parade by the Forty and Eight society, aptly termed the fun-making faction of the Legion. The parade moved up Michigan avenue from Seventh to Ohio streets through a street packed with spectators, but the marchers were just catching the spirit of the evening when the procession ended at the tiresomely early hour of 11 p. m.

Paraders Descend on Loop.

The marchers would not stop. They headed for the loop and plunged with glee into the maelstrom already motivated by the thousands of celebrators of the annual holiday of the Legion.

Plain citizens were there en masse to enjoy the spectacle. Incidents which in a smaller city might have caused some mild remonstrance were greeted by Chicagoans with encouraging whoops of approval. The city belonged to the Legion. Its members could do what they wanted with it.

Traffic was stopped and no one cared. Singing men with jaunty blue overseas caps snatched whistles away from policemen and substituted quaint noise making instruments of their own, with which they pretended to unsnarl the maze of automobiles and pedestrians.

Hotel Clerks Take Shelter.

Hotel lobbies were invaded. Grinning desk clerks ducked for shelter. Those who had been strangers a moment before were chanting "Madelon" with arms around each others' necks.

Street car motormen clanged their gongs in a futile attempt to make way through the crowd. Motorists honked for passage and were swamped beneath waves of humanity. Firecrackers and torpedoes exploded amid the squeals of women.

Two Legionnaires astride the fenders of an automobile swung red lanterns. Five men dressed in convict garb clattered down Clark street astride horses. The roar of explosives reverberated through the street cañons.

Amateurs Take Over Band.

Bandsmen, gaudily garbed in gold braid, came swinging along Randolph street. Their instruments were seized from them and a grand discordance resulted from the bursting lungs of amateur musicians. The bandsmen chuckled and followed along without resentment.

Strangely enough, amid all the hilarity, there was no pugnacity. The usual quarrelsome celebrant was absent. If one man jostled another, that was not the occasion for a fight but for laughter.

A "hospital" had been created at 163 North Franklin street for those members of the Legion who became weary of the celebration and desired an immediate rest before retiring to their hotels. At midnight, there were approximately 75 veterans in the cots but there was no disorder, the orderlies reported.

It Goes On Into Wee Hours.

There was no letdown in the noise after midnight. A tall Legionnaire wearing a pink brassiere and lavender shorts led a group out of the Morrison hotel. They carried an assortment of brass instruments and played lustily.

Showers of beer, water and other liquids cascaded from the windows of the Hotel Sherman, drenching the crowds below. Feathers from pillows drifted out of the windows of other loop hotels.

The hotels had early provided against the expected merry-making by clearing lobbies of all furniture, rolling up the carpets, breathing a sigh of relief and bidding the Legion members: "help yourselves."

The policeman stationed at Clark and Madison streets blew his whistle too loudly to suit a gay group. He was stripped of his uniform, his star was pinned to his underwear, and he was told to go home. He went off,

HALF A MILLION TO VIEW LEGION PARADE TODAY

Parade Facts

STARTING POINT—Michigan avenue Link bridge.

LINE OF MARCH—South on Michigan to Jackson; east to Leif Ericson drive; south to reviewing stand in Soldiers' field, thence north in Columbus drive to Congress street.

PARTICIPANTS—120,000 Legionnaires, police, and regulars.

The American Legion will send 120,000 marchers down Michigan avenue, through Grant park and into Soldiers' field today in the greatest parade in this city's history. They will keep step to the music of 350 bands and 200 drum corps. Patriotic, ornamental and humorous floats in the procession will total approximately 250.

The police are prepared to handle a crowd of half a million spectators. The heart of Chicago's business district will be closed to traffic all day for this spectacle.

Several hundred thousand public school children have been given a holiday so that those who wish may view the parade. The parochial schools, which are under the supervision of the Rev. Daniel Cunningham, also have been given permission to close today.

The Route of March.

The army of Legionnaires will assemble this morning in the near north side. The official starting place for the parade is the Michigan avenue bridge, and the time is 10 a. m. The line of march extends south in Michigan to Jackson boulevard, thence east to Leif Ericson drive [next to the lake], south into Soldiers' field, thence north in Columbus drive to Congress street.

Legion headquarters yesterday estimated that the last marcher would reach Soldiers' field about 8 p. m., ten hours after the start of the parade. The police estimated that it may be as late as 10 p. m.

Leading the march will be a detachment of Chicago policemen followed by the grand marshal, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, U. S. A. Then will come detachments of United States regulars—army, navy and marine—preceding the champion Legion band of the Chicago Board of Trade post, No. 304, the national colors and high Legion officials.

Veterans to Follow.

Sixteen abreast, the veterans will follow, grouped by states and by divisions, with bands, drum corps and floats interspersed among the moving mass of men.

Any preview of the floats yesterday was difficult because they were scattered throughout the city, each post having its own garage. It was learned, however, that the Mississippi delegation has a cotton plant nine feet high with 35,000 cotton bolls; Indiana has a twenty-eight foot representation of an ear of corn, and Michigan will display its apples and cherry blossoms. Beauty queens will ride in many of the floats.

Gen. Parker's job of assembling, moving and disbanding 120,000 men with bands, drum corps and floats is considered no mean assignment. It took the Germans two days to move an army of 80,000 into Brussels in 1914.

Along the line of march will be 1,650 policemen to keep the crowds from pushing into the street.

Roosevelt Sounds Call for Unity; Cheered.

BULLETIN.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

President Roosevelt's appearance before the American Legion at the opening session of its fifteenth annual convention in the Chicago Stadium yesterday noon was made the occasion for a brief report to the nation on general affairs as well as an announcement of the President's guiding principles in the matter of federal relief to war veterans.

Although the presidential and Legion policies differ sharply in the question of hospitalization of service men, there was nothing to mar the fine reception given to Mr. Roosevelt. The Legionnaires rallied to him with enthusiasm. The President's fine smile, his happy face lifted above the throng in the full spotlight of the platform, gave a spirit of confidence to the gathering.

Waves Good-by to Crowd.

"Happy Days Are Here Again" came from the band as the President concluded the formal part of his program, put on his Legion cap and waved to the crowd in good-by. The solemn moment was broken in a wave of glad feeling.

For veterans with actual war connected disabilities the President promised adequate relief and admitted frankly that mistakes had been made during the last six months. Presumably he referred in this only to veteran legislation. He departed from the Legion program in the matter of hospitalization of all war veterans. This aid, the President said, should be confined to those injured in service. The others must be treated no differently from the way other citizens are treated, with the federal government the last source of relief.

Appeals for U. S. Unity.

His whole appeal was for national unity in this crisis. He departed from his prepared address on several occasions, but more as a matter of emphasis, or in momentary response to something that he caught from the crowd, than as an important change.

Along with his appeal for unity the President said:

"I believe in the fundamental obligation of citizenship to don the uniform of our country, to carry arms in its defense when our country and the things it stands for are attacked."

Next to the necessity for unity instead of class or sectional feeling he placed the duty of holding the credit of the United States unimpaired. In this connection he made an interpolation.

"We undertook to take the national treasury out of the red and put it in the black," he read from his manuscript, and then added in a manner that drew applause—"and we have done it."

Surveys National Affairs.

At the end of his discussion of the veterans' affairs he came to this brief survey of wider interests:

"The realization of our national program cannot be attained in six months. Reëmployment has proceeded only a part of the way. From week to week there will be ups and downs, but the net result is a consistent gain. The freezing of credits has been stopped and the ice is definitely melting."

"But it has not all melted yet," was added to his written address.

"It must be increased further," he went on. "Industry has picked up, but an increased purchasing power must stimulate it further."

Thanks Veterans for Support.

The President addressed the Legionnaires as comrades and as citizens. He thanked them for the "Battle Order" under which they had come to his aid in the national recovery drive. He had no apologies for the broad policy under which the veterans had been treated in the national economy act.

He said here, however, that to those men whose disabilities are of service origin the government plans to extend more generous care than under the existing regulations. To those veterans who have become disabled on ill outside the service, from causes not traceable to the service, the President laid down the broad principle that they must depend, with other citizens, on general relief if they cannot pay for their own care.

If the city and state cannot help such a person, the federal government stands ready to do so, he said.

Whether this will lead to any change in the Legion program at this convention is doubtful. Legion officials expressed satisfaction with the President's address in the main aspects, but any particular comment was reserved for further study and conference. The section of the Legion program which is not supported by the President is as follows:

"That hospitalization under federal government auspices be afforded all war veterans not dishonorably discharged who require hospital treatment and who are not able to reasonably pay for their own treatment."

The issue here is between service disability and nonservice disability. It is a matter of millions for the taxpayers; just how much no one has yet been able to say.

Notice from the Legion.

Official headquarters of the Legion sent out this notice yesterday bearing on the Legion attitude toward veteran payments and care:

"We wish to call your attention, without criticizing, that it is unfair to say the President is coming here 'to face the men whose compensation he cut.'

"This statement has appeared in newspapers since his coming was announced. The fact is that less than ten per cent of the members of the American Legion have ever received any compensation or any benefits whatsoever from the federal government which were affected by the economy act. The American Legion's interest and fight on behalf of the disabled is simply an ideal and a duty."

With the President now on record, his visit over and the show part of the convention to be finished with the great parade today, the politics and the policies will take shape for expression at the business sessions tomorrow and Thursday in the Civic Opera house.

30,000 in the Stadium.

The Legion put on a good show for the presidential visit. The 30,000 who were crowded into the Stadium were well rewarded. There was color and music and pageantry of the national scene. One could find traces there of all the American story from the days of the revolution.

The added touch of the international brought by the world war was also there. The banners of France, Italy, Mexico were mingled with those of the states, territories and possessions. The civil war was there, including the representative of the Gray. The Legionnaires stood to this salute. That is a point in history, illustrating that wars are but moments in the long unfolding.

Amplifying facilities were poor during the early part of the program at least, and little attention was paid to the addresses. The boys wanted music and singing and also they were waiting for the President.

Great Cheer Greets President.

The tension increased as the moment of his arrival drew near and Gov. Paul McNutt of Indiana had hard work in finishing his address, so restless had the crowd become.

At last the distant shouting was heard from the street. It came nearer and surrounded the building. There was a wait while the President was making his way toward the platform and then the silence was broken by a tremendous cheer.

Mrs. Roosevelt was presented first. The national anthem was played as the President was led forward. He stood at attention, his hand against his blue cap trembling with fatigue.

But when he was braced against the speakers' desk he seemed to regain his strength. His uplifted arm quieted the cheers and his voice rang out again in the hall where fifteen months before he had accepted the nomination that gave him the leadership of the nation.

THE MORNING SESSION

The Legion convention opened in the morning with addresses of welcome from governmental officials and representatives of France and Italy. Promptly at 10 o'clock National Commander Louis A. Johnson called the 1,110 delegates to order.

The Rev. Irvin Q. Wood, national chaplain of the Legion, gave the invocation. The national colors were brought to the platform while Chicago's Board of Trade post band played the national anthem. This was sung by Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink. She was applauded enthusiastically as the "Mother of the Legion." Frank E. Samuel, national adjutant, read the call of the convention.

Greeted by Gov. Horner.

Gov. Horner was the first to welcome the Legionnaires. He praised the Legion as never having used the power it possesses unwisely. He declared that the Legion has provided for those of its members who have been unable to care for themselves, has cared for the widows and orphans of veterans, has brought about friendlier relations between the United States and its allies, and has stood as a barrier to the menace of anarchy and radicalism.

"The part the American Legion has played and will continue to play in bringing about national recovery will be as vividly remembered as the glorious deeds of its membership during the war," Gov. Horner said. "The nation still looks to the men who fought its battles for guidance in our present war against economic adversity."

Mayor Kelly Welcomes Them.

Mayor Kelly welcomed the Legionnaires to Chicago. He said he had given definite orders to the police and other public employés to be solicitous of the visitors' comfort and enjoyment. The mayor paid a tribute to President Roosevelt, saying that the President is, in his opinion, America's savior. This was met with applause.

Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, welcomed the veterans to the Fair. Such a gathering as this, he said, is an inspiration to loyalty and a call to duty for all citizens. It comes at a time, he declared, when it is well for citizens to adopt the soldierly virtues of submission to discipline and obedience to orders, when the government has declared a war upon economic depression and the nation's treasury has been thrown into the conflict.

The crowded convention hall roared with applause when Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless and representative of the Italian government, stepped to the front of the speakers' platform.

"I am very happy to be here with you and deeply honored at the privilege of attending the convention of the American Legion," he said. "The only thing I can say is that I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

Senator Marconi, on behalf of the Italian government, has given an invitation to the Legion to hold its 1937 convention in Italy. During the war he served in both the Italian army and navy.

Gen. James G. Harbord of New York then introduced to the convention Gen. Adalbert de Chambrun, official representative of the French government. Gen. de Chambrun now commands the 18th army corps at Bordeaux, France. During the war he served as liaison officer between the commanders in chief of the American and French armies. He has brought an invitation to the Legion to hold its 1937 convention in Paris.

"I am here on a twofold mission," Gen. de Chambrun said. "The first, the most important, is the official greeting from my nation. My second mission, which honors me almost as much, is to have been chosen representative of the great peaceful federation, four million strong, of our 'Anciens Combattants', who send you their fraternal salutations and good wishes."

Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn, president of the Legion auxiliary, and John A. Elden, chef de chemin de fer of the Forty and Eight, made brief talks. Among the many notables introduced from the platform were Russell C. Martin, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Harry Rene Lee, adjutant general of the United Confederate Veterans.

Princess Cantacuzene, a granddaughter of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, was presented. Francois de Martigny, president of the provincial council of the Canadian Legion, was presented as the first representative of that organization to attend an American Legion convention.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S ADDRESS TO THE AMERICAN LEGION

"I think I have been in this hall before, and I can almost hear that fine old friend of ours, Senator Walsh, saying: 'For what purpose does the gentleman arise?' Well, I will tell you why the gentleman arises. I am glad to come here as your guest and I am glad to have the right to come here as your comrade and I have come because I have faith in the American Legion and in all the veterans of all our wars, and, incidentally, the right which I have to come here works both ways because just as long as I am in the White House you have the right to come and see me there.

Recalls the War Days.

"But my relationship with you is not a matter of the past six months, it dates back to the war days when I participated with you, not only in this country but also on the North sea, and in the channel and on the actual fighting front in France.

"I want to talk with you about the problem of government, the difficulties which you and I as Americans have faced and solved, and those which we still face. I recognize and appreciate, and the nation recognizes and appreciates, the patience, the loyalty and the willingness to make sacrifices, shown by the overwhelming majority of the veterans of our country during the trying period from which we are beginning successfully to emerge.

"I want to talk to you about national unity. Let us look at it as a living thing—not a mere theory resting in books, or otherwise apart from everyday business of men.

"Unity Is Patriotism."

"It means that we all live under a common government, that we trade with each other, pay common taxes, many of them too high. It means that we give to and receive from a common, protective government of which we are a part. So to recognize national unity is to hold it above all else. Saying that upon it depends our common welfare is just another way to say that we have patriotism.

"You and I who served in the world war know that we represented a united nation in the time of danger to world civilization. But you and I know also that national unity is as essential in time of peace as in time of war. If this country is worth living in, if this flag of ours is worth living under, if our social order means anything to us, then this country of ours is worth defending every day and every year of the life of every individual one of us.

Obligation of Citizenship.

"It is because I am unwilling to live myself, or to have my children or grandchildren live, under an alien flag or an alien form of government that I believe in the fundamental obligation of citizenship to don the uniform of our country, to carry arms in its defense when our country and the things it stands for are attacked.

"But there are two enemies of national unity, sectionalism and class, and if the spirit of sectionalism or the spirit of class is allowed to grow strong, or to prevail, it means the end of national unity and the end of patriotism.

"Some people who visit us from other lands still find it difficult to credit a fact that a nation sprung from many sources, a nation one hundred and twenty million strong, a nation stretching three thousand miles from east to west, is, in all the great essentials of its civilization, a homogeneous whole; for not only do we speak one language, not only are the customs and habits of our people similar in every part of the continent, but we have given repeated proof on many occasions, and especially in recent years, that we are willing to forgo sectional advantage where such advantage can be obtained only by one part of the country at the expense of another.

Danger of Class Distinction.

"The other enemy of national unity is class distinction, and you and I are well aware of the simple fact that, as every day passes, the people of this country are less and less willing to tolerate benefits for one group of citizens which must be paid for by others.

"You have been willing to fight for the benefits of American life. You have been willing to live for American unity. You have understood that this is the very foundation of the Americanism for which you stand, in which you believe, and to which you and I swore allegiance when we became American Legionnaires.

"For several years past the benefits of American life were threatened. The crisis came in the spring of this year. It was necessary to meet that crisis. Again it was necessary for all of us to go back to fundamentals.

"Millions were out of work, the banks were closed. The credit of the government itself was threatened. The car was stalled. Obviously, the first objective was to get the engine running again.

"We succeeded in opening the great majority of the banks, and we are going to open a lot more of them, but that would have been impossible if at the same time we had not been able to restore the credit of the government of the United States.

National Credit and Unity.

"In speaking of national credit we are again dealing with a real thing, not a theory in books. There is such a thing as national credit. It depends upon national unity. Without it the government cannot get the money to give. You and I depend upon it, and in a right sense your welfare and mine rests upon it.

"That is not just an academic proposition. Industry cannot be restored, people cannot be put back to work, banks cannot be kept open, human suffering cannot be cared for, if the government itself is bankrupt. We realize now that the great human values, not for you alone but for all American citizens, rest upon the unimpaired credit of the United States.

"It was because of this that we undertook to take the national treasury out of the red and put it into the black, and we have done it. And in the doing of it we laid down two principles which directly affected benefits to veterans—to you and to veterans of other wars.

"The first principle, following inevitably from the obligation of citizens to bear arms, is that the government has a responsibility for and towards those who suffered injury or contracted disease while serving in its defense.

No Special Privileges.

"The second principle is that no person, because he wore a uniform, must thereafter be placed in a special class of beneficiaries over and above all other citizens. The fact of wearing a uniform does not mean that he can demand and receive from his government a benefit which no other citizen receives.

"It does not mean that because a person served in the defense of his country, performed a basic obligation of citizenship, he should receive a pension from his government because of a disability incurred after his service had terminated, and not connected with that service.

"It does mean, however, that those who were injured in or as a result of their service are entitled to receive adequate and generous compensation for their disabilities. It does mean that generous care shall be extended to the dependents of those who died in or as a result of service to their country.

"To carry out these principles, the people of this country can and will pay in taxes the sums which it is necessary to raise. To carry out these principles will not bankrupt your government nor throw its bookkeeping into the red.

Mistakes to Be Remedied.

"Every person who has made honest study knows that mistakes, many of them, have been made during the course of fifteen years. I personally know that mistakes in individual cases and inequalities affecting various groups have occurred during the last six months. But at the same time there stands out the fact which you know—that many of these mistakes have been rectified and that we have the definite purpose of doing justice not only to the mass, but, insofar as possible, to every individual as well.

"Furthermore, it is my hope that insofar as justice concerns those whose disabilities are, as a matter of fact, of war service origin, the government will be able to extend even more generous care than is now provided under existing regulations. It is to these men that our obligation exists.

"To these two broad principles the time has come, I believe, for us to add a third. There are many veterans of our wars to whom disability and sickness unconnected with war service has come. To them the federal government owes the application of the same rule which it has laid down for the relief of other cases of involuntary want or destitution.

Up to Community First.

"In other words, if the individual affected can afford to pay for his own treatment he cannot call on any form of government aid. If he has not the wherewithal to take care of himself, it is first of all the duty of his community to take care of him and next the duty of his state. Only if under the circumstances his own community and his own state are unable, after reasonable effort, to care for him, then, and then only, should the federal government offer him hospitalization and care, and the federal government stands ready to do that.

"My, you are a young looking bunch. The young people of today, who in the event of war would bear the first brunt of national defense, think of us of the American Legion as middle aged people, and yet I have a sneaky suspicion that you and I are not yet ready to admit that we have one foot in the grave.

"We think of ourselves, and with some justification perhaps, as people of some experience, of some maturity of judgment, of a position in the community which carries responsibilities. We believe we have influence as individuals and we believe that as an organization the American Legion has enormous power for the good of the country for many years to come.

"It is not enough that you have helped to write the history of America. It is a fact that much of the future history of America will be a history which you will help to make. Your future interests are inseparable from those of other citizens, and, granting that your interest in the disabled and dependent comrades is first upon your program, I ask in addition your coöperation in the great program of national rehabilitation in which you and I are equally engaged.

Grateful to the Legion.

"The charter of the Legion keeps it out of partisan politics. The strength and the very existence of the Legion depend on the maintenance of that principle. You are not here as Republicans or Democrats. You are here, as you should be, as Americans to work with your government for the good of the average citizen. I am grateful to the Legion for the splendid stand it has taken—for the 'battle order' it has issued.

"The realization of our national program cannot be attained in six months. Reëmployment has proceeded only a part of the way. From week to week there will be ups and downs, but the net result is a consistent gain.

"The freezing of credits has been stopped and the ice is definitely melting, but it has not all melted yet. Farm income has been increased, but not enough. It must be increased further. Industry has picked up, but an increased purchasing power must stimulate it further, and is going to.

"Your task and mine are similar. Each one of us must play an individual part in our own field in dealing with these many problems, but at the same time we must realize that the individual part belongs to a closely related whole—the national unity of purpose and of action.

New Call to the Colors.

"I ask your further and even greater efforts in our program of national recovery. You who wore the uniform, you who served, you who took the oath of allegiance to the American Legion, you who support the ideals of American citizenship, I have called to the colors again. As your commander in chief and your comrade, I am confident that you will respond."

At the conclusion of this address the President added:

"I am out of order, but I am acting for the minute as your temporary chairman. I have a very pleasant responsibility. I have been asked by the women of Clarksburg, W. Va., to present a very beautiful silk flag, made by them, to their friend and your friend and my friend, a man who has labored so faithfully and so well not only during this past year, but through many years before that, the national commander of the American Legion, Louis Johnson."

PREDICT ILLINOIS MAN'S ELECTION AS LEGION CHIEF

Hayes' Backers Work for Support of West.

Friends of Legionnaire Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill., expressed confidence last night that he would be elected national commander on Thursday—"probably on the first ballot." Mr. Hayes was not voicing such certainty of opinion, but said he has "felt all along that I have enough votes to win."

Hayes, a former commander of the Illinois department of the Legion, has half a dozen opponents for the commandership and these were reported yesterday to be banding together in a last effort to "stop Hayes."

But that report didn't seem to worry the candidate. "They've been trying to do that for the last three weeks," he said, "but not very successfully."

Nevada Man Strong Contender.

One of the strongest contenders appeared to be George W. Malone, state engineer of Nevada, who was reported to be gathering considerable support from the far western delegations. The Hayes managers heard this and immediately sent lobbyists around the hotels to buttonhole delegates from beyond the Rockies. Some of them who returned footsore and weary at sundown believed that their work would bear fruit.

There will be 1,121 votes cast in Thursday's election. The successful candidate needs 561 votes, a majority, to win, and some of Hayes' more enthusiastic supporters asserted that they already have more than 600 votes "in the bag."

"Our job now," said one, "is not to elect Ed Hayes but to keep him elected."

"This time tomorrow," said another, "we will have enough states pledged to Hayes to sit back and wait." The candidate himself said that about 18 delegations had caucused in his favor. He was considerably elated, he added, to learn that the Pennsylvania bloc of 60 votes had joined this group late yesterday.

Among Other Candidates.

Among the other leading candidates for the national commandership are Sam Reynolds, a member of the executive committee and an Omaha coal merchant, who ran for the post last year at Portland, and Ray Murphy of Ida Grove, Ia., member of the Legion's legislative committee.

A number of state caucuses will be held today.

VETS AT ODDS WITH PRESIDENT ON HOSPITALS

Committee May Favor Care for All.

Rumors that the Legion convention's committee on rehabilitation would recommend general federal hospitalization of veterans in opposition to the wishes of President Roosevelt, were prevalent last night after the committee's session in the Palmer House.

E. V. Cliff of Minneapolis, chairman of the committee, said that three subcommittees would consider hospitalization, insurance and pensions today, and that the full committee would take no official action until reports were received from these subcommittees tonight. It was the common talk, however, that members of the committee are almost unanimous in favor of making a demand for the restoration of hospital care for all veterans, whether their disabilities are service connected or not.

The President's View.

In his address yesterday President Roosevelt upheld the present economy regulation which limits hospital care to veterans whose disabilities were incurred in army service. The President said that impoverished veterans with non-service connected disabilities should be cared for by the government only in case their communities and states are unable to care for them. The President's view is opposed to the general hospitalization clause of the Legion's four point rehabilitation program, and there were reports that this four point program would be recommended to the convention by the committee.

A key to the sentiment for general hospital care was furnished by Cliff in response to a question from Watson B. Miller of Washington, liaison officer. Miller told reporters that he didn't believe there was "the remotest possibility" that the committee would adopt a resolution opposed by the President.

"Isn't that right?" Miller asked Cliff.

Other Committees Organize.

Organization meetings were held by other committees late in the day. The important resolutions committee elected Joseph Edgar of New Jersey as chairman and Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, was chosen to head the committee on national defense which will probably consider resolutions this morning. Thomas McManus of California was selected as chairman of the Americanism committee.

Thomas W. Miller of Delaware was elected to the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee and Milton D. Campbell of Cincinnati was elected chairman of the child welfare committee.

Hurricane Sweeps Jamaica; Broken Wires Conceal Toll

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A tropical hurricane moving at a speed of 40 to 50 miles an hour swept the western end of Jamaica today, paralyzing communication facilities and leaving the remainder of the colony anxiously awaiting reports of damage.

THRONGS CHEER PRESIDENT IN DRAMATIC SCENE

Give Him Warm Assurance of Support.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

He traveled on his way back east, to New York and then to Washington, a veteran of an excursion looked upon by himself and his friends as the first crucial personal test since March 4.

Throughout the brief hours of his stay in the midwestern capital swirling, whirling crowds jammed about him—at the Stadium, at A Century of Progress grounds, and about the burial plot of former Mayor Cermak in the Bohemian National cemetery.

Reassured by Cheering.

The cheers, the waving hats, the fluttering ticker tape, the smashing music of the bands were all politically and personally reassuring to the President.

He had faced the Legionnaires and been cheered. He had ridden through Chicago streets with their unemployed and been applauded. He had seen the crowds at the Fair, drawn as they were in considerable measure from the restless farm lands, and there were friendly demonstrations.

Reach City at 11 A. M.

It was shortly after 11 o'clock when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt stepped from the observation platform of their private car to be engulfed in a sea of silk hats, smiling official faces, gleaming medals, and American Legion blue.

The President gazed upon the silk hats and shook his head. He looked upon the overseas caps of the Legion welcomers and grinned.

"I'll take one of those," he said, and from Eddie Lewis of the Legion's Washington staff the President borrowed a blue Legion cap with the insignia of the National Press Club post, of which he is a member. It was thus bonneted as a proper convention bound Legionnaire that the chief executive rode through the city streets.

Welcomed by Officials.

Foremost among the greeters in this joint welcome by Illinois, Chicago, and the Legion, were Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, National Commander Louis Johnson, Milton J. Foreman, State's Attorney Courtney, and a host of other dignitaries.

This was not the only greeting, however, for business of state intruded at the very outset of the day and found the President talking over the long distance telephone with Secretary of State Hull concerning the riotous developments in Cuba. The secretary of state could give the President no official word concerning the reported loss of at least an American life in Havana. At that time it was announced that there was no prospect of change in the President's plans to speak in New York on Wednesday night, or of a change in the official Cuban policy.

Surrounded by Police.

From the station it was again a step into an engulfing sea, this time of mounted police, police on motorcycles, police in squad cars. Through a shower of ticker tape, the procession moved into Sherman street, then to Jackson boulevard, and west to the Stadium.

In a significant tribute to the man who conquered his own crippled condition, the children of the Spaulding school, many of them leaning upon their crutches, stood at the curb to wave as the President went by to make his address before the Legion.

Through the Loop Again.

From the Stadium the presidential procession went downtown again, through the loop, and out upon broad Columbus drive to the Fair. In the loop ticker tape and confetti again showered down upon the open gray car carrying the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly.

The twenty-one gun salute banged out; Fair visitors came on the run; in spotless khaki and glistening trench helmets, the troop of Camp Whistler came to the salute; the Board of Trade band boomed out with "The Star Spangled Banner" as the President entered the Exposition gates.

He was met by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, and Mrs. Dawes, and with Mrs. Roosevelt was escorted to a luncheon in the directors' room of the Administration building.

President Commends Fair.

At the luncheon the President was presented by Mr. Dawes with a medal commemorating his visit. After expressing his thanks for the medal President Roosevelt said:

"I wish I could stay here for several days and see the Fair as I would like to see it. I would like especially to see it illuminated at night and also see the various exhibits and buildings.

"In a little chat between Mr. Dawes and me in May of 1931, it was said that the opening of the Fair in 1933 would symbolize the return of prosperity. I did not know whether Mr. Dawes said it or whether I said it. It was the trend of our conversation:

"I believe everybody in the United States should visit this wonderful Exposition. Its success has made for prosperity throughout the country."

Out upon the steps of the Administration building, driving away in his car the President again heard cheers. The rainbow hued buildings were perches for as many as could crowd onto every vantage point, and the cheers almost drowned out the 21 gun salute of departure.

Crowds Along the Route.

By that time, the news of the President's coming had spread throughout the city. The eight mile route to the Bohemian National cemetery and Mayor Cermak's tomb was crowded with people.

At the cemetery a great throng was gathered—at the center beside the vault of the friend who said, "I'm glad it was me instead of you," were Mayor Cermak's three daughters and two sons-in-law. It was to them that the President presented a memorial wreath. Then Mrs. Roosevelt descended from the car and placed the wreath within the tomb.

Back to Railway Station.

The party then left the cemetery, reversing the route of arrival. The caravan went east on Peterson avenue to Ridge avenue, thence to Bryn Mawr avenue, to Sheridan road and through Lincoln park to North avenue and then down La Salle street to the La Salle street station. Throngs cheered along the route.

The President entered the station through the baggage room and was carried to the train level on an elevator from which he made his way to the observation car of the train, accompanied by state, county and city officials.

As his last act before departure, the President again talked with Secretary Hull concerning the Cuban situation. Once more, the word was given out that there would be no change in the schedule which will take the President to New York this noon and under which he is to speak before the Associated Catholic Charities tomorrow night.

NOTES OF THE LEGIONNAIRES

Members of the twelve Legion posts in Berrien county, Mich., will display a float depicting the county's supremacy in fruit raising in the parade today. Ten thousand apples, presented to the Legionnaires by the growers, will be tossed from the float to the crowds along Michigan avenue. Joseph Thar, Earl Rockwell, and F. A. Bowerman form the committee in charge of the exhibit.

Five hundred ex-service women, most of them nurses during the war, met in their annual banquet in the Palmer house last night. Mrs. Ada Reitz Crocker presided. Mrs. Ethel M. Weisskopf welcomed the visitors. Representative Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts was among the guests.

Seven hundred and sixty-five members of the Thirtieth volunteer infantry regiment of the old Eighth Army corps, who fought in the Philippines, met yesterday at the Dalton hotel, 1234 Wabash avenue, in annual reunion. Fred E. Havill, 5535 Blackstone avenue, is president.

Miss Margery Cormack of Hartford, Conn., was elected president of the National Yeoman F. at an annual meeting in the Palmer house yesterday. The "F" stands for "female," and members are women who served as navy recruiting agents or clerks during the war.

Benjamin A. Clarke, 41 years old, 10901 West Mission avenue, Spokane, Wash., a park commissioner there, and a member of the Legion, fell dead yesterday in his room in the Palmer house.

A special display of Buckingham fountain will be staged tonight for the benefit of the visiting war veterans, it was announced yesterday by William I. Bell, electrical engineer for the south park board.

One hundred members of the women's drum and bugle corps and the post band of the Crescent City post of New Orleans, La., made the lobby of the Palmer house impenetrable yesterday when they played war songs for an hour on their arrival. Legionnaires joined the band in singing "Parley Vous."

A man who is known by most of the Gold Star mothers who have visited the graves of their sons is a delegate to the convention of the Forty and Eight. He is E. J. Smith, owner of the Nouvel hotel at Verdun, France, where many American visitors stop. A native of Napoleon, O., Smith is chef de gar of the voiture of France of the Forty and Eight. He married a French girl after being discharged from the Fifth field artillery of the First division.

George Blandon, formerly of the 130th Austrian infantry, and Hans Kelter, who served in the 61st German infantry during the war, both of whom are members of the Louie's Hungry Five band at Old Heidelberg at the Fair, are reported to be receiving much friendly attention from Legionnaires who visit the Fair.

The combination hospital and "brig" at 163 North Franklin avenue where the convention police escort brothers in difficulties, was deserted yesterday afternoon save for one Legionnaire from Lebanon, Ky., asleep upstairs. A report came in that there was a disturbance at 186 North Clark street. "Service" men rushed out, but soon sauntered in. "Only some New York police-legionnaires crashing in a window by mistake," they reported.

A group of the convention policemen began philosophizing on why Legionnaires were celebrating. "They're just glad to be alive, only it's just once a year they remember how glad they are," one said. Another, William Beyer, of the motorcycle police, who was with the 149th field artillery, Rainbow division, and 19 months overseas, said he didn't want to celebrate. "I'm a married man," he said soberly.

An ambulance has been donated by Hines hospital to convey to the "brig" veterans who are unsteady on their feet.

The smallest Legion uniform seen was on Jerry Wittenberg, 2 years old, of West Allis, Wis., who pays his $2 annual dues regularly. He is a son of Michael M., Forty and Eight member, former Navy man.

During the President's 22 minute talk in the Stadium there were 33 outbursts of applause, and only one protest, an exclamation of "O" from a veteran. It followed Roosevelt's statement that it was first the duty of community and state to care for veterans unable to care for themselves.

The 25 members of the women's auxiliary drum and bugle corps of Nebraska City, Neb., a town of 9,000, have left all their husbands at home. "But we feel perfectly safe," archly explained one member who wore a drum suspended from her neck.

The women of the Grand Rapids, Minn., auxiliary drum and bugle corps couldn't bring their whole corps along for lack of funds, but the 13 who are here make a brave showing. In their scarlet coats and white trousers they had many a waltz with volunteer dancing partners in the Morrison hotel lobby.

Because many members of the apparently husky national championship Forty and Eight drum and bugle corps of Tucson, Ariz., are former "lungers," two physicians came with them. "It's a rule in our drum corps that none of us can bring our wives, so our wives make us bring doctors," said H. C. Jenson, color bearer, who was with the 26th division and active at Soissons. The corps wears Spanish hats and black suits with red sashes.

The largest drum major seen in the loop was Howard Clark, 235 pound member of the Winona, Minn., "German band." He wore a skin tight white suit, and a tiny blond mustache, waxed.

Sixty-five wives and friends accompanied 50 members of the Kansas state championship American Legion drum and bugle corps of Ottawa, Kas.

Five hundred members of the Third division have registered at the headquarters in Hotel Sherman, including Jim Hall, the aviator, who flew here from Long Beach, Cal.

Seen in various hotel lobbies: A Kansas Legionnaire trying to smell the felt sunflower he wore in his coat lapel; a 6 foot 3 inch Detroit Legion member inquiring politely whether he had reached Chicago; a woman calmly supporting a hilarious husband as he wove down Randolph street.

Mrs. Irene Walbridge, former national president of the auxiliary, of Petersboro, N. H., is a daughter of Commissioner William McIntyre of the Salvation Army, and was one of the two McIntyre sisters known in army huts on four fronts by 12 divisions during the war. She met her husband, Robert Walbridge, a lieutenant in the 103d machine gun, at Raulecourt, on the Toul front.

Fifty "P. G. S," candidates for membership in the Forty and Eight, were victims in the initiation "wreck" at the Chicago Riding club last night after the parade. The wreck was directed by Conducteur National Frank B. Flannery of Chicago.

Evanston Engineer Gets U. S. Public Works Job

Carl H. Bauer, 1215 Mulford street, Evanston, has been appointed engineer examiner for public works at Washington by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, it was announced here yesterday. Mr. Bauer, who is 39 years old, and a graduate of Northwestern university, is now general superintendent of construction for the Chicago Transfer Clearing company. He has had considerable experience in labor problems.

MARCONI TELLS HOW BUSINESS ADVANCED RADIO

Backing Indispensable to Science, He Says.

Tribute to the part played by business men in the development of radio to its present level was paid yesterday by Guglielmo Marconi, father of radio, at a luncheon given in his honor at the Blackstone hotel by the Museum of Science and Industry.

Numerous scientists were present at the luncheon, and Senator Marconi said he did not wish to detract from the honor due science for helping to bring radio from the stage of an electrical toy to that of a world-wide industry. But he emphasized that this had also been made possible by the financial contributions of business.

Backing Indispensable to Science.

"The money aspect of the development of the radio must not be forgotten," he declared. "For example, my first experiment in broadcasting across the Atlantic cost more than $200,000. Governments are not so constituted that they can afford to encourage something which has not yet been proved to be worth while. A great deal of credit must be given to business men who had the faith to put money into the development of the radio. Scientists cannot get along without money to back them."

During the luncheon, Marconi received an invitation from President Roosevelt to visit him at the luncheon in the World's Fair which the President was then attending. The inventor absented himself from the luncheon for thirty minutes while he went to the Fair to greet the President.

Dr. Arthur H. Compton of the department of physics of the University of Chicago welcomed the Italian inventor to Chicago. He reviewed the achievements of Marconi from the time when, as a young man of 21, he first conceived the idea of sending signals through the ether without wires.

Did the Impossible, Compton Says.

"Long distance broadcasting was deemed impossible in those days because it was said that the ether waves traveled in a straight line and would not follow the curved surface of the earth," he pointed out. "It took some one with courage and perseverance and faith to go through with the seemingly impossible."

MRS. ROOSEVELT FLIES EAST FROM CHICAGO; READS NOVEL ON WAY

Newark, N. J., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived at Newark airport from Chicago at 11:05 p. m.

She left almost immediately for her town house in New York City, where she said she planned to stay until Wednesday when she will return to Washington, probably with the President.

Mrs. Roosevelt said her trip from Chicago had been enjoyable. She spent most of her time reading one of the current best selling novels.

She plans to return to New Jersey tomorrow night to dedicate the new Theodore Roosevelt junior high school in West Orange.

NOTABLES DINE WITH OFFICIALS OF LEGIONNAIRES

With distinguished visitors as their guests, 1,000 past and present department officials of the Legion attended the commanders' dinner at the Palmer house last night.

Among those who spoke were National Commander Louis Johnson, Senator Guglielmo Marconi of Italy, Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war; Gen. Adalbert de Chamrun of France, Rear Admirals Wat Cluverius and Jules Latimer, Mayor Kelly, Senator Dieterich, and Col. Francois di Martini, head of the Canadian Legion.

The speakers confined themselves to pleasant anecdotes and recollections of the war and to pleas for peace. They did not touch upon immediate Legion policies nor upon President Roosevelt's talk. Senator Marconi, in an extemporaneous speech, drew a laugh when he remarked that during the war he had served in the Italian army and navy, being "promoted" to the navy after having approached too close, in the minds of military officials, to the front lines for his own safety.

LEGION WOMEN TO MARCH WITH THE MEN FOLKS

They'll Be Reviewed by Their Own Officers.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

When the American Legion trots out the gold braid and brass buttons today and goes on parade the Legion auxiliary is going to be right among 'em—not draped picturesquely from hotel windows, fluttering handkies at their heroes. They'll be marching in units along with the men, in snappy uniforms, with billowing flags and tingling tunes from many a band and drum corps.

The auxiliary convention at the Auditorium theater was recessed last night after the opening session to permit members to answer to their roll calls for the grand march. The meeting will reconvene tomorrow.

The auxiliary will have its own group of reviewing officers to witness today's parade from the reviewing stand in Soldiers' field. They will be led by Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn of Versailles, Ky., national president of the organization. All members of the national staff are eligible for places in the stand, where will be gathered also the distinguished guests present when the convention began yesterday. These include Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of Ulysses S. Grant, and two past presidents general of the D. A. R., Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Milford O., first head of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau of Greenwich, Conn.

National Defense Urged.

National defense and national economy were the chief topics yesterday when Mrs. Blackburn called the convention to order. Sentiment in favor of adequate national protection was solidly behind the utterances of Princess Cantacuzene, who discussed that subject in one of the main addresses of the afternoon.

Mrs. Blackburn's annual report, accepted in printed form but not read in detail, assailed the federal economy act as it affects war veterans. The act has increased the burdens of the rehabilitation and child welfare divisions of the auxiliary, she asserted. She urged the individual members to "do something about it" whenever they see a dollar wasted in government.

"We feel that the disabled veteran alone has been nailed to the cross for the sake of economy," her report said, "and that when the true conditions are realized the American public will take matters into its own hands and join with the auxiliary in seeing that waste and extravagance are removed from the federal budget and that full justice will be given to all deserving veterans."

Processional Opens Program.

Against a vivid background of massed American flags and white and gold organization banners, to the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," sung by Alice Mock, the convention opened with a processional to the stage led by white garbed and scarlet sashed pages. Autumn leaves banked the orchestra pit, and bunting in the national colors and in the navy and gold of the Legion draped the balconies.

J. H. Novotny, president of the 1933 American Legion corporation, presented Mrs. Blackburn with a gold badge commemorating the occasion, while extending greetings to the auxiliary as a whole.

Others who brought the felicitations of their orders were Lieut. Gen. Harry Rene Lee of Nashville, Tenn., representing the United Confederate War Veterans; Mrs. Pat Allen, American vice president of Fidac auxiliary, and Mrs. William Glenn Suthers of Chicago, general auxiliary convention head, who introduced the chairmen of the committees that handled arrangements for the meeting.

Nominate Vice Presidents.

At divisional caucuses held in the Stevens hotel last night five vice presidents of the auxiliary were nominated, one for each division. The caucus nominations, which are to be confirmed in a general session Thursday, were: Mrs. Elizabeth Drendell, San Francisco, west; Mrs. O. W. Hahn, Fremont, Neb., northwest; Miss Anna Manion, Waltham, Mass., east; Mrs. J. F. Duffenback, North Kansas City, Mo., central, and Mrs. Charles Miller, Little Rock, Ark., south.

In the Auxiliary's national music contest, held at the Chicago Women's club, the Minneapolis Glee club won in its class. Salem, Ore., won the contests for the best quartet and trio.

8 AND 40 WOMEN HOLD THEIR 12TH ANNUAL SESSION

Five hundred of the red-cloaked members of the Eight and Forty, the women's honor society of the American Legion auxiliary, held their 12th annual marche nationale at the Chicago Woman's club last night. The organization, which is patterned after the Forty and Eight adjunct of the Legion in form, is officially named La Boutique des Huit Chapeaux et Quarante Femmes.

Reports on child welfare work of the last year were presented to Mrs. Dorothy B. Harper, le chapeau national, after a banquet. Among the speakers at the dinner were Mrs. S. Alfred Blackburn, national president of the Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Mabel Pantelis, chairman of the convention.

The convention was closed with an initiation ceremony directed by Margaret Delles, la surintendante nationale, and the singing of Eight and Forty songs.

PARKER URGES PREPAREDNESS AT VETS' RALLY

Reunions Held by World War Groups.

Amid martial airs and the ever popular "Hinky dinky parlez-vous" played by the Sixth Corps area band, world war veterans of the Society of the First Division held their annual reunion dinner in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman last night.

Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock of Chicago presided at the reunion, which was attended by 500 veterans. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the Sixth Corps area of the United States army, who will leave soon to take command of the military forces in the Philippine islands, gave the principal address. Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, president of the First Division society, was unable to be present.

Tells Preparedness Efforts.

Maj. Gen. Parker recalled episodes of the world war and told what was now being done to give the country greater preparedness for possible future wars. He said the veterans of the last war were studying the national defenses of the country and that recommendations to improve them would soon be made to congress. The nation's defensive facilities, he declared, should be in a condition permitting more efficient movement in an emergency.

The dinner followed a brief business session at which Gen. Summerall and Gen. Parker were reelected president and vice president of the society.

Third Division Reunion.

In the Louis XVI. room at the Hotel Sherman veterans of the Third Division of the A. E. F. held their reunion dinner. Former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley headed the list of speakers who were introduced by Lieut. Thomas Harwood of Evanston, who presided. Five hundred veterans and their wives were present.

Mr. Hurley declared that the American Legion should put patriotism above politics. It should, he insisted, urge its hundreds of thousands of members to support the economic policies of the Roosevelt administration. He asserted it was not true that democratic government in the United States was being replaced by another form of government. He said he believed that the present policy of the NRA was succeeding because it represented America marching toward more practical and noble ideas.

In another reunion dinner in the Great Northern hotel the Fourth Division association elected Carlton E. Dunne of New York president and Gus Mayerle of Chicago secretary-treasurer. Brig. Gen. F. C. Boiles, commandant at Fort Sheridan was the guest of honor. During the world war Gen. Boiles commanded the 39th Infantry regiment, one of the units of the Fourth division.

Veterans of Submarine Warfare.

Veterans who served on submarines, submarine tenders and at submarine bases held a reunion at the Naval armory, where they will meet again tonight. Irving H. Hunciker is the district commander of the group.

Another reunion gathering was at the Civil Service post of the American Legion at 1438 West Adams street, where survivors of the torpedoed United States transport, President Lincoln, met. Steven Jusko, 902 North Francisco avenue, was chairman of the meeting.

The Yankee Division veterans, who were members of the old Twenty-sixth division, will meet in reunion tonight at the Illinois Athletic club, 112 South Michigan avenue. The gathering is sponsored by the Yankee Division club of Chicago, of which W. D. Crowell is president. Among those who will attend are Gen. Charles Cole of Boston, senior living officer of the Twenty-sixth division; Col. William Blake, president of the Yankee Division Veterans' association; Michael Inselbuch, Washington, D. C., commander of the Blind Veterans' association, and Col. A. E. Monteith of Los Angeles, Cal.

AUXILIARY GIVES TEA TO THE GOLD STAR MOTHERS

Gold Star Mothers attending the American Legion auxiliary convention were guests of the Illinois department of the organization at a tea yesterday in the Edgewater Beach hotel. About 125 coming from twenty states were welcomed by a reception committee composed of past departmental chairmen and Miss Estelle Wolfe of Chicago, present chairman. The past chairmen are Mrs. Elizabeth Mann, Kankakee; Mrs. J. T. Neilson, Peoria; Mrs. Ralph Noble, Galesburg, and Mrs. Eva Springer of Elgin. Mrs. Roland Howell of Louisiana, a national vice president of the auxiliary, brought the Gold Star Mothers greetings from the auxiliary.

LEGION'S CHIEF PRAISES WORK OF FORTY AND EIGHT

Generous praise for helping the American Legion carry out its program through the last year was given to the Forty and Eight society yesterday by Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the Legion. Mr. Johnson addressed the members of the Forty and Eight at that organization's first convention meeting at the Medinah Michagan Avenue club.

"Those people who regard the Forty and Eight as a fun making group don't know the members as I do," Commander Johnson said. "I don't know what we would have done in the last year without the work of the society—the 'shock troops' of the legion."

The meeting was also addressed by Emmett Whealen, president of the Cook county board, and U. S. Attorney Dwight H. Green, a member of the Forty and Eight. Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly were to have been present but were delayed because of President Roosevelt's visit.

LEGION BUGLERS AND DRUMMERS VIE FOR TITLES

Pennsylvanian and Ohioan Take First Places.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

And the drums will crash and the trumpets bray, and they'll cut a dash on—as W. S. Gilbert might have written, but did not—their contest day.

Yesterday was an important date for a group of American Legion soloists of the drum and bugle. It was the time for them to show their prowess in their own specialties. There were contests during the afternoon in the Board of Trade building, the third floor for drummers, the fourth for buglers, with an award of recognition as national champion for the ensuing year.

Any member of the Legion might enter, with one prominent exception. That one was that Legionnaires of Cook county were out. For the posts of Cook county are the hosts of the present convention, and it was not considered clubby that hosts should also be competitors. Wherefore the contestants came from Seattle, from Indianapolis, from East Orange, N. J., from almost any place on the map you care to name, except Chicago and its suburbs.

Musical Ability Not Enough.

Quite a bit more than mere musical ability was considered as a reason for getting into the high numbers. Read this, ye young pianists and violinists and singers, and ponder what other branches of music have to be up on in contests such as yesterday's.

In the drum division contestants were judged on appearance of uniform, appearance of instrument, position of drum, holding of sticks, military bearing, execution, expression, and quality of selection. For the buglers, it was appearance of uniform, appearance of instrument, position of bugle, military bearing, execution, expression, and intonation [pitch and quality]. They were almost the same, but they include more than the average student is called upon to confront.

Pennsylvanian Wins Drum Title.

After lengthy additions and divisions by judges and auditors, it was decided that of the drummers Malcolm Berlach, Heinie to his friends, of Crafton, Pa., was entitled to first place, with a percentage of 98.6. J. S. Whitelaw of Miami, Fla., took second place with 98.15. A triple tie for third position, three being marked 97.7, played off later, resulted in Jay Walker of Glendale, Cal., taking third; W. E. Albright of Massilon, O., fourth, and T. H. Bloomingdale, also of Glendale, fifth.

Of the buglers, Walter H. Buehler of St. Bernard, O., was first with 97.95, Ray Rausch of Evansville, Ind., was second with 97.76; Louis Phillips of Chattanooga, Tenn., was third with 97.65, and Harry L. Walker of Duquesne, Pa., was fourth with 97.50.

There'll Be Prizes, Too.

The scores were close and will be marked with trophies other than positions and championships. For example, Joe A. Hathaway, chairman of the drum contests, has had three reproductions of the famous Eagle drum of the civil war made for presentation to the three highest drummers. The firm of Ludwig & Ludwig is presenting six medals, two gold, two silver, and two bronze, to the first, second, and third placements in both contests. Other firms are responsible for special bugles to be presented in the bugle contest.

But there was honor for all.

PROF. A. A. BRUCE HEADS BOARD ON NRA COMPLAINTS

Prof. Andrew A. Bruce of the Northwestern University Law school has accepted an appointment o head the newly formed Chicago NRA compliance board, it was announced yesterday by Attorney Urban A. Lavery, temporary chairman of the board. The first formal hearing of complaints against NRA violators will be held by the board today in the department of commerce offices at 201 North Wells street.

Approximately 2,500 complaints from employés are awaiting hearing by the board. Only complaints under the President's reëmployment agreement will be heard here. Complaints made under accepted codes will be heard in Washington. The names of complainants will not be made public, Mr. Lavery said.

Besides Mr. Lavery, who retains his position as counsel and secretary to the board, the other members are: Edmund K. Hogan of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and P. F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades council, representing the employés; Robert G. Peck, president of the Aridor company, and Bruce MacLeish, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott and Co., representing the employers; and Mrs. Edith Dalton, head of the Alliance of Business and Professional Women, representing the consumers.

VETERANS SEIZE THE LOOP AND ALL IS HILARIOUS

A reliable and favorite old stunt was revived with considerable success in several hotels. Fire hose was unwound and the water connected. Crowds were sprayed in the street below and when firemen arrived, they also were drenched. These little affrays universally ended with all concerned retiring to nearby rooms for refreshment and solace against possible colds.

Forty and Eight Parade.

The torchlight parade of the Forty and Eight was a glittering pageant. Michigan avenue was lined for a mile and a half, from 7th to Ohio streets, by crowds which stood five and six deep.

The parade began promptly at 7 p. m. It was the fourteenth "promenade nationale" of La Societe des Quarante Hommes et Huit Chevaux. Gayly bedecked box cars, locomotives and floats were in the line of march with the state units which each represented.

The outside men in the parade carried red railroad flares. With bells clanging, the imitations of French locomotives and box cars rolled along. They were similes of the freight cars in France during the war which carried the legend "40 hommes et 8 chevaux." This afforded the inspiration for the name of the society which boasts that it makes the whoopee of the American Legion.

Initiation Ceremony Held.

Led by William D. Lyons, chef de chemin de fer passé, as grand marshal, and Louis D. Mack, chef de gare of Chicago voiture No. 220, as marshal, the parade proceeded to Ohio street. There, according to schedule, the marchers turned east to the Chicago Riding club at McClurg court, where the annual "national wreck" or initiation ceremony took place. Many of the participants in the parade, however, hurried back to the loop to do some more parading.

It was a highly informal evening, but the gaiety was infectious. Only the traffic policemen, riding wearily home this morning, were apprehensive of what is to come today, tomorrow and as long as the Legion decides it is fun to stay.

U. S. Navy Dirigible Macon on 24 Hour Test Flight

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The navy dirigible Macon left here at 5:45 p. m. today for a twenty-four hour training and test flight along the coast. Seventy officers and men make up the personnel under Commander A. H. Dresel. Eight guests also were on board. They are:

Lieut. G. H. Mills, Lieut. J. M. Thornton, Lieut. J. A. Greenwald, Lieut W. A. Cockell, J. I. Hirrisberger, D. J. Schnitzer, Louis Lampa, and C. W. Ward.

GODOWSKY'S LIP BITTEN BY DOG IN PASSING AUTO

Leopold Godowsky, internationally known pianist and composer, was bitten on the lower lip yesterday by a large dog at Michigan avenue and Adams street. He was immediately given first aid and an anti-rabies injection. He was resting comfortably in his suite at the Auditorium hotel this morning.

The dog's attack was unusual in its manner. The Russian artist was standing on the north curb of Adams street, waiting to cross to the south, when a sedan turned from Michigan avenue into Adams street. The dog sat at a rear open window of the car.

Just as the automobile came abreast of Mr. Godowsky the dog reached out savagely and snapped at him, tearing the lower lip. The automobile proceeded on and it is not known whether the driver was aware of the occurrence. Mr. Godowsky's cries brought aid and he was taken into the Gas building, where Dr. Jones dressed the wound. It required three stitches. Whether the injury will cause disfiguration was not predicted. Mr. Godowsky and his wife will leave for Rochester, N. Y., by train today. They had been visiting in Chicago for two days.

JARECKI OPENS 23D WEEK OF TAX CAMPAIGN

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $792,360, making a total of $75,178,067 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

Oct. 2	$ 30,213	$ 80,912
Uncollected	17,255,335	45,738,014
	1930.	1931.
Oct 2	$ 166,086	$ 515,106

County Judge Jarecki yesterday began his twenty-third week of enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act by appointing County Treasurer McDonough as receiver for 20 income bearing properties to enable the treasurer to collect delinquent taxes totaling $56,000. Attorneys for other properties paid $70,000 to forestall the appointment of the treasurer as receiver.

Judge Cecil Corbett Smith in the Municipal court began a campaign to collect delinquent 1931 personal property taxes. The suits, of which 150 were called yesterday, come within the jurisdiction of the municipal court because the amounts sued for are less than $1,000. Judgments aggregating $4,000 were entered yesterday in ten cases.

The board of tax appeals tomorrow afternoon will begin hearing complaints against the 1932 personal property assessment. Fifteen complaints from country towns are scheduled for hearing.

YACHT CLUB HELD UP.

Three bandits took $150 in a robbery of the Chicago Yacht club at Belmont harbor yesterday after tying the watchman, John Ferth, in a chair and knocking the combination off the safe.

TELLS JURY HOW STEVENS FAMILY RULED ILL. LIFE

Had 3 of 5 Finance Seats, Ex-Treasurer Says.

The affairs of the now defunct Illinois Life Insurance company were directly under the dominance of the Stevens family, since James W. Stevens and his two sons, Ernest J. and Raymond W. Stevens, were three of the five members of the finance committee which controlled the concern. Objections of other members of the finance committee to policies of the Stevenses were voted down.

Such was the testimony yesterday of Bert J. Stookey, former treasurer of the insurance company and cousin of Ernest J. Stevens, who is on trial in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg on charges of larceny and embezzlement of $1,600,000. Stookey testified that he had quarreled with the elder Stevens and the latter had at one time offered to buy out his 700 shares of stock in the company.

Stookey, a tall, gray haired man, was called as a state's witness, the first out of a dozen witnesses called thus far who is not now employed under Ernest J. Stevens, general manager of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, both of which he formerly owned. Both hotels are in receivership. Other witnesses summoned by the state still were employés of the hotel receivers and were former employés of the defendant.

Opposed Buying Hotel Bonds.

Under the questions of Prosecutors John O'Hora and Earl Hurley, Stookey said that he had objected on many occasions to investment of $1,000,000 in cash in the notes and third mortgage bonds of the Stevens hotel during 1931 and 1932. Ultimately, he said, he quarreled with James W. Stevens, chairman of the board of the insurance company. Stevens then offered to buy out his shares in the company, but was refused because "the price wasn't high enough."

Stookey said that, although he was treasurer, he had never known of the actual transaction through which the insurance company gave the hotel company $600,000 in cash on Dec. 4, 1931, and accepted a corporate note in payment. He said the transaction was not unusual, but later admitted that the transfer of the cash was unsecured. Treasurer Stookey said he had not known that the general mortgage bonds of the Stevens hotel were really third liens when the insurance company accepted them at par. He added that he did not know that the first mortgage bonds were then selling at 50 per cent of par value.

Hotel Auditor Testifies.

The last witness of the day was Charles S. Senyard, now auditor of the Stevens hotel. He identified several papers and disclosed himself to be distinctly hostile to the state.

Judge Feinberg announced that the trial would be recessed until tomorrow, the courts closing to observe the American Legion holiday. It was learned that three of the jurors and Bailiffs Louis Green, Fred G. Watts, and Louis Long, are Legionnaires. The bailiffs are keeping guard on the jury, which is locked up in a loop hotel.

BEAR CLAWS BOY TO DEATH WHEN IT BREAKS ITS CHAIN

Brookhaven, L. I., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Grant Taylor Jr., 11, was clawed to death today by a black bear that broke loose from a chain in the yard of a hunting lodge operated by Gardner Murdock, sportsmen's guide, near here.

As the bear lunged at an apple which the boy started to feed to the animal the chain snapped and freed the bear. The boy turned to dart aside, but the bear raised on its hind legs and clutched him. Passing motorists stood terrified while Fred Raynor, proprietor of a roadside stand, tried to shoot the bear. Fearing to hit the boy, he waited before firing until several men with poles had prodded the bear and forced it away.

The boy's neck was broken. His face and his legs also had been clawed badly. An examination of the bear indicated it had not had anything to eat for two days.

ACCOUNTING ON $300,000 CICERO FUND IS SOUGHT

The Cicero town board at a meeting last night authorized the filing of a suit against thirteen former officials and two present officials of the suburb, demanding that they account for approximately $300,000 in tax funds expended by the former administration.

Joseph G. Cerny, president of the board, initiated the action, which was concurred in unanimously by the trustees, two of whom are to be named as defendants. They are James Sedlacek and Fred Loyda. Town Attorney Edwin Turek said he would file the suit in the Superior court within a few days.

The accounting involves $2,593,703 in special tax assessments from 1927 to 1931, and specifically refers to the sums of $112,000 and $187,000. It is charged that the $112,000 represents an illegal collection of interest on the assessments. According to Attorney Turek, the town is allowed 6 per cent on assessments for engineers, legal and collection fees. The former administration, he asserted, collected 5 per cent additional, amounting to $112,000. The $187,000, Turek declared, represents alleged overdrafts on assessments. Among the defendants to be named is Joseph Klenha, former president of the board.

INSTALL RADIO PLANT AT COAST GUARD STATION

Installation of a powerful radio plant at the Wilmette coast guard station has been completed and the plant will be ready for operation on Thursday, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. S. F. Gray, chief communication officer of the Chicago division of the coast guard.

The new plant, which will be used for carrying distress signals for a radius of 500 miles, will serve as a main traffic station connecting the great lakes and the flood areas of the Ohio and Mississippi river basins.

Chief Radio Officer Edward Horrigan and seven men will operate the station. The new equipment includes a radio compass, which gives the location of S. O. S. signals, three 200-watt transmitters, four radio receivers, a power plant, and a teletype and telegraph system.

American Slain; 50,000 Watch Battle.

reported that it was Ferrer who advised the officers to surrender. Many of the officers are connected with old Spanish families in Cuba.

Reports were in wide circulation late tonight that the next political move may be the establishment of Col. Batista as military dictator of Cuba. The presidential palace denies this, but it is generally regarded as more than a mere probability. As affairs stand, Col. Batista is the real power in the Grau régime.

After the reported massacre of the surrendered officers at the hotel entrance an onslaught on the soldiers occurred tonight as they were returning from Cabanas fortress, across the harbor, where they had taken their prisoners. The officers are being held incommunicado in the fortress.

Fire Upon Marching Troops.

Near the waterfront members of the A B C secret society, which has been seeking to oust President Grau, poured shots into the soldiers from rooftops as the latter marched back. Another battle was on immediately. The fusillade lasted several minutes and it is reported that several soldiers were killed and a number of others wounded.

All day 50,000 Cubans watched the bloody fighting which centered around the twin towered hotel atop its thirty foot rock in a setting of swaying palms and dancing gulf waters.

Directing the fight from the hotel was Col. Julio Sanguily, former army chief of staff and a leader of the army revolt and coup d'état that put Machado to flight on Aug. 12. Second in command was Col. Alvarez del Real, former navy chief of staff. With them was Capt. Torres Menier, former chief of the aviation corps.

The battle opened at 5:45 a. m. Each side accused the other of having started it. But regardless of whether the officers or soldiers fired the first shots, it appears to have been part of a formulated plan to overthrow the Grau San Martin government.

Various counter-revolutionary groups participated in the plans—the ABC, the Nationalists under Col. Carlos Mendieta, and the Menocalists under former President Mario G. Menocal, the Marianistas under Miguel Mariano Gomez, former mayor of Havana; Emilio Laurent, who was deposed as chief of police Saturday, and other elements.

About 2 o'clock this morning a bomb exploded at Merced and Damas streets, demolishing a street car. Out of the welter of conflicting reports it appears that the explosion was the signal for the counter-revolutionaries to attack police stations and capture them in expectation that the police would join the revolt against the Grau government. This part of the supposed coup fizzled. The ABC and other groups did not move upon police stations.

Battle Begins at Dawn.

At daybreak the officers, attempting to carry out their part of the program, made an effort to get out of the beleaguered hotel and the battle began.

In the early hours of the fighting the Carreno building, a seven story office and apartment structure just across the roadway from the hotel, was the center of the battle. Here the soldiers were concentrated and here the early casualties were the greatest.

THE TRIBUNE press car arrived there within an hour after the action started. Along the Malecon drive soldiers were scattered behind pillars and in porticoes of buildings out of range of the fire. In Maceo park marines in white uniforms were in the dry basin of a great fountain.

Set Up Red Cross Station.

At the Carreno building a first aid station was set up. Doctors and Red Cross nurses were kept busy while ambulances were removing casualties to the hospitals. From the surrounding rooftops snipers of both sides made the streets whistle with bullets.

From the portico of the Carreno building three soldiers were seen a few hundred feet away trying to climb the face of the rock to the hotel. The first one up got a bullet in the shoulder and they all fell back. The hotel itself appeared deserted, and one would not have known it was inhabited except for the hail of bullets which emanated from it.

Officers Good Marksmen.

The officers displayed great marksmanship. Among them are members of champion rifle teams, and the appearance of a head or shoulder at the Carreno building was followed by a swift shot.

In the middle of the boulevard was one group of soldiers with portable machine guns, sheltered by the base of the Machado monument which the mobs dismantled when the former president fled on Aug. 12. One sniper took a quick look around the corner of the monument and then edged his rifle around slowly. Before he could discharge his gun he was hit with a bullet from the hotel, his finger taken off at the trigger guard.

The Edificio America, an apartment house on the ridge of N street, where some 40 American families reside, was spattered with rifle and machine gun bullets. The shooting was such that in one door five bullet holes were made inside a six inch circle and a shell from a one pounder smashed a corner and sent the brickwork flying.

The Castro, another nearby apartment building, was bombarded until its tenants fled elsewhere for safety. The Edificio Lopez Serrano, the finest modern type apartment building in Havana, was a target for snipers from all directions. It was here that Lotspeich was killed when he went to the roof to see the battle.

More light artillery was brought up by the army and the hotel was bombarded.

The hotel inside is a scene of wreckage. Explosive shells ripped through the walls, tore open many of the floors, and burst water pipes. Blood seemed to be everywhere. One dead officer sprawled in the tennis court with his face blown off. Other dead bodies lay on divans and on tesselated floors. As the water pipes burst a precipitation like rainfall seeped from floor to floor. Floors were a mass of mud and water. The walls had a dozen shellholes a foot or more in diameter.

Armistice Is Arranged.

After five hours of fighting Dr. Antonio Gonzales de Mendoza managed to arrange an armistice between the officers and Batista, to last from noon until 3 o'clock. The purpose was to take care of casualties at the hotel and see if the officers would surrender.

At 3 o'clock the officers had not struck their colors and the army prepared to renew the bombardment. About 1,000 spectators, grouped on the streets and on rocks where they could survey the scene, ducked to shelter when the firing started again.

This time the fighting lasted until 4:30 o'clock, when the officers raised the white flag. The massacre of officers followed soon afterward.

During the armistice the American consul general, Frederick T. F. Dumont, sent two buses to the Vedado residential section, near the scene of the fighting, and brought 40 Americans to safer places.

AMERICAN SLAIN IN HAVANA HAD RELATIVES HERE

Sister Lives in Chicago, Brother in Evanston.

Robert G. Lotspeich, 52, who was killed in Havana yesterday by a stray bullet, is survived by a brother and a sister living in Evanston and Chicago, respectively.

Their brother had lived in Cuba for 27 years. Since 1908 he had been employed by Swift & Co. He was assistant manager of the company's offices at the time of his death. The body will probably be taken to London, O., for burial beside those of his parents, Mr. Lotspeich said.

Killed Watching Battle.

Lotspeich was killed while he was watching fighting between Cuban soldiers and the officers who have been barricaded for 25 days in the National hotel at Havana, from the top of the Lopez Serrano apartments, where he lived. The apartment building, according to R. V. Waters and Irving N. Donnin, delegates from the Havana Legion post to the national convention in Chicago, has been a favorite observation point for American residents there and their friends during the recent Cuban disturbances.

Waters is president of an electrical equipment company and Donnin is advertising manager for a large Havana department store. The American residents of Havana, they said, are overwhelmingly opposed to intervention by the United States. Anti-American feeling at present, they said, is confined to a few political agitators, and the Americans living in Cuba have felt few apprehensions as to their own safety.

NO U. S. INTERVENTION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The American government continued to hold itself from intervention in Cuba today despite a boiling unrest that burst into open conflict in the Cuban capital and brought death to an American citizen.

Secretary of State Hull watched the Cuban situation closely throughout the day and gave particular attention to guarding against loss of life among the 3,000 Americans residing in the capital city.

Definite assurance that no change in policy toward Cuba is in contemplation was given by Secretary Hull as news of the battle and the killing of Robert Lotspeich, a representative of Swift & Co., gave rise to conjecture as to whether armed men from the American warships encircling the island would be landed.

Unrest Throughout Island.

Advices from other points in the island gave little ground for optimism. Terse consular dispatches indicated widespread communist resentment against the activities of the army and new threats of general strikes.

American officials carefully scanned the map on which the position of the numerous warships around the island is shown with brightly colored tacks. There was a possibility that several vessels might be concentrated at Havana, but no formal decision to that effect was made immediately. The Cruiser Richmond and two destroyers already are on watch in Havana harbor.

In addition, navy department officials said the battleship Wyoming, which takes 541 marines aboard at Norfolk on Wednesday, may go to Cuban waters. Its course will depend on developments.

Fifteen hundred marines were available at Quantico, Va., ready to leave on a moment's notice if necessary.

WOMAN KILLED BY EARTHQUAKE IN LOS ANGELES

South California Has New Shocks.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Survey of the damage left in the wake of the sharp earthquake which jolted southern California early today was being made tonight. The destruction was estimated to run into high figures, but not nearly so great as that caused by the last quake on March 10 when $50,000,000 damage resulted.

One death and several serious injuries were caused by the temblor. Virtually all the injured, all but one being in Los Angeles, were hurt fleeing from their residences.

Woman of 73 Is Killed.

Mrs. Sophia Kanapow, 73 years old, was the one known fatality.

Three mild after shocks were felt here and at Long Beach, where many lost their lives in the March quake. Shocks were noted at 4 a. m., 5:26 a. m., and 7:40 a. m. A slight tremor in the Imperial valley at 8:54 a. m. was reported.

Apparently centering in the coastal area 22 miles southwest of Los Angeles, the quake was felt as far as Santa Barbara on the north, San Diego to the south, and San Bernadino to the east.

The building damage was greatest in Los Angeles, where bricks were dislodged and many plate glass windows broken.

Quake Hits Ecuador.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Three earthshocks of about equal violence occurred here today, cracking the walls of a number of buildings and sending the panic stricken populace into the streets.

The first shock, which occurred at 10:10 a. m., lasted about 90 seconds. It was followed within the next twenty minutes by two more.

Unofficial reports said that the shocks were felt along the whole coast of Ecuador, and, with less intensity, in the interior.

LINDBERGHS RECEIVED BY KING HAAKON; THEN CONFER WITH AIRMEN

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 2.—(AP)—An audience with King Haakon VII. and sightseeing trips today occupied the time of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who arrived yesterday by plane from Tallinn, Estonia.

After the couple was received by the king, Mrs. Lindbergh was taken on an automobile trip around town while the colonel made a three hour visit to the army's aviation field 15 miles away. There the American aviator chatted with the Norwegian flyers and inspected various types of planes.

The Lindberghs also conferred with meteorological and aviation experts, receiving in return a promise of full information on flying conditions along the eastern Norway coast. Unconfirmed reports said the colonel might dismantle his plane, in which the couple flew across the North Atlantic and visited several north European countries on a mapping expedition.

3 UNIVERSITIES ENTER SUIT OVER DOG VIVISECTION

Judge Robert E. Gentzel in the Superior court yesterday granted Attorney Angus Roy Shannon, representing three universities, the right to file an intervening petition in the suit brought by Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin to restrain the enforcement of the city ordinance permitting vivisection of dogs. Attorney Shannon represents the University of Illinois, the University of Chicago and Loyola university, whose medical schools draw dogs from the city pound for vivisection purposes.

Attorney Shannon was given ten days in which to file his petition. Mrs. McLaughlin's suit will be heard by Master in Chancery Cornelius J. Harrington. The suit was brought last summer on behalf of Arthur Koestner, 12 years old, 3538 South Winchester avenue. The boy's dog had been taken to the pound because it carried no license.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion.

HOTEL WRECKED IN CUBAN BATTLE AMERICAN OWNED

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The National hotel, which was wrecked in today's battle in Havana, is entirely American owned and controlled and is one of the most ornate and costly south of the United States.

It was designed by Lawrence Grant White, son of the late Stanford White and vice president of the architectural firm of McKim, Mead & White. The hotel was built three years ago and was opened on New Year's eve, 1930. It represents an investment of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. Many New Yorkers hold stock in the enterprise.

The hotel stands on a site directly opposite the Maine monument. Built on a slope, it is eight stories high on one side and ten on the other.

The building was financed by the National City bank and was built by the Fuller company. It is operated by the United States Realty corporation.

JURORS ACQUIT GUS WINKLER IN VAGRANCY CASE

Judge Forces Trial Despite Defense Pleas.

Gus Winkler, north side gang leader, who was forced to a speedy trial under the new "vagrancy reputation" law by judge Thomas A. Green in the Felony court yesterday, was acquitted by a jury last evening. The jurors deliberated an hour before returning the verdict.

Judge Green, who throughout the trial had emphatically denied all motions of Attorneys W. W. Smith and Harold Levy for the defense—and their motions were numerous—expressed surprise at the verdict.

"I cannot understand how you could arrive at such a verdict," he told the jurors. "There was no denial of the state's testimony. You jurors are discharged from all further service in this courtroom, and don't come back here any more."

Winkler Not on Stand.

Winkler did not testify in his own behalf. He had no witnesses to combat the prosecution testimony that he was a gunman, a hoodlum and a racketeer, as well as a bank robber. The defense attorneys in their closing arguments shouted that their client was being persecuted, and pointed to the fact that Winkler is already under conviction for gun toting, and that the new charge was based on the same case.

The vagrancy warrant had been served on Winkler after he was released by the government on Saturday. The hoodlum had been held for questioning concerning the murder of Policeman Miles Cunningham by fleeing mail robbers.

Defense Attorney Smith opened the hearing with a request for a jury trial and asked if he might have a continuance to prepare his case.

"No," Judge Green answered, "call a jury."

"We would like a change of venue," Attorney Smith said.

"Has the state been served notice that the defense would ask a change of venue?" Judge Green asked.

"No," Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash told him.

"Motion denied," Judge Green declared. "Call a jury."

"Your honor," Attorney Smith interjected, "by your own language you show that you cannot hear this case without prejudice."

Police Lieutenant Testifies.

Police Lieutenant John Howe was called by the state and testified that he is assigned to gangsters and racketeers. He said he had known Winkler since 1931.

"Do you know his occupation?" Prosecutor Nash asked.

"Yes," Lieut. Howe replied, "he is a bank robber and racketeer."

Lieut. Howe testified on direct examination that he had once served a previous vagrancy warrant [issued by Judge John H. Lyle] on Winkler. Attorney Smith seized on this bit of testimony on cross-examination and started to show by questioning the witness that Winkler had been found not guilty on that vagrancy charge. Prosecutor Nash voiced an objection.

"Sustained," Judge Green ruled and then reversed the decision. "No—wait," he said. "Answer that question and it opens the door and the state can ask anything it wants. Go ahead."

"I withdraw the question," Attorney Smith said.

"No you don't," Judge Green told him. "I've ruled."

Lieut. Howe testified that Winkler had a reputation for "continually violating the laws of the state and the United States." Winkler "habitually carried machine guns and other fire arms," the witness said.

Other Hoodlum Trials Set.

Seven other alleged hoodlums appeared before Judge Green during the day. Vagrancy cases against Hymie Levin, once collector for the Capone gang, and Willie Francis, north side bootlegger, were dismissed for want of prosecution. The judge set Oct. 9 as the date for the trials of Martin O'Leary, alleged Touhy gangster; Paul Marino and James Micelli, west side gangsters; John [West Side] Jack Barry, and Sanford [Gimp] Rosenbaum, bodyguard of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell. A jury disagreed in a previous vagrancy trial of Rosenbaum.

James Belcastro, known as king of the bombers, who was recently convicted under the criminal reputation law and is now at liberty under bonds, pending appeal, was formally charged with disorderly conduct yesterday at the detective bureau.

Four men, alleged members of his hoodlum group, also were booked. They are Michael Madeira, 39 years old; James Catuara, 27; William Palmero, 27; and Rocco Fanelli, 33. Belcastro and Madeira were released on bonds of $50 on the new charge, but the others, charged with being vagrants, were held for $10,000 bail, which they could not furnish last night.

DEMANDS DEATH FOR 5 IN POKER HOLDUP SLAYING

State Closes Its Case Against Youths.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Stolen, 83; recovered, 59; stripped, 5 [from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Sunday.]

The state late yesterday closed its case against five west side youths, who are charged with murdering Vito Pisciatti, 3152 5th avenue, during the robbery of a private poker game in the Piscatti home last February. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller is asking for the death penalty for all the defendants.

Mrs. Anna Pisciatti, the widow, collapsed in the courtroom late yesterday as a vivid description of the events leading up to the murder was being given to the jury by Victor La Chiana, 724 South Tripp avenue, one of the poker players. She was carried from the courtroom and revived.

The defendants in the case are James Palumbo, 23 years old; John Terracino, 20; Frank Pascocciello, 19; Tony Venezia, 19, and Sam Mirabile, 25. Palumbo is alleged to have fired the fatal shot.

Judge Admits Confession.

Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, who is presiding over the trial, allowed the prosecution to introduce the confessions of the defendants as the closing evidence for the state. The youths had alleged that the police had obtained the confessions by third degree methods, but the judge ruled they were voluntarily given.

The Criminal court judges, who fell heir to a well developed crime war started by Judge John Prystalski, former chief justice of the court, and a group of volunteer judges, announced a holiday for today. Five of the ten judges now assigned to the court started the holiday by closing their courts by 3 o'clock yesterday.

Although Judge Epstein will give his jury a chance to view the American Legion parade, he announced that he will make up for the lost time by holding an afternoon session of court, starting at 2 o'clock and running until late in the evening.

Five Sentenced to Prison.

The judges imposed five penitentiary sentences yesterday, although fifty-four cases appeared on the dockets. Those sentences were:

HAROLD LIGHTHEART, 19 YEARS OLD; HIS BROTHER VERNON, 23, AND WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM, 19, sentenced to 1 year to life each by Judge Walter Steffen. They were convicted of entering the garage of Mrs. Celia Brown, 835 Fair Oaks avenue, Oak Park, on July 16 and stripping her car.

AL FREEWALT, 16, AND STEVE OCHAD, 17, sentenced to 1 year each in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller. They robbed a beer tavern on Aug. 16.

The sentences imposed yesterday brought the total up to 356 since the crime war was started on Aug. 1 by Judge Prystalski.

An application for a writ of supersedeas to stay the execution of John Scheck, police killer, was filed before the Supreme court in Springfield yesterday. The court announced a decision on the writ would be given later. Scheck, murderer of Policeman John Sevick, is scheduled to be executed Oct. 13.

SALTIS GIVES UP AND FINDS HOW TO SPELL HIS NAME

Joe Saltis, beer runner and gangster, walked into the police building at 11th and State streets yesterday and surrendered on the vagrancy reputation warrant which had been pending against him since last Thursday. On that day Saltis, discovering that a bondsman had refused to provide a $10,000 bond, walked out of the court of Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green.

Yesterday when he appeared he was accompanied by his attorney, Joe Crane, who carried an approved bond. Saltis was sent to the bureau of identification. When Chief of Detectives Schoemaker asked Saltis how he spelled his name, the gangster spelled it: "S-O-L-T-I-S."

"The name is S-A-L-T-I-S," corrected his lawyer.

Saltis' face became red. "Spell it any way you wish," he said.

He was then released.

ITALY TRANSMITS A STARBEAM TO ILLUMINATE FAIR

Total, including Oct. 1, 1893 [154 days], 14,709,512.
The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A beam from the star Capella, captured in a telescope at Florence, Italy, was transmitted to Chicago by telegraph and wireless last night to throw the master switch lighting the World's Fair as Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, was honored by scientific societies, national groups, and city, state and Fair officials.

The radio engineer, who is a marchese and senator of Italy, entered the Court of Honor at the Fair in company with Marchesa Marconi at 4:30 p. m. Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair, received the inventor and presented to him a bronze World's Fair medal. The official party was then escorted to the court of the Hall of Science, where Dr. Henry Crew, head of the department of basic sciences, received them.

Only 29 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

Arcturus Out of Job for Night.

The light from Capella was transmitted for the lighting ceremony because the position of the star was such that a beam could be intercepted in Florence. Thus, Arcturus, the star whose beams heretofore have thrown the switch at the Fair each evening, was out of a job for a night.

More than 5,000 persons stood with bared heads in the court of the Hall of Science as the ceremony, made possible by Marconi's invention, took place.

The lighting ceremony, however, was only one of the events demonstrating some of the wonders of modern methods of communication. Marconi sat at a telegraph key and sent the letter S westward by wireless. A few minutes later the letter was received from the east after having circled the globe. The letter S was chosen because it had been used by Marconi in transmitting the first wireless signals across the Atlantic 32 years ago.

Messages from Land, Sea, Air.

There was a program to demonstrate the flexibility of radio, messages being received from land, sea, and air. From the land came a short wave message sent from Times square in New York. From the sea came a few words from Claude A. Swanson, secretary of the navy, aboard the cruiser Indianapolis in the harbor of Honolulu. The message from the air was a weather forecast transmitted from an airplane at the Pittsburgh airport.

Preceding the ceremony Dr. John W. Van Allen, radio counsel, presented a plaque to Marconi in behalf of the Radio Manufacturers' association. Dr. Philip Fox, director of Adler planetarium, presided and spoke briefly. Other speakers included Mr. Dawes and Prof. A. H. Compton of the University of Chicago.

Sunday Throng Second Biggest.

With the visit of the radio engineer and the reception tendered President Roosevelt as the major drawing cards, yesterday's attendance reached a total of 124,620 at 11:30 p. m. This was fewer than half the total attained Sunday, when 274,396 paid admissions marked the second largest day of the Fair. Early reports showed Sunday as the third largest day of the Fair, on the basis of the gate tabulations. Corrected reports yesterday, based on the auditor's report, pushed the day into second place, exceeded only by the high record of 367,004 on Sept. 3.

A reception for Senator Marconi will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Italian pavilion. Commander Luigi Rannieris, manager of the pavilion, will read a telegram of congratulation from Prince Potenziani, Italian commissioner to the Fair, and will present a gold medal to the inventor. Nicola Sansanelli, former secretary general of the Fascist party, will present a message to the American Legion from Premier Mussolini. Sansanelli, who is now head of Fidac, allied veterans' organization, is in Chicago as a special guest of the Legion.

The American Legion, on parade today, will enter the grounds at the Roosevelt road gate and pass out through the 14th street gate to Soldiers' field. The veterans' parading through a corner of the grounds will be the only special event of Legion day at the Fair. Legion officials declined any further program, asserting that the veterans would rather "take their fun as they found it."

SHOT BY HIS BROTHER.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

A play by play account of the first game of the world's series will be broadcast from the northwest terrace of the Sears-Roebuck building, at the north end of the Avenue of Flags, beginning at 12:30 today. Visitors can watch the American Legion parade and listen to the broadcast at the same time from the vicinity of this building.

Finishing touches were put on the footbridge at the Roosevelt road entrance yesterday. The bridge will enable pedestrians to cross the line of march of the American Legion parade to reach the ticket offices at the gate.

A party of 42 tourists from Italy, including 17 world war veterans, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow over the New York Central lines to visit the Fair.

Gov. J. Marion Futrell of Arkansas is expected to visit the Fair with thousands of Arkansas residents Wednesday, Oct. 18, to celebrate their state's day at the Fair. The program will be held in the Arkansas state exhibit and in the Court of States.

More than 500 members of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company organization will arrive by special train from Akron, O., next Saturday to take part in Firestone day ceremonies at the Fair next Monday. Harvey S. Firestone, chairman, and J. W. Thomas, president of the company, will present prizes to winners of the Firestone Century of Progress sales contest, which closes next week. A parade down the Avenue of Flags will be followed by ceremonies in the model tire factory in the Firestone exhibit, near 23d street.

The Racine [Wis.] American Legion post drum and bugle corps, winner in the recent Chicagoland Music festival sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, in Soldiers' field, gave a concert yesterday before the Pantheon de la Guerre. The Salem [Ore.] Capital post, present national champion, will give a concert today at 2:30 p. m., and the Man o' War post of Lexington, Ky., will be heard at 5 p. m. The latter corps wears jockey uniforms.

The noted Tipica police band of Mexico City will arrive in Chicago Saturday to play a series of concerts at the Fair during Chicago week, which opens Friday. In addition to the 55 musicians playing string and brass instruments and the marimba, the band will bring a troupe of singers and dancers to the Fair.

Francois Latour, former mayor of Paris, visited the Fair yesterday with members of the party of 14 who came with him from France to see the Exposition.

Baron Erik Fleming of Sweden, director of the Swedish Association of Fine Arts and an outstanding silversmith of his country, will visit the Swedish pavilion at the Fair today. Thirty-five of his own productions are on display there.

Kill that COLD!

Don't Merely Coddle It with Half-Way Measures!

A cold is nothing to trifle with! It may end seriously. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for an internal treatment. It also calls for a COLD remedy and not something good for a number of other things as well.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is direct and internal—and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is taking chances with a cold. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is sold by all druggists, 30c and 50c. Accept no substitute.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invites every File sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

Dr. Leonhardt Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Deathbed Privileges Are Lost Through Law.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The reich's small farmers today lost their deathbed privilege of choosing their successors through a law signed by Chancellor Adolf Hitler creating a peasant class, virtually forbidding the selling or dividing of land among heirs and removing the privilege of inheritance from Jews.

"The farm owner," the law read, "shall henceforth be called a peasant. A peasant must only be a German citizen of German or kindred blood and honorable."

Eldest Becomes Sole Heir.

It provided that the eldest son or daughter shall become the sole heir, and that succession no longer shall be determined by testament.

"Inheritable" lands were defined as tracts including both forest and arable land possessed by a capable farmer and not exceeding more than 310 acres. Only if the debts exceed one-third of the farm's value can the traditional farm be subdivided or sold. A supreme farm court will be created to settle the cases.

The chancellor's idea was explained as based on a desire to preserve the continuity of the small farmer class. The name "peasant," as now officially applied to them in distinction from the big landowners was meant to confer an honor.

Under the law, aryans were described as those whose families have been without Jewish blood or other strains since Jan. 1, 1800.

Mendelssohn's Grandson Fired.

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Prof. Albrecht Mendelssohn Bartholdy, grandson of the composer, Mendelssohn, was dismissed today from the University of Hamburg and the Institute of Foreign Affairs, of which he was the head.

Famous in international law, Bartholdy was dismissed because of his Jewish nationality. He was a pioneer in agitating against the claim of Germany's sole war guilt. His grandfather's music is no longer played nationally.

Gerhart Essar, a noted Jewish professor of civil law, decorated in the war, also was dismissed.

It was learned a prominent non-Jewish professor, Kurt Perels, of the law faculty, committed suicide a fortnight ago upon being informed that while he might remain in the university, he would no longer be permitted to lecture on his favorite subject or to serve on the examination board.

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—Surrounded by his family, President Paul von Hindenburg today spent his 86th birthday on his Neudeck estate in East Prussia. The president received local school children and presented them with chocolates.

Chancellor Hitler arrived at Neudeck by plane in the afternoon to extend his congratulations. Hitler and high East Prussian officials attended a birthday banquet in the evening.

League Reports World-Wide Improvement in Business

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Oct. 2.—World-wide improvement in industrial production, trade, and employment was reported today by Alexander Loveday, director of the league of nation's financial section, and by the league's labor office.

Mr. Loveday, whose section includes the league's world economic intelligence service, stressed the world-wide character of the recovery in addressing the commission. Comparing the volume of industrial production with the previous year, he mentioned "remarkable progress" in the United States, where production had risen 70 per cent in this period.

Finds U. S. Setting Pace.

"But recovery is not confined to the United States, although there it has been most rapid," he added. "Thus industrial production has risen during the same period by 22 per cent in France, 18 per cent in Germany, and Japan, and 11 per cent in Canada.

"A scientific institute in Germany has calculated that, between June, 1932, and July, 1933, the growth of industrial production in the world as a whole, excluding the U. S. S. R., has risen by over 30 per cent."

The fact that France, the leader of the gold bloc, is recovering faster than any nongold country except the United States made an impression on the commission.

"The rapid contraction of international trade would appear to have been checked at any rate for the moment," Loveday continued. "The monthly trade returns for July, 1933, of forty-nine countries representing nine-tenths of world trade show that the value of such trade, calculated in good currencies, is greater than during the corresponding months of the preceding year, a statement which could not be made of any earlier month since the beginning of the depression."

The value of world exports, he continued, rose by as much as 10 per cent between April and July this year. The greatest increase was in the exports of countries producing materials and crude foodstuffs. Mr. Loveday warned there would probably be some seasonal slumps during the winter, and he stressed the importance of recognizing this as "perfectly normal."

The international labor office, in its quarterly unemployment statistics covering July, August, and September, said that, for the first time since the beginning of the economic depression, they showed improvement. Compared with a year ago, and with seasonal movements eliminated, there was "a substantial diminution in the number of unemployed recorded, particularly in Australia, Belgium, Canada, Chile, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, Ireland, Italy, Portugal, and Rumania."

The United States' employment index, the report said, showed in July "a considerable improvement," which seems since to have been accentuated.

Idle Increase in Four Nations.

Unemployment increased only in Austria, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Slavia. Figures compiled on different basis in Holland, Sweden, and Switzerland showed contradictory tendencies, and "in France employment statistics apparently give the lie to the improvement indicated by unemployment statistics."

Comparing September, 1932, with last month, the reports show unemployment dropped in Great Britain from 2,946,808 to 2,458,744, in Germany from 5,233,810 to 4,127,584, and in France from 298,479 to 265,902, and rose in Austria from 269,179 to 291,224.

Comparing August, 1932, with August, 1933, unemployment fell in Italy from 931,291 to 824,195, and in Poland from 218,059 to 215,017, and rose in Czechoslovakia from 460,952 to 621,000.

FRANCE WARNS BRITAIN TO STICK BY HER ON ARMS

"Threatens" an Alliance with Germany.

BY EDMOND TAYOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 2.—A veiled threat that unless Great Britain sticks by France in disarmament negotiations, the latter will be obliged to form an alliance with Germany, thus destroying the balance of power in Europe, was made in the semi-official Temps today.

In the meantime the Germans are making strong efforts to cajole France into direct negotiations on arms. Dr. Joseph Goebbels, reich's minister of propaganda and public enlightenment, in encounters with the French at Geneva is said to have made a favorable impression. In a secret luncheon with Henri Berenger, chairman of the senate foreign affairs committee and second French delegate, he formally gave assurance that Germany has no designs on Alsace-Lorraine.

Renew Attack on Government.

The right wing attack launched against the government by Pertinax, famous political writer, in the Echo de Paris this morning was continued in the afternoon press. With the annual congress governing the Radical party scheduled to open at Vichy next Friday, Premier Edouard Daladier will have a stiff fight to put his disarmament intentions across.

Daladier and Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour, having accepted last spring the MacDonald plan as the basis of discussion, never entered any objections in the current negotiations to cutting down the term of service in the French army at the same time the long term German army of 100,000 men is transformed to a militia of 200,000 men.

As a safeguard, the French will insist on an interval, probably the first year of a four-year trial period, before they begin to cut down the term of service and effectives—not to 200,000, as the right charges, but 400,000, the remaining 200,000 being colonials. The French will reduce service to nine months with no leaves, which roughly is equivalent to the present year's enlistment with leaves.

The French are placing principal emphasis on control of armaments because they expect the Germans will commit violations. Hence France believes she will be released from her obligations and will have the moral support of the world.

Offer Germany Militia.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, walked back into his headquarters today full of disarmament news which he released after a half hour talk with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. His journey corresponds with similar trips by other disarmament conference delegates who are anxious to report to their governments at Berlin and Rome before they resume swapping ideas at Geneva again at the end of the week.

A few concrete facts emerged after the MacDonald-Simon meeting. They indicate strongly just how the disarmament negotiations have progressed.

It is learned on the best authority that the German demands for "sample" armaments, such as pursuit planes and anti-aircraft ordnance, which are forbidden under the treaty of Versailles, have been flatly rejected by France with the support of the United States and Great Britain.

Hold Out Rewards.

In order to induce the Germans to forego the desire for these weapons, the following rewards are being held out to Berlin: Germany will be allowed to increase her army of 100,000 professional soldiers with a 12 year term of service into a kind of militia with twice as many men. Great Britain, France, and Italy, as signatories of the four power pact, and the United States, as a member of the disarmament conference, have agreed that each new recruit in the reichswehr should be issued a rifle and bayonet so that he can be called a real soldier. There would also be a proportionate expansion of machine guns and other light armaments.

PHONE CO. WINS, BUT IT APPEALS DECREE ON RATES

$25,000,000 Case Taken Up by Both Sides.

Federal Judges Will M. Sparks and James M. Wilkerson yesterday entered an order allowing the Illinois Bell Telephone company to appeal to the United States Supreme court from a decision which it won in the city's $25,000,000 telephone rate case.

The city has filed a previous appeal, so as a result of yesterday's action both the city and the telephone company are now appealing from the same decree, which made permanent an injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing certain reductions in coin box rates. The decree was entered last June by Judges Sparks, Wilkerson, and Evan A. Evans setting as a special statutory court on utility rate cases.

Why Company Appeals.

Although granted the relief sought, the telephone company objected to certain findings of fact in the decree relating to fair value of telephone property, reasonable operating expenses, and the fair rate of return. The company stated it did not wish to be bound by the special court's finding in future litigation. The company, in opposing the city's appeal, also wishes to urge 25 alleged errors of the court.

The issues which the company contends were erroneously decided by the court are also included in the city's assignment of errors, and the unusual action of both sides in appealing this case indicates, it is said, that the special court's findings were the result of a compromise. For example, the telephone company claims that the court deducted for depreciation twice as much as it should have deducted, while the city contends that the deductions were from $4,700,000 to $17,300,000 less than they should have been. The court deducted for depreciation 16 per cent for the years 1923 to 1928 and 15 per cent thereafter.

Clash on Compensation.

The special court allowed as proper operating expenses for the period 1923 to 1931, $10,000,000 to cover compensation to the American Telephone and Telegraph company for rental of instruments and for financial, engineering, and other services. The company claims that this amount is $4,000,000 less than it actually paid to the A. T. & T., while the city contends that the $10,000,000 allowance was $6,000,000 too high. This excess, the city argues, represented payments to cover part of the cost of raising capital to buy stock in the Illinois Bell, and to develop inventions.

The A. T. & T., according to the city, received $40,000,000 from moving picture talking inventions, giving the Illinois Bell company no credit for any portion of this amount.

Should the lower court's decision be upset by the Supreme court, as the city demands, $25,000,000 would be returned to telephone subscribers and the commerce commission's rates would mean a future saving of $2,000,000 year. The city, represented by Attorneys Benjamin F. Goldstein and George I. Haight, has moved to advance the date of the hearing on the appeal to Jan. 15, and the Supreme court will rule on this motion Oct. 9.

ASK CRA TO FIND MEANS TO HALT TAX LEVY SUITS

The Chicago recovery administration, the body created by Mayor Kelly to effect further economies in governmental operations, listened yesterday to a suggestion for eliminating in the future legal actions attacking the tax levies of the local governments. It was proposed to submit the levies to the county judge for approval before the taxes actually are extended.

The proposal was embodied in a report to the CRA executive committee from its committee on the collection of delinquent taxes. Frank J. O'Brien, vice president of the McKey & Poague real estate firm, was acting chairman of the delinquent taxes committee at the session.

BRITAINS LABOR PARTY VOTES TO BAN 'SEMI-REDS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Violent debates marked the Labor party's convention at Hastings today. Amid uproar a ban was voted on semi-communist organizations as a prelude to a dispute in which party leaders were defeated on a plan to accept enrollments and contributions of associate members.

These encounters combined with a spirited attack on Fascism by Joseph Compton in the presidential address and still another outburst over a motion to change the party's name from Labor to Socialist provided an exciting session.

The attack on dictatorships went unchallenged, but Arthur Henderson, foreign minister in the last Labor government, succeeded in shelving a scheme to alter the party label.

A resolution to eschew association with semi-red groups such as the anti-war council was assaulted from all sides of the hall. The opposition lost to party chieftains as represented by two former ministers, Herbert Morrison and E. M. Shinwell. They openly exhorted some of the party leaders with Muscovite leanings to come out in the open instead of working for the communists within the Labor party.

RISKS HER LIFE TO SAVE WOMAN; NAME UNKNOWN

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—An unidentified woman rescued a young woman from the East river tonight after the car which the latter had been learning to drive had hurtled over a string piece at the foot of East 64th street. A man was believed to have been trapped in the closed car and drowned.

The woman who was rescued was Miss Elizabeth Baganz, 25 years old.

Witnesses related that a woman jumped out of an automobile, dived into the river and swam to the spot where Miss Baganz was floating after she had managed to get out of her car through the open window at the driver's seat. The unidentified woman kept Miss Baganz afloat while spectators got a life preserver and a ladder. By means of the life preserver the unidentified woman dragged Miss Baganz to the side of the bulkhead, where she was pulled up the ladder to safety.

Bomb Blast Damages South Side Home $500

A bomb explosion wrecked the front porch of the home of Peter Matoz at 10934 Prospect avenue early this morning, doing about $500 damage and shaking Matoz and his family. He said he did not know the motive for the attack. Police recalled that Matoz was questioned a year ago about the finding of a still in the Blue Island Riding academy, of which he was suspected of being a part operator.

CONTEMPT MOVE BRINGS ANOTHER TO MALONE QUIZ

Another witness in the William H. Malone income tax inquiry went before the federal grand jury yesterday in the face of contempt action and presumably told what he could of Malone's financial affairs. The witness was Frank L. Tuttle, Des Plaines lawyer, who had been ordered by Federal Judge John P. Barnes to go back to the grand jury after the United States attorney's office made a presentment against him.

Tuttle and Robert L. Blim, another lawyer, were cited for contempt last week and their cases heard and taken under advisement by Judge Barnes for a decision today. Tuttle appeared with counsel yesterday, stating he wished to make full and complete answers concerning the disposition of fees paid him by the Pullman company in tax adjustment cases, and he was permitted to go before the grand jury again.

Only Blim now remains to be punished by the court in the event he does not change his mind.

Asks Dismissal of Suit to Impound Account.

Formal denial that Samuel Insull maintains a secret account in the Harris Trust and Savings bank was filed in the Federal District court yesterday by the law firm of Chapman & Cutter, representing the bank. Earlier in the day an order restraining withdrawals from the alleged Insull account was issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes upon a motion by Attorney Samuel Ettelson, representing an Insull creditor.

The allegations in Mr. Ettelson's bill of complaint that Insull deposited more than $1,000,000 in the bank, changing the name of the account from his own to that of Constantine S. Eftax shortly before his flight to Europe in June of last year, were denied in the bank's answer. It was further denied that Insull ever made any deposits in the bank, either in his own or any other name.

Give Explanation of Account.

The answer of the bank admitted the existence of the Constantine S. Eftax account, but averred that its value never exceeded $150,000 and is at present worth not more than $85,000. It is also contended, in the bank's answer, that Constantine S. Eftax is a former south side druggist and importer of pharmaceutical supplies, now a resident in Athens, Greece.

The answer states that Eftax opened a safekeeping account Feb. 7, 1932, depositing certain securities and adding thereto from time to time. At about the same time, the answer avers, Eftax and his wife, Anna S. Buehler Eftax, opened a joint checking account, depositing $10,000 in currency and $167.81 in checks. The answer states that aside from $42.62 in interest on the checking account balance no other deposits were ever made to its credit excepting the interest from the safekeeping account.

Dismissal Is Asked.

A motion to dismiss the bill of complaint against both Insull and the bank accompanied the answer and the following grounds for dismissal are set forth:

1. The petitioner, Gus Lowry, holder of $6,000 in Insull Utility Investment, Inc., debentures, has no judgment against either defendant.

2. The petitioner is not a creditor of either defendant, but merely of Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

3. Insull Utility Investments, Inc., Middle West Utilities company, and Corporation Securities company, mentioned in the bill of complaint as companies dominated and mismanaged by Insull, are necessary parties to the suit.

After issuing the temporary restraining order in the morning against the bank, which was immediately served upon the bank's officials by Deputy United States Marshal John Hewitt, Judge Barnes set Oct. 10 as the date for a hearing on the matter.

Gold Not Mentioned.

Aside from denying that Samuel Insull ever deposited any moneys, bonds, securities or gold bullion in the bank, the answer does not mention gold bullion in the Eftax account, but it was learned from federal authorities that the bank reported the gold bullion deposit. It is said, however, to be comparatively small.

Agents of the bureau of investigation were requested by United States Attorney Dwight H. Green to inquire into the charges concerning the alleged Insull account, with a view of bolstering up the government's bankruptcy fraud case pending against the fugitive Insull.

LUETZ IS FOUND NOT GUILTY OF SLAYING WIFE

Otto E. Luetz, an embalmer, was found not guilty of murder yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Donald S. McKinlay. Luetz shot and killed his wife, Myrtle T. Luetz, 41 years old, in a quarrel in their apartment at 3400 North Irving avenue on April 18.

During the trial Luetz' daughter, Doris, 14 years old, was called as a court's witness and said that "Daddy shot mother by accident." Later, however, she admitted under questioning of the state that she had not seen the shooting.

"Daddy always treated mother and me just fine, but for three weeks before mother was shot he was crazy from drinking," Doris testified.

"Do you still love your father?" she was asked.

"Oh yes," she answered.

Dr. Alex Hershfield was questioned concerning the case in a series of hypothetical questions phrased by Defense Attorney James M. Burke. He testified that when a man who previously had been a good husband, ran amuck and shot his wife after drinking for three weeks, the man was temporarily insane.

IF YOU OWN A

FORD

That Ford of yours is built to last. It has the stamina to stand up year after year. But even the sturdiest metals and the finest engineering can't prevent trouble if you neglect the cooling-system.

Right now—before freezing weather, have your radiator filled with the proper amount of Eveready Prestone and water. One gallon of Eveready Prestone, at $2.95, gives any Ford except the V-8 all-winter protection to zero. The V-8 takes two gallons for zero protection. For other makes, see your dealer's chart.

Eveready Prestone not only saves your car from freeze-ups, but prevents rust and clogging. It won't boil away. And it costs less per season because it's concentrated—not water-diluted. Approved by all car manufacturers, including Ford, and fully guaranteed by National Carbon Co., Inc., New York, N. Y.

Records show Chicago usually has freezing temperatures by October 29. Put in Eveready Prestone now for safe, all-winter protection.

Insull Denies He Has Secret $1,000,000 Fund in Chicago

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 2.—"Bunk, absolutely bunk," Samuel Insull said today, employing his usual formula of denial, when asked whether he had $1,000,000 secretly deposited in the Harris Trust and Savings bank in Chicago under the name of Constantine S. Eftax. Such an allegation was set forth in the suit brought today by Attorneys Samuel and Leonard Ettelson, representing Gus Lowry, holder of $6,000 in debentures of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Insull appeared greatly interested in learning about the filing of the suit.

"Do you know who Samuel Ettelson is?" asked this correspondent.

"Sure," said Insull, proceeding to explain who Attorney Ettelson is.

"Bunk, Just Bunk," Insull Says.

"Do you know who Constantine S. Eftax is?"

"Never heard of him," replied Insull.

"Is it true that the income of that $1,000,000 is sent to you here?"

"Bunk, just bunk, that's all," he replied.

No one is known in Athens by the name of Constantine Eftax. The name Eftaxiou, however, is fairly common in Greece.

Following publication today in the Greek press of details of the American government's case against Insull, Forrest Harness, assistant United States attorney general, issued an authoritative summary of documentary proofs of Insull's alleged guilt in violating the bankruptcy laws. The case is now in the hands of the Greek Court of Appeals.

Harness' statement sets forth the nature of the acts alleged against Insull and others and is an elucidation of the charges brought in the indictment by the federal court. It deals with the alleged fraudulent transfer of the bankrupt Corporation Securities company of Chicago and the alleged payment of a dividend on the worthless stock of this corporation.

Harness' statement maintains that Greek law, article 685, chapter 2, on fraudulent bankruptcy fully covers the first count of the indictment. Under the first count of the indictment, says the statement, Insull and others are accused of transferring $558,120 as dividends on the $3 optional preferred stock of Corporation Securities company. The statement adds that stock had no value and the aforementioned dividends were not paid out of a surplus or earnings.

"In case of insolvency of the company, administrators of the company are liable to prosecution for fraudulent bankruptcy and to punishment, according to criminal law [3] if they have paid to partners manifestly nonexisting dividends and have, thereby, reduced the partnership's capital."

American legal opinion here believes this shows precise application of Greek law to the charges against Insull and obviates the contention that the actions of Insull and others do not constitute an offense in Greece.

Prosecutor Gets Papers.

According to the Greek press today, the papers covering the extradition demands for Insull were sent officially by the minister of justice to Prosecutor Anthony Reganakos today. Newspaper reports here are that the court may call the hearing Saturday, but official circles discount this early date.

A battle for and against Insull is going on in the Greek press. The Populist and other governmental papers are not tender in handling Insull, but the Liberal or Venizelist papers lean to his side. The Liberal Eleftheron Vima today comments editorially:

"The decision of the court, according to legal circles, will favor Insull because the American government is not producing any actual facts, but simply a new legal basis of accusation, which is not of such nature as to permit the Greek court to grant extradition of Insull without hesitation."

INSIDE STORY OF KANSAS FORGERY SCANDAL BARED

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Fred M. Harris, special counsel for Gov. Landon in the bond forgery investigation, told a legislative committee today that there are $426,000 in forged bonds in the state treasury. He drew a picture of the relations between Ronald Finney and Tom Boyd, recently resigned state treasury. He told of operations which often resulted in withdrawal of state funds from other banks for deposit in the Finney controlled institutions, which now are closed and in the hands of the state for liquidation.

Harris disclosed that in the last four years, Boyd, with a salary of $3,600 a year as treasurer had deposited between $8,000 and $9,000 a year to his personal account. In the same period Helen Boyd, daughter, had deposited about $7,000 a year. She is an employé in the state house.

Boyd often wrote to municipalities issuing bonds, recommending Finney as the proper person to handle the sale of bonds, Harris declared. During the last four years Boyd has withdrawn at various times more than $1,440,000 in state funds from other banks to deposit in Finney banks, it was said.

HIGH COURT BARS SALES OF 3.2 BEER NEAR MICHIGAN U.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Local governing bodies have the right to prevent the sale of 3.2 beverages in close proximity to educational institutions, the Michigan Supreme court held today.

The opinion, written by Justice Thomas A. E. Weadock, newly appointed to the bench, was handed down in an appeal of Ralph T. Monk of Ann Arbor from the city council's refusal to approve a beer license for his establishment across from the University of Michigan campus. The law requires approval of local governing bodies of all applications for permits, although the actual licenses are granted by the liquor control commission.

MOVES TO END STRIKE OF 12,000 AUTO EMPLOYES

U. S. Mediator Appeals to Workers to Return.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—John S. Carmody, federal mediator, today sought ways of ending the strike of 12,650 automotive industry employés in Detroit, Flint, and Pontiac, following word from Washington, D. C., that the strike of 75,000 western Pennsylvania miners was over.

The strike committee claims that 10,000 men have walked out of 100 Detroit plants and pickets were being placed to prevent tool and die makers from continuing at work. The strike at the Ford plant in Edgewater, N. J., releases 2,000 men, and their leader, Frank Toohill, said he would ask 500 of them to go to Detroit for picket duty. It was officially announced that the Ford plant at Edgewater will be closed tomorrow.

Ask for Police Protection.

Ford representatives said they appealed to Acting Governor Emmerson Richards of New Jersey for protection by state police and were refused. Acting Governor Richards said he would not permit the use of state police in labor disputes unless in the event of actual violence and property damage.

Jay C. Griffen, chairman of the Detroit strike committee, said the strikers had resisted efforts by employers to deal with the walkouts separately in each city. A conference is to be held by committee representatives with William S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet and Pontiac motor companies. The strikers have asked for a 25 per cent increase in wages with a minimum of $1 per hour for bench men and 90 cents for machinists, a 40 hour week for all. The Edgewater strike is on despite recent pay increases of approximately $1 a day.

17,000 Truck Drivers Strike.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—A walkout of 17,000 truck drivers and helpers was in effect today and union officials said the first result was that the strike had prevented the removal of 75,000 sacks of flour from piers. The city is threatened with halted deliveries of groceries and the necessities of life.

A truckload of flour went into the East river near South ferry. Police said striking truck drivers pulled the driver from his seat and then drove the truck off the dock.

The strike was ordered yesterday at a meeting of the furniture, flour, grocery, and truck drivers' union. They demand a 45 hour week for flour and bakery truck drivers, 40 hours for furniture truck drivers, and no reduction in pay. They agreed to allow deliveries to hospitals and public institutions.

Miners Await Johnson Word.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, gave notice today of the ending of the strike of 75,000 coal miners, following receipt of a telegram from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson. The message was considered by Murray as word that the union had been recognized by the H. C. Frick Coke company, whose failure to recognize the union resulted in the strike.

The NRA code for soft coal workers wa seffective today, but none of the miners would work, their leaders awaiting the word from Gen. Johnson. The mines were picketed while the miners idled, and late in the day Murray said he would instruct the men to go to work tomorrow.

Want Union Recognized.

Weirton, W. Va., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Attempts to end the strike of 10,000 steel workers had not been successful to date after one week of negotiations. The strikers want their union recognized. E. T. Weir, president of the company, told nonunion men they would be protected if they wish to return to work.

Firestone Employés Strike.

Hudson, Mass., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Over 1,300 employés of the Firestone rubber footwear factory went on strike today when their demands for a 25 per cent wage increase and recognition of their union were not met.

Tipster News Services Now Flourish in Nation's Capital

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2. — [Special.]—The sudden shifting to Washington of the control of industry, finance, agriculture, charity, and many other phases of the American scene has resulted in a flux of new activity on the part of financial dopesters, political advisers, tipsters, business information bureaus and similar services.

They offer a variety of information, "inside dope," analyses of what is going on in Washington and over the world, and sell it to industrialists, bankers, lawyers, business men generally.

Two "letter services" in the capital have been long established and are well rated. They make no pretense of being able to supply inside information and direct their efforts toward frank analysis of current information and to predictions of future developments and trends.

Capitalize on Situation.

Many other services, particularly the tipster type which ranks with the race-track tout, capitalize upon the avid desires of business men who want to have a privileged view of things in Washington and who are gullible enough to pay for gossip.

In these opening months of the new deal with the federal government engaged in activities which affect directly the prosperity and life of every branch of commerce, business men have been genuinely concerned over their fate, and this accounts in large measure, it is said, for the springing up of many new mushroom services.

The success of some of the agencies is charged against the failure of many American newspapers to give frank and unbiased accounts of events in Washington and accounts which are free from the propaganda which in the present administration, more than many past ones, has become a deluge.

Many News Reports Inadequate.

The head of one of the leading letter services in Washington said today that if newspapers generally would supply their business readers with true reports and appraisals of government activities there would be no occasion for these private services nor profit in running them.

Many newspapers in the country, depending, for Washington coverage, upon the news services, restrict their columns almost entirely to the "hand-outs," statements, radio talks, and speeches all prepared by the officials of the administration or their propagandists.

Since these are all designed to present a colored viewpoint favorable to the administration, and regularly suppress entirely or misinterpret the true trends in the success or failure of the administration's operations, business men cannot rely upon such newspaper accounts in these perilous times.

Some Fear Independence.

Other newspapers, which maintain their own staffs in Washington, fear the possible consequences of giving their readers frank and truthful facts which might be critical of the administration, it is pointed out. They fear a Gen. Johnson "cracking down on them," and are mindful, perhaps, of the effort made by the NRA chief to induce the public not to patronize Henry Ford unless he enlisted under the Blue Eagle.

Consequently, they follow the news services in printing the propaganda prepared by the Washington bureaucracy, accept the interpretations put upon facts and happenings by the bureaucrats and pass them on to their readers as news.

For example, many newspapers accept in their reports the fable of a "balanced budget," announced periodically by treasury officials, and do not inform their readers of the fact that through a double system of bookkeeping the enormous expenditures of the "emergency" program of the new deal are not included in the regular budget reports.

The NRA has provided a classic example of the need for careful reporting in Washington. It has a large staff of "reporters," most of them former newspaper men and some of them highly trained and capable propagandists, who feed out daily countless pages of "handouts."

TELLS OF FUND TO TRAIN PUBLIC ABOUT SHIPPING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Testimony was given today before a senate committee that the financial support for "an educational campaign" to offset criticism of the American merchant marine and the ocean mail contracts came from steamship lines receiving subventions from the federal government.

Questioned by Senator Black [D., Ala.], chairman of the committee, R. J. Baker, secretary-treasurer of the American Steamship Owners association, said contributions to the publicity campaign were on the basis of one-fifth of 1 per cent of the amount of mail contracts held by each of the steamship lines.

Asked About Contracts.

"Don't you know," Senator McCarran [D., Nev.], asked Baker, near the close of his testimony, "that back of this term 'American merchant marine' there is a series of contracts, the method of the letting of which is highly questionable?" Baker made no reply.

Baker denied any knowledge of alleged efforts of his association to get certain senators appointed to the commerce and the mail contract investigating committees.

Senator Black [Dem., Ala.], however, read into the record a letter from Edwin H. Duff, Washington representative of the association.

Quotes From Letter.

That letter from Duff to Baker, after senate committee memberships had been announced, said:

"We had hoped Copeland [D., N. Y.], would get the chairmanship of commerce. That could not be accomplished. Instead Senator Stephens [D., Miss.], takes that chairmanship.

The steamship owners, Baker's testimony disclosed, rejected an offer of the American farm bureau federation to help in the merchant marine publicity drive.

The farm bureau, Baker said, requested $100,000 in 1930 for this aid. Baker asserted "not one penny" was given by the association to that bureau.

COUNTY ACCEPTS $2,040,000 OF U. S. EASY MONEY

Two Commissioners Fight Loan.

Members of the county board yesterday accepted $2,040,500 from the federal public works administration for finishing the county hospital nurses' home over the protests of Commissioners Charles H. Weber and Grace Fleming. These two commissioners characterized the project as wasteful and extravagant.

When the board took up the letter of Joshua D'Esposito, informing it that the federal public works administration would advance the money, $510,000 as an outright gift and the remainder secured by 20 year county bonds, Mrs. Fleming made a motion to reject the proposal.

"When the public voted for this bond issue," she said, "it didn't realize the extravagance and the increase of our bonded debt which it involved. The proposal was wrong two years ago and it's wrong now. The county board will be accused of rashness and extravagance if it accepts this money and loads a million and a half on the bonded debt for taxpayers to retire."

Mrs. Fleming and Commissioner Weber cast the only votes on the motion to reject the proposal. President Emmett Whealan and Commissioners Homer J. Byrd, Marie Plumb, Peter M. Kelly, Dan Ryan, Maurice Kavanagh, and Amelia Sears voted to accept the money.

Accept Bids for Road Work.

The board accepted bids on 11 county road and bridge projects totaling $351,356. The projects follow:

MONTROSE AVENUE—Paving from Forest Preserve boulevard to Harlem avenue, .69 mile, .20 feet wide; I. D. Lain company, $22,827.

STATE STREET—Paving from 123d to 127th street, .5 mile, 40 feet wide; H. G. Goelitz, $37,042.

DEVON AVENUE—Paving from Carpenter street to McCormick road, 2.7 miles, 10 and 20 feet wide; Robert R. Anderson company, $64,726.

Referred to Committee.

The board referred to the roads and bridges committee the low bid of the E. J. Albrecht company on the Lake avenue bridge over the Des Plaines river when the company asserted that because of an arithmetical error the bid of $84,896 was submitted to the board, whereas it should have been $94,896.

CLEARED OF AUTO DEATH.

Morris, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Merlin Voight, La Mar, Wis., today was exonerated of blame in the auto truck collision yesterday in which Dominic Bersano, 47, Braceville, Ill., was killed, and Joe Serana of Braceville critically injured.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

ADVICE TO Women

Do you want the family to be healthy and comfortable this winter? Then read what the United States Public Health Service says in Public Health Broadcast No. 309:

"It has been found that the most comfortable temperature as well as the most healthful one is between 68° and 70°."

You can keep your home in that healthy comfort zone, easily, cheaply, safely and surely by using Famous Reading Anthracite—the super-cleaned Pennsylvania Hard Coal.

HERE IS WHY YOU CAN DO IT

Reading HARD Coal is so compact that you can put more heating value into your furnace each time you fix it. Your fire, as shown by recent tests, needs attention only HALF as often as with softer coals, or lighter fuel.

Because it is so hard, Reading Anthracite burns only on the surfaces—tests show that it will be throwing out floods of radiant heat twice as long as other fuels which blaze fiercely for a time, but soon die down.

Because it is so hard and burns evenly, tests show that hard coal can be banked from three hours and a quarter to four and three quarter hours longer than other types of solid fuels.

Because it is so hard it is sootless and smokeless, keeps your home clean and helps to keep your neighborhood clean. It is safe, does not explode, is almost impossible to clinker, does not burn out furnace linings and grates.

Save yourself time and money by burning the faithful fuel, Famous Reading Anthracite. Your coal merchant has it, or can get it. Or write us for the name of the Reading merchant nearest you.

BRITISH DEBT IS NEXT PROBLEM FOR ROOSEVELT

Many Pitfalls Confronting Negotiations.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special]—When President Roosevelt returns to Washington on Wednesday he is to give his attention to the negotiations about to begin with the British government for a revision of the four billion dollar war debt Great Britain owes the United States.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, the British delegate, will land on Thursday, accompanied by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, and will come at once to Washington to begin the conversations. Dean G. Acheson, undersecretary of the treasury, is to conduct the negotiations on behalf of the President, but it is not unlikely that Mr. Roosevelt himself will take a direct hand in the matter before the conclusion of the interchanges.

The President is to lay out the course to be followed by Mr. Acheson in the negotiations which are scheduled to begin next week.

For one thing, if a revised settlement of the British debt is made by Mr. Roosevelt and approved by congress, it will become the pattern for the revision of the remainder of the 11 billion dollar war debts owed America.

For another, the projection of a revised settlement into congress next winter might disrupt the Democratic party, destroy the President's control of the national legislature and jeopardize Democratic party prospects in the 1934 congressional elections.

For the administration the revision of war debts is a red hot poker and none of the politically minded would be surprised if the politically astute Mr. Roosevelt were to avoid any close contact with it for another year at least. One administration official hazarded the guess today that "there is about one-half of 1 per cent chance of anything constructive being achieved at this time." He is prepared to see the whole question shelved for a year or more after the conclusion of the impending negotiations.

Seek 90 Per Cent Reduction.

The British are going to try to drive a bargain with the President for a 90 per cent reduction of their debt, which would accord with the Lausanne arrangement to reduce German reparations 90 per cent contingent, under the terms of the secret gentlemen's agreement, upon a commensurate scaling down of the obligations to the United States.

It is the understanding here that the British are also prepared to offer a lump sum settlement in the amount of the reduced sum eventually agreed upon by thir plenipotentiaries and the President.

Whether or not it reflects the attitude of the President there is a significant prevalence of sentiment in the administration favoring the acceptance of a lump sum settlement. It is based on the assumption that the debtors have no intention of meeting their obligations in full and that if the United States rejects what it can obtain at this time it will receive nothing at all.

Trade Concessions Likely.

At the same time it is realized that a lump sum settlement accompanied by no concessions on the part of the debtors would stand precious little chance of acceptance by congress. For this reason it is expected that the President will stipulate very early in the proceedings that Great Britain grant trade and other economic concessions to the United States in return for debt reduction.

Stabilization of the dollar and pound sterling are expected to enter into the debt discussions for the reason that any agreement on payments will involve the medium of exchange. There is little expectation, however, of a monetary pact evolving from the negotiations.

There is also evident in the administration a disposition to pave the way for acceptance of another ten per cent "token" payment when the next British installment of 183 million dollars falls due Dec. 15.

According to an administration spokesman, the payment of this installment in full would create such a demand for dollars as to cause the value of the dollar to rise enormously, thus destroying the economic results of dollar depreciation and increasing pressure for inflation of the currency.

Butter—Millions of Pounds of It—May Go to the Needy

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—An early transfer of millions of pounds of butter to the tables of those in want seemed likely today as one of the first results of President Roosevelt's decision that a good way to get rid of farm surpluses was to give them to the needy.

At conferences with Harry L. Hopkins, of the Emergency corporation, farm administration officials outlined plans to accumulate the butter surplus and turn it over. Part of the plan probably will be a processing tax on butterfat to raise some necessary funds.

Appetites for All of It.

Estimates of the amount of butter in excess of present commercial requirements ranged between 50,000,000 and 100,000,000 pounds. Farm officials said it would take only a few weeks for families on the relief rolls to consume 100,000,000 pounds of butter.

A production control program is being worked out for the butterfat processing tax. Eliminating low producers from dairy herds is considered as a means toward by-products available for relief.

The prospective demand for butter for relief purposes, however, may cause farm officials to revise milk control plans. Experts take the position that there would be no over-production of milk and its by-products if some method were worked out to get them to persons who need them.

Hogs and Cattle Program.

Heartened by the presidential announcement that adequate funds to buy relief food would be available, officials said today that the Emergency corporation might go far toward solving two pressing farm problems—hogs and cattle.

The emergency hog buying campaign, just closed, will result in 100,000,000 pounds of pork products to be turned over to the relief administration. The latter is now working out a long time control program for hogs and corn. The farrowing sows program failed to work out, and there is still a huge prospective surplus of pork products.

Cattlemen have been drafting a proposed marketing outlet for a piled up supply of beef products.

Although some wheat and cotton may be bought for relief purposes, officials said today the quantities apparently needed would not be sufficient to affect the market.

FEDERATION TO DISCUSS TRANSIT MERGER ISSUES

The All Chicago Civic and Protective Federation, Inc., which is a newly amalgamated group of north, west, and south side improvement and civic clubs, will hold its first meeting Thursday evening at the Ogden park fieldhouse, 65th street and Racine avenue. This was announced by Charles B. McAtee, president of the federation.

The topic of discussion will be the 1930 traction consolidation ordinance, which provides for 300 miles of street car and 110 miles of elevated lines extensions. Mr. McAtee said the entire federation is behind Mayor Kelly's demand for the immediate establishment of the universal transfer pending the merger of the two systems.

TEDDY WEBB, 1ST OF AUTO BANDITS, SEEKS A PAROLE

Robert [Teddy] Webb, credited by the Chicago police with being the pioneer in the use of the automobile as an aid to banditry, is among the prisoners at Joliet penitentiary who have applied to the state board of pardons and paroles, which is meeting this week, for freedom.

Webb was sent to prison for life in 1913 for the murder of Detective Peter Hart. Under the law, he is eligible for parole after serving twenty years. Webb is 43 years old.

FALL MAY PROVE FATAL.

Joseph Steiner, 58 years old, who has been living in a relief shelter at 659 Hobbie street, was injured, probably fatally, yesterday when he fell 25 feet into a concrete pit at the north end of the Halsted street bridge over the canal.

ASK EASY MONEY OF U. S. FOR MANY FREAK SCHEMES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—When Uncle Sam's easy money fund is footing the bill people are anxious to build concrete battleships that won't sink, high speed belts for transportation on which travelers could whiz from New York to San Francisco and hundreds of other freak contrivances that never entered the ken of the man on the street.

Inquiry at the public works administration, charged with allotting the 3 billion, 300 million dollars for construction and reëmployment, today revealed some of the freak applications it is receiving, explaining that under the law it must consider each of the suggestions brought to it.

One applicant, the owner of a fast fading circus, appealed for a loan to build up his show. As security he offered three elephants, refraining, however, from making any cracks about white elephants, real or figurative, which the government lending program already has brought into its vaults.

Looking far, far into the future and apparently sure that the teeming days of expansion will return is another applicant, a town of 4,000 souls seeking a loan for a maternity hospital capable of handling 1,000 births a year.

The high speed belt idea was submitted by an engineer who suggested three belts skimming along at 100 miles an hour between New York and San Francisco. Admitting that travelers could get places in a hurry on the belts, the public works administration raised the question of how a person could dismount without injury.

Another inventor wanted concrete battleships, a third a steel tower a mile high up which motorists could drive, stopping at any one of 48 platforms each named for a state.

A first mortgage on a jail with rights reserved to the mortgage holder of turning out the prisoners whenever he foreclosed has been offered to the government by one town which declared the building would be self-liquidating.

U. S. FUNDS ASKED BY LOS ANGELES FOR BOAT RACING

Seek to Build 3 Mile Rowing Course.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Construction of a college rowing course of three miles is one of the items for which funds are being sought from the federal treasury in the application of Los Angeles county for 33 million dollars for flood control projects. The application is now filed in revised form with the California advisory board of the federal public works administration.

It is claimed the projects would employ 10,000 Los Angeles men and women. It is contended that completion of the several construction projects embraced in the flood control scheme would avert danger of any major flood disaster to the Los Angeles area, such as engineers have stated would occur in this section if at any time more than 5 inches of rain should fall within 24 hours on saturated soil.

The most important single item in the 33 million dollar flood control construction scheme is the 6 million dollar improvement of Ballona creek channel, leading toward an arm of the sea at Wilmington.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce proposes deepening and widening a 3 mile stretch of Ballona creek to provide six crew racing lanes 42 feet wide each. The operation would be so carried out that seven feet of water would always fill the crew course, with 14 feet at high tide. An 18 foot driveway would be built along either side of the channel for its length.

According to sponsors of the crew course program, the main expense would be $100,000 for bleachers, outside of the construction money desired from the government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOUR GRACE, Newfoundland, Oct. 2.—A mild and moderate autumn is scheduled for the great lakes area, judging from reports of the Hudson's Bay company's steamer, Nascopie. The vessel reports that Baffin bay is almost clear of ice.

HAWAII IS BROKE; FUNDS LACKING TO MEET PAY ROLLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 2.—Gov. Lawrence M. Judd revealed today that the territory of Hawaii is broke and announced he will call a special legislative session at an early date to deal with the financial situation and attempt to balance the budget. The governor said the treasury lacks funds to meet the pay rolls and other obligations after Oct. 1. He estimated the deficit would be $2,838,000 by the end of this year and $3,863,000 by June 30, 1935.

The governor and the treasury have arranged with banks to cash territorial warrants due for September obligations, revealing that the treasury borrowed $384,162 from the banks up until Sept. 28 on treasury warrants. These funds now are exhausted.

Salaries for 15,000 territorial employés, including school teachers, are affected.

JUDGE SISK'S HOME ROBBED.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Burglars who stopped to eat roast beef at Judge Berry J. Sisk's home made a hasty exit by the rear door as the judge and Mrs. Sisk entered the front door. A silver serving set and three suits of clothing were taken.

About Cigarettes

Of all the ways in which tobacco is used the cigarette is the mildest form

YOU know, ever since the Indians found out the pleasure of smoking tobacco, there have been many ways of enjoying it.

But of all the ways in which tobacco is used, the cigarette is the mildest form.

Another thing—cigarettes are about the most convenient smoke. All you have to do is strike a match.

Everything that money can buy and everything that science knows about is used to make Chesterfields.

There are other good cigarettes, of course, but Chesterfield is the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better. Chesterfields satisfy—we ask you to try them.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CHICAGO'S FINANCES: A LOOK AHEAD.

Citizens who had allowed themselves to think that the local governments of Chicago have done about all the economizing that will be needed must have been shocked by the information contained in the latest bulletin of the Civic federation. If we are to avoid bankruptcy, the cutting of expenditures has just begun.

The taxes for 1932 have not yet been billed, but they have been anticipated and spent. The Civic federation shows that the revenues for 1932 must be expected to fall far short of meeting the expenses actually incurred.

The total of all the tax bills against Chicago property for 1931, now in collection, is 229 million dollars. The statisticians of the Civic federation are of the opinion that reductions in assessed values, even despite higher rates, will yield only 196 million dollars on the 1932 extension, provided every bill is paid in full. How much further that figure will be pared as a result of tax delinquencies is suggested by the fact that there is today a delinquency of 77 million dollars in 1931 taxes and of 72 million dollars in the 1930 taxes which fell due some 18 months ago.

As against their tax levies for 1932, the federation finds, the city government's extensions will show a deficit of $8,700,000. The comparable deficit of the school board will be $8,500,000 and of the county $3,000,000. The economies already instituted, particularly those of the city, have minimized these deficits somewhat, but by no means disposed of them.

Hitherto economies have been relatively easy. The general level of prices was falling. Supplies cost less and wages and salaries could be reduced without too seriously impairing the purchasing power of the public servants. Now prices have risen and while there has been some improvement in tax collections it has been only slightly reassuring.

The plain fact is that this community has a far more expensive government than it can afford. There is only one remedy for this situation and that is to pare expenditures still further. Fortunately there is every reason for the belief that millions can still be saved without impairing the essential services of local government: the preservation of life, health, and property and the education of the children.

THE NAVY IN THE PUBLIC WORKS.

The renewed activities in American shipyards for the upbuilding of the United States navy are an unexpected part of the recovery program. The intent to bring the navy up to treaty allowances found a side door open when it had been generally agreed that the economy program would compel the country to get along for the present without naval increases. A great many friends of national defense were reconciled to this, believing that the condition of the treasury compelled retrenchment in the navy as well as elsewhere. They knew that sacred cows are the reasons why government expenses cannot be reduced. Each fellow has his own cow and by the time each has been taken care of expenses are up and not down.

There was the hope, if not the belief, that wise statesmanship in the state department would permit inactivity in the navy department to be harmless for the time being. If the secretary of state would not write so many letters the secretary of the navy would not need so many ships. Then the secretary of the treasury could look at his accounts without so much of a headache. The new economy, however, put on two faces. One was the normal face, lean and stern, the face of a thrifty man. The other was the emergency face and it was that of Santa Claus. What could not be done for the navy and innumerable other government projects under the economy program which is to produce the balanced budget could be done under the emergency program which is to increase the public debt. Therefore, the new ships which cannot be had from normal appropriations can be had from public works. Peter is poor, but Paul is rich.

There'll be worse things done with the public works fund than the building of these ships, although the program has caused some annoyance abroad and may be misinterpreted, especially in Japan. But much of this seems to be inevitable and may be disregarded. It is of more consequence for Americans to observe that although the national good is argued as a reason for these public works, not only the good of national security but the benefit of reëmployment in national recovery, the benefit goes almost entirely to the highly favored Atlantic seaboard. Here again the political ability of a section of the country has been decisive in securing apportionment of public funds. They go where the best politicians live. If the United States is getting a better navy it is doing so because the seaboard plum pullers have a finger in every pie. Some members of the American family will not get any plums because they will never see the pie.

THE KIDNAPING VERDICTS.

Verdicts returned in two courts last week convicted thirteen persons of two criminal rings who had been terrorizing communities by kidnaping. In Oklahoma City the Bailey-Bates gang was convicted and in Edwardsville, Ill., six members of the gang who kidnaped August Luer were found guilty. One action was in a federal court, the other in an Illinois Circuit court.

Kidnaping had become a crime threatening the security of American life. It was recruiting a particularly vicious and hardened class of criminals whose success threatened to build up a new type of organized desperadoes. No more alarming development had been noted among the country's criminals. The atrocity of the crime, particularly as affecting children, brought the response of severe laws, but they would have been ineffectual if detection and punishment had not been made possible. Some excellent police work by federal and state officers resulted in the capture of the members of two gangs whose depredations would have been unpleasant to think of if they had been able to escape with the ransoms they collected.

Probably because of the greater severity of the law when children are involved, the gangsters selected adults as the victims. The adult captive retains more dependable recollections of his experiences, and from them he is able to furnish many good clews upon which police work can go forward. That has been of great advantage to the detectives. The successful detection and prosecution of the criminals engaged in the two notable cases now brought to a successful end may do much to stop this particular kind of crime. It is necessary that no lenience be shown any of the participants in it. Wherever possible, the heaviest sentence must be imposed. Only an unrelenting justice will stop the hardened men and women who engaged in this form of crime.

It is worthy of note that in most cases kidnaping is an enterprise accomplished in the smaller communities. Sometimes they are partly the work of criminals with city records, but always they involve local talent. The people of the rural and smaller town communities are inclined to think rather self-righteously of crime as an affliction of the great cities, if not a just punishment of their sins. They are therefore rather indifferent to measures proposed by city authorities to deal more efficiently with crime conditions. It is to be hoped this very shortsighted view will be corrected by the extension of criminal activities to their own precincts. Reforms in legal procedure and improvements of police administration should have a more intelligent and energetic support from country representatives.

THE PUZZLE OF SALLY.

Miss Sally Rand, a disturbing element in this community ever since the Fair opened, has been sentenced to a year in jail for representing a century of progress in the exposition of the human body. A jury found her guilty of nudity and the judge decided that the expiation to society would require a year in the calaboose. Pending further legal proceedings Miss Rand continues to entertain or dismay the city. There are at least two opinions.

Sally's ups and downs this summer, those of the fans included, would have been the glory of any press agent, but the brightest of them never could have kept up with her. She has crashed the front page by the simplest of expedients, which she herself described as taking her pants off, thereby exposing not so much herself as the confusion of the human mind. It is betrayed in the utmost perplexity. It doesn't know whether the human body, certainly no strange phenomenon in the world, is innately noble or innately vile.

If there could be a determination here, a decision arrived at from introspection, external facts, moral examination or scrutiny of esthetic values, then the episode of Sally might be a clearing up of doubts and perplexities which have had the human race upset mentally for centuries. It has not been able to agree as to what it physically is. It is shocked to conclude that it is physically obnoxious to its moral senses and it is reluctant to admit that it is anything else.

Sally makes a professional success on one side of the fence and is sentenced to jail on the other. Thousands pay their money to see what the fans allow them to believe they see and twelve men in a jury say the young lady is a menace to the sober minds of the community.

HIGH GRADE JURIES.

An unnamed judge makes an important contribution to the crime campaign when he calls attention to the quality of juries. "During the month of August," he said, "we had exceptionally fine juries. It seems to me that the jury commission used care in selecting that venire, but the ones during the last court term could not have been picked with the same care."

The result, as any one knows who has followed proceedings in recent weeks, has been disquieting. Verdicts have shown in several conspicuous instances an inadequate sense of the public interest involved. If we are to have a real check upon criminality in this community we must have juries of character and intelligence; as the judge quoted puts it, "high grade men who can use judgment and see through some of the flimsy defenses offered by criminals."

We suggest to the jury commission that it has an essential rôle to play in the campaign so encouragingly begun two months ago and that special care be shown at this stage in procuring a grade of citizenship for juries high enough to insure against failure of justice. If high grade juries are not obtainable the commendable effort to break the back of organized criminal violence will quickly peter out. Good juries are essential to its success. The jury commission is responsible for this factor of efficient justice.

Editorial of the Day

[Chicago Drovers Journal.]

Imagine the surprise of government pig slaughter officials in Iowa to learn this week that the federal program to reduce hog supplies is contrary to a statute in the law books of that state. On the books since 1919, this law prohibits the waste of food products to increase price and fixes a fine of $1,000 and a year's imprisonment for violation.

Says the statute: "It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, or corporation to willfully destroy, or negligently suffer to go to waste with intent to increase the price thereof, any food products of any nature or description, without the authority or consent of the local board of health or local health officer in the city, town, or township in which the food products are located."

Naturally the state law has not been brought to use in the present situation. But it is well to remember that only fourteen years ago it was necessary to bring forward such a law because of the scarcity of food.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SAVED!

It was a terribly serious moment! A cataclysmic moment! A most formidable difficulty had presented itself at a secret session of the Brain Trust in Washington.

"The situation is this," said Prof. Ernest Meditation, "the English language has only twenty-six letters and what with NRA, RFC, CCC, AFB, TRC, BDP, JKX, ABC, SRO, ETC, and all the rest of them we are using the alphabet so frequently that repetition threatens. I have heard the proposition to form a board to control the beavers in our national park and elsewhere and make them work only six hours a day and five days a week instead of building dams at night time and every day in the week. Naturally this board was to be called the Dam Beaver's association, DBA, but at once we come into conflict with the Delirious Bullfrogs Agglomeration, likewise BDA, and so the beaver board must be denied these letters."

"It seems to me," said Prof. Gloomer, "that the damn bullfrogs are no better than the damn beavers."

"You misunderstand the nomenclature," replied Prof. Ernest Meditation; "when I said 'dam beavers' I was referring to the work of these clever little animals, which is that of constructing dams across streams."

"My mistake," said Prof. Ponder, "but as to your alarming statement that we are using up the English alphabet and have come to the point where repetition and consequently much confusion will follow, why not take over the Russian alphabet, which is very different from ours and which I understand has thirty-six letters? We could go on quite a while forming new commissions and boards with the Russian alphabet before we wore it out as we have done the English alphabet. The Russians would no doubt be glad to give us their alphabet in exchange for our surplus wheat, foodstuff and cotton, if any."

"Tut, tut!" said Prof. Ernest Meditation somewhat testily, "let us not go into that question. I was going to suggest that we adopt the Greek alphabet. It would be a cultural, a most erudite move, if you please, and quite in keeping with the highest scholastic traditions. I am sure the Greeks would let us have their alphabet."

"May I make a suggestion?" asked young Prof. Researchy, springing eagerly to his feet. "Let us adopt the Choctaw alphabet. The Choctaws, being Indians, are Americans, our very first Americans, and it would be very nice to recognize our own country in this way, and then, too, we would not have to beg or borrow the alphabet of any other nation."

"Choctaw is a sign language," said Prof. Gloomer. "How are you going to print it in the newspapers?"

"Goodness gracious!" gasped Prof. Researchy, "I never thought of that."

"One minute, please," said Prof. Grind, rising suddenly up from a corner. "I can solve this vexing question. I was much annoyed years ago by my students talking to each other in a strange language I did not understand. After a long and careful investigation I discovered they were speaking what they termed 'Pig Latin.' It is a repetition of the first letter of a syllable or sound, or if the syllable consists of only one letter, then the repetition of the letter itself with an 'a' added. To illustrate: Ooda ouya ohna atwha Ia aveha aidsa?"

"Esya! Esya! Essya," shouted all the professors in unison, for they, too, had come in contact with Pig Latin.

"Ellwa entha," continued Prof. Flunkem, "you will see the feasibility of my plan. Now, for instance, take DBA, which cannot be used because it is a repetition of DBA, Delirious Bullfrogs' Agglomeration. We will therefore put the second DBA in Pig Latin, making it read 'Deeda Beeba Aa,' which is something entirely dissimilar from DBA."

"And how!" interposed Gloomer, but nobody paid any attention to him, and the Pig Latin suggestion was unanimously passed, Prof. Gloomer, who would most certainly have voted against it, having given an awful moan of disgust and jumped through the window.

END OF THE EPIDEMIC.

THE writer is willing to hazard the prophecy that the epidemic of encephalitis is nearing its end. At the time this is written it seems to have passed the peak in the country and is just about going over it in the city of St. Louis. This refers to the discovery of cases, and some account is taken of the fact that the physicians of the district now know encephalitis even in the atypical form, which was not true in June, July, and the first part of August. The peak of deaths should follow about two weeks behind the peak of reported cases.

The indications are that, so far as St. Louis is concerned, the epidemic appeared in the country and later spread into the city. Proportionate to population, it has always been more prevalent in the country outside the city than it has been within the densely populated city.

Following the rule of epidemics, it was expected that the decline would be noted first without the city limits. The disease will not disappear in either area entirely for several weeks or months, if at all, but the number of cases will not be great enough to be called an epidemic or to excite alarm.

So far as can be judged this epidemic is following the course of epidemics of infantile paralysis. Epidemics of that disease, with but one important exception, have been ended by the latter part of October.

There has never been any large number of cases in a community during the year succeeding an epidemic, nor for a few years thereafter. Paris, Ill., had a small epidemic of encephalitis one year ago and there have been no cases reported from that city or the county in which it is located during this season. There are a dozen counties in Illinois that have had small epidemics this fall. One county has had more than a dozen recognized cases.

Coles county, adjoining Edgar, the county in which Paris is located, has had six recognized cases. There is reason to think that the small epidemic in Edgar county in 1932 has served to protect that county in 1933, though it may have contributed to the St. Louis epidemic.

This reasoning indicates that St. Louis and vicinity will have less than their share of encephalitis for the next few years. However, here and there in St. Louis and for a few hundred miles around there will be an occasional case.

Although the epidemic is passing, the disease is getting somewhat more deadly. In the earlier reports only one in eight died from their illness. The rate has risen to one in five. It is falling most heavily on the elderly. The children have escaped.

Those cases that recover seem to return to complete health. If there are to be any after effects or any chronic remainders, such is not indicated by the experience of this year.

SORE FEET.

O. B. R. writes: I have been troubled for the last eight to ten years with what I suppose is athlete's foot. I can get the blisters cleaned up easily enough, but they don't stay healed. When this trouble first started it was between my toes, but for the last two years it has come on the side of my foot. These blisters seem to come between two skins and have a terrible itching.

REPLY.

Probably your feet are reinfected repeatedly and often. Do you sterilize your shoes several times yearly? Formalin, sulphur, and sunlight are used for this purpose. How about your toe nails? The parasites are apt to be at home in and around the nails and to go on the warpath from time to time. Do you treat the nails? Washing the feet in a solution of hyposulphite of soda is a good preventive. So is a solution of hypochlorite. Of course, washing the feet with a solution does not protect against infection in the shoes and is of limited protection against infection around the nails.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

J. B. K. writes: 1. What are the symptoms of chronic Bright's disease? 2. Does albumin in the urine mean that such a disease exists?

REPLY.

1. Among the symptoms are albumin and casts in the urine, abundance of urine of low specific gravity, night urination, sometimes high blood pressure, shortness of breath, dropsy, heart disease, retinitis.

2. Generally, but not always. On the other hand, in some cases of chronic Bright's there is very little albumin.

MAY BE HAY FEVER.

Mrs. J. L. writes: What would cause an itch and redness right on the eyelids? This does not seem to affect my eyes in any way.

REPLY.

The cause probably is either hay fever or vernal conjunctivitis. There are several varieties of each disorder.

Inquiries on farm management, financing or governmental regulations addressed to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

Mrs. R. B. asks: I have made a payment on a farm in Michigan and have until Oct. 10 to make another payment. Can you tell me where I can make application for a government farm loan and how much time it will take to get a loan?

Answer: Your application should be addressed to the Agent of Federal Land Bank Commissioner, Federal Land bank, St. Louis, Mo. As a rule it requires from one to two months to secure a loan, since it is necessary to have the land offered for security appraised.

H. K. asks: I am a disabled ex-service man receiving a small pension and would like to buy a small place in Michigan for poultry raising. The place has an actual value of $1,800, but I can buy it for $650. Will the government make a loan for this purchase price?

Answer: Write to the Agent Land Bank Commissioner, Federal Land bank, St. Paul, Minn., who has jurisdiction over farm loans in the state of Michigan. Such a loan is made on the basis of three-fourths of the appraised value of the farm and buildings.

E. M. E. asks: Where do I make application for a federal loan on a farm in Pennsylvania?

Answer: Write to the Agent of the Land Bank Commissioner, Federal Land bank, Baltimore, Md.

LATER HOURS AT THE FAIR.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—I have been reading of late of the disappointment of the Fair officials over the alleged failure of Chicagoans to attend the Exposition in large numbers, and further that Maj. Lohr is attempting to do everything in his power to attract us there during October.

Do you not consider that it might be a splendid plan to leave the exhibits open until midnight or later, so that many who work during the day and others who, for one reason or another, prefer visiting the Fair after dinner may have a chance to really see something?

Further, might it not prove beneficial to the turnstile counters to abolish the curfew law during October? With the fall season coming on, the attendance might be heightened by appealing to those who want late hours, dancing, and general merriment.

If Maj. Lohr wants to attract Chicagoans in large droves, he should attempt to appeal to every one, and not just to those who enjoy seeing the Fair during the day, and leaving at 10 o'clock.

MORE ABOUT MILK.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Today's opening editorial, "About Milk," greatly interests me. It is very much in line with my own thought, which is that in all this controversy the consumer apparently is not considered at all except in the light of some one who is to be milked. It appears to be a great big racket with Uncle Sam taking the part of the hoodlum who protects the racketeer. I cannot understand why I am not to be allowed to go to a farmer who will sell me much better milk than I get from the big dairy companies at a considerable saving. He makes much more money; I save quite a little and get better milk. His cows are state inspected and approved.

What is the answer? I pay him 7 cents a quart, a saving of 4 cents, or 58 per cent. He gets more than double for his milk. We are both well pleased. Why shouldn't we trade? Will some one please tell me in plain, easily understood language?

CHICAGOANS AT THE FAIR.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Why do you persist in giving the impression through your editorials, cartoons and articles that Chicagoans are not visiting the World's Fair? Many of my friends, neighbors and acquaintances [and I speak of a comparatively small circle] have been visiting the Fair regularly, in many instances as many as 12 to 15 times, and we intend to keep on going until the closing date. We Chicagoans are proud of A Century of Progress, and we most strenuously object to giving nonresidents the impression that we have not the intelligence to appreciate A Century of Progress. I have often been curious to know what method is used in determining who are the out of town visitors to A Century of Progress and who are Chicagoans, and would be grateful if some one could enlighten me.

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 21.—In THE TRIBUNE of April 17, 1928, were copious extracts from an address delivered by President Calvin Coolidge at the opening session of the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Washington, D. C., in the course of which, or rather the burden of which was a serious warning against "the trespassing of the government into the domain of private business."

In the belief that nothing could be more timely today than a reprinting of that warning, from the heart and pen of one of the sanest occupants of the presidential office in our history, I venture to suggest that it be reprinted at the earliest practical date.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Morristown, N. J., Sept. 27.—I note that a proposal to continue daylight saving until the first Sunday in November has recently been defeated in your city. If the daylight saving period were to be extended, it should commence a month earlier in the spring, but not continue any later in the autumn than at present.

The sun rises at the same time in the last week of March as it does in the last week of September, a few minutes before 6, local time, in either case. A six month period of daylight saving, from the last Sunday in March until the last Sunday in September, would be most ideal.

UNOCCUPIED BUILDING.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—[Friend of the People.]—I wish to call attention to a building next to my house. This place is a headquarters for tramps and during the day children play in it. The floors, being open in some places and loose, may prove fatal to a child. Early in the morning men take out pipes and other materials, causing much noise. The place was boarded up, but some boys broke in and carried the lumber away.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

"KICK" IN BEER TO INCREASE AS REPEAL IS VOTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—There may be good beer of any alcoholic content the thirsty citizen desires ready when repeal is completed, if the brewers of the country follow up a ruling issued today by Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol.

Manufacture and retention of stronger than 3.2 beer was legalized in the beer bill passed at the last congress, Dr. Doran decided in his ruling today.

Dr. Doran pointed to the section of the law which declares that the permits issued to brewers "shall include permission to develop in the manufacture of such fermented malt or vinous liquors a liquid of an alcoholic content in excess of the maximum specified in the permit."

Beer May Be Stored.

Stronger brews, although they may be made, may not be withdrawn under the act unless their alcoholic content is reduced. They may be stored and held, however, pending their legalization.

The ruling was issued after Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep.] of Chicago had suggested the question to the commissioner in a letter. Congressman Britten today pointed out that additional revenue will come from the stronger beer which is taxed at $6 a barrel, compared with $5 for 3.2 brands.

In his decision Commissioner Doran explained that manufacture of stronger beer with the definite purpose of selling it after repeal would still be illegal under the national prohibition act. Such beer still is classed as medicinal liquor. He admitted, however, that the government probably could not successfully test the intentions of brewers in court.

Extra Session of Congress.

Representative Britten declared that he "would not be surprised" if the President called an extra session of congress to raise the tax of $1.10 a gallon on hard liquors which will take effect upon repeal.

Unless the tax rate is raised promptly upon repeal, dealers will stock up far in advance of immediate needs in order to avoid future increases in the levies, he said.

FORMER PRIZE DRY ENFORCER NOW ON TRIAL

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Maj. Chester P. Mills, who six years ago won the $25,000 Durant prize for the best plan to enforce prohibition, went on trial here today on prohibition law conspiracy charges along with seven other defendants in federal court, Brooklyn.

Included among the co-defendants was William C. Luth Mills, confidential assistant when the major was federal prohibition administrator for New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut.

Mills retired from government service in 1927, prior to competing successfully for the $25,000 prize offered by William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer. From 1930 to 1932 he was head of the Kant-Freeze company, manufacturer of an anti-freeze mixture for automobile radiators.

The government contends, according to Assistant United States Attorney Vought's opening to the jury before Judge Byers, that the Kant-Freeze company diverted industrial alcohol to the plant of the Trib-boro Chemical company in Brooklyn, where the stuff was purified and stored for later release to bootleg channels.

Mollisons Plan Hop Today for Long Distance Record

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Tomorrow morning, "if all's well," Capt. and Mrs. James Mollison intend to head their twin motored Seafarer II. eastward, in an attempt to break the long distance flight record. Their destination has been announced as Bagdad, Iraq. In order to beat the record established by Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, Frenchmen, last August, the Mollisons must fly more than 5,653½ miles. Codos and Rossi took off from New York Aug. 5 and landed at Rayak, Syria, 54 hours and 19 minutes later.

KELLY ADMITS THREATS ON URSCHEL'S LIFE, U. S. MARSHAL ASSERTS

Oklahoma City, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—A new threat against the life of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire, was reported to have been made today by George [Machine Gun] Kelly, notorious desperado, who is under heavy guard in the county jail here charged with kidnaping the oil man.

"I wouldn't sell Urschel any insurance; he hasn't long to live," Kelly was quoted as saying when Elman Jester, deputy United States marshal, asked him about a threatening note sent to Urschel during the federal court trial in which seven persons were convicted of a $200,000 kidnaping conspiracy.

"Yes, sir, I meant everything that was in it," the prisoner was reported to have said, referring to the note.

Herbert K. Hyde, U. S. prosecutor, said Kelly and his wife will enter pleas in the federal court here probably Thursday. Trial of the Kellys on the kidnap conspiracy charges has been set for Oct. 9.

ILLINOIS EFFECT OF COAL CODE MAY BE UNIONS' WAR

Progressives Say It Discriminates.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—No labor violence was reported in Illinois today as the bituminous coal code went into effect. But representatives of the Progressive Miners of America immediately announced that U. S. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings would be asked to force recognition of their union which has been denied by the Peabody Coal company and other operators in central and southern Illinois.

Dan McGill of Springfield, executive board member of the P. M. A., declared that the union should be given recognition under the code. There were reports, not verified, that the Progressive Miners' faction would seek a federal court injunction to force recognition and reëmployment of its striking members by the coal companies which have been hiring only men affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America.

Fear Further Outbreaks.

The Peabody Coal company and other operators have refused to employ men that were not members of the United Mine Workers locals. Peabody company officials declared that Progressives could be sent into the mines only if they switched union affiliations. There was fear of further outbreaks of violence in Saline, Sangamon, and Christian counties.

Gov. Horner may call another conference in his efforts to bring together the heads of the two unions and reach an agreement for a division of work, it was reported. Under the NRA code, there are provisions for miners choosing their own union organizations, it was pointed out, and some agreement must be reached if the situation is to be clarified.

To Act at Harrisburg.

At Harrisburg, Ill., the refusal of the Peabody mine superintendent to put Progressive miners back to work resulted in an announcement by Progressive union leaders that they would file a complaint against the company with the NRA labor board immediately.

In the same town, the Sahara mine No. 3, employing 400 miners, will open probably Wednesday, according to an announcement.

A petition signed by 240 Progressive miners at Duquoin, Ill., asking for reinstatement in their jobs, was turned down by the Peabody Coal company superintendent. Similar action was started at West Frankfort, Ill., by members of the Progressive union.

Officials of the Peabody company at Taylorville, Ill., predicted that the coal code would provide employment for about 15,000 idle coal miners.

In addition, there are several hundreds of wagon mines in the state which will be forced to hire about 5,000 workers to comply with code regulations, it was estimated.

Reopening of the Brewerton Coal company's mine at Lincoln was ordered yesterday by Federal Judge Walter Lindley of Danville, who has presided over receivership proceedings. Jobs for 300 were predicted.

Weather Conditions Delay Flight for Stratosphere

Lieut. Commanader T. G. W. Settle's takeoff in a second effort to reach the stratosphere by balloon has been postponed from today until Thursday at least, due to unfavorable weather conditions, sponsors of the flight announced last night. The flight will start from the Goodyear landing field at the south end of the World's Fair grounds.

LABOR OPPOSES INFLATION; FOR 'HONEST DOLLAR'

'Unflinchingly' Against It, Green Asserts.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Organized labor voiced vigorous opposition to currency inflation today and demanded that wages be paid in "honest dollars."

Acting through William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who opened the fifty-third annual session this morning, the convention asserted that labor would "stand unflinchingly against inflation."

"Labor knows that this is a problem that affects us very vitally," Mr. Green said, "because we know that when dollars are cheapened, commodity prices rise, but wages stand still. Until they can assure labor that we will get more of these cheap dollars for the day's work we perform, so that it will conform to the increase of commodity prices, it is my judgment that labor will stand unflinchingly against inflation.

Keep "Buying Power."

"I do not mean that we will not favor credit expansion," the labor leader added, "the development of a wise financial policy that will tend to increase the volume of money in circulation so that business can be carried on in a proper and businesslike way. But, my friends, when the worker earns a dollar he wants to be sure that the dollar is a real dollar and that it does not represent to him a reduction in buying power."

President Green said labor would stand behind President Roosevelt and would work for the success of the national recovery act, even though the codes as yet did not meet its program with regard to the shortening of maximum hours and the increase of minimum wages. There was a wave of applause when Mr. Green asserted the time had arrived when the success of the national recovery act required "the complete unionization of all workers in every trade and in every calling in every city and town.

Counsels Patience.

Mr. Green counselled patience in considering the recovery act's results. Although mistakes had been made in the rapid innovation of codes, he pleaded for fair judgment on "the great adventure."

"We must have faith," he said. "Faith in the new deal; faith in the principles of this act; faith in those who are honestly and liberally administering it, and most important of all faith in that great fearless leader, the President of the United States."

Although close to 3,000,000 idle have been returned to employment since March, 11,000,000 are still without jobs, he continued. Buying power in all industries, he added, has increased by about $310,000,000 a month.

MILK DEALERS URGED TO SIGN NEW PRICE PACT

Distributors of milk and milk products in Chicago and suburbs were being asked yesterday to sign an amendment to the milk trade agreement boosting retail and wholesale milk and cream prices for the metropolitan area. The amended agreement was brought to Chicago on Sunday from Washington, where its provisions had been approved by the agricultural adjustment administration.

Those close to the milk industry indicated the hope that the agreement might be approved by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace by the end of the week, and that the government would take steps to enforce rules raising the price from 10 to 11 cents a quart for milk sold in bottles early next week.

One of the provisions of the agreement, it was learned, is that milk sold in half pint bottles to school children shall cost 3½ cents a half pint, or 14 cents per quart, as compared to milk sold at wholesale to stores for 9½ cents per quart. The school children's milk is sold by dairies on a cash basis, with virtually no losses in bottles.

Several suburban dealers have taken the position that this price is excessive, but no consideration was given to the prices charged to school children when the government held a "public hearing" in Washington on the milk price schedules last week.

ASKS ECONOMIC PLAN AIMED TO PREVENT SLUMPS

Mrs. Perkins Also for Job Insurance.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—An economic program designed to prevent depressions, built around unemployment reserves, was outlined tonight by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Advocated at a general session of the national conference of Catholic charities, the remedies, aside from jobless insurance, are:

Social and industrial provisions for old age.

Public works or government expenditure planned in advance for stimulating employment and business in time of early slack in employment.

An agricultural program integrated with industry.

For unemployment insurance, the labor secretary declared for a compulsory system "because I believe it would provide an incentive for the stabilization of employment. The managers of industry would be exerting themselves to reduce their premiums just as they become interested in safety devices to cut their premiums under various state workmen's compensation laws."

Emphasizing that such insurance "is in no sense a cure for unemployment" of itself, Miss Perkins said a jobless reserve in industry "will immensely relieve the community of the cost of poor relief and charity."

Unemployment insurance was the only phase of her program amplified.

Payment of Relief Funds.

Discussing the criticism sometimes made of it, by comparison with its usage in England, Miss Perkins said:

"It should be remembered that the dole—the payment of relief funds to all the unemployed—was added to England's unemployment insurance fund with benefits going to those who paid no premiums. This destroyed the insurance principle artificially . . . Such blunders as those made in connection with unemployment insurance have been political, in my judgment. From them the United States should be able to learn a valuable lesson when we set up some form of compulsory reserves against unemployment."

"No one," Miss Perkins declared, "has found a cure for unemployment, although we are experimenting in that direction under the national recovery act."

Such a system, if it is to succeed, must be kept free "from the entanglements of dole features," Miss Perkins warned.

Build Up People's Earnings.

"It seems clear enough that we can no longer hope to build up the economic life of the nation," Miss Perkins said, "without first building up the earnings of the working population. To create prosperity we must develop opportunities for work; we must stabilize the incomes of our wage workers."

No longer, the secretary said, "should any single business man profit at the public expense by paying wages which depress the nation's standard of living and dry up the purchasing power which is the life blood of other industries."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

100 YEARS of Land Values in Greater Chicago

EVANSTON

A day's journey up the Green Bay road from the Fort Dearborn of 1833, the North Shore wilderness came down to Lake Michigan at a land and sea mark known to Indians and woodsmen alike as Gross Point. The first white settler hereabouts was S. J. Scott, in 1826.

Most of these 5,128 acres that are now Evanston and have been given a 1931 full assessed land value of $63,000,000, could be had in 1833 at the Government rate of $1.25 an acre, or a total of $6,410.

The Evanston district was originally a part of the region known as Gross Point. In 1850 the area was named "Ridgeville." In August, 1853, Dr. John Evans and other trustees selected a grove on the Evanston lake shore as the site of Northwestern University; and in the following year the town of "Evanston" was platted. In 1854 the "Chicago and Milwaukee" railroad was built into Evanston, and a "boom" followed during which a visitor records finding "every room at the hotel taken and people sleeping on the dining room tables."

Spurred by these developments, land values made great advances between 1853 and 1873, despite the panic of 1857 and the Civil War. As the table shows, 379 acres of Evanston land changed hands in 1853 for $25.000 or $66 an acre. Lot sales near Orrington and Foster Street showed an acre value of $267 in 1861 and again in 1864; $534 an acre in 1867, and $2,000 in 1868. After the Great Fire there was a rush to the suburbs. In 1872 a sale at Chicago Avenue near Greenwood brought $9,900 an acre, or $41 a front foot. The depression of 1873-1879 had its influence in Evanston as elsewhere, but sales were made in the eighties and nineties at $18 to $27 a front foot.

With the coming of modern transportation facilities, suburban development along the North Shore after 1900 was rapid. Evanston's population went from 19,000 in 1900 to 37,000 in 1920, and over 63,000 in 1930. The city became a business center for the rapidly growing North suburban area. The northeast corner of Orrington and Foster was valued by Olcott in 1912 at $50 a front foot, in 1929 at $200, and even in 1933 at $100 a front foot.

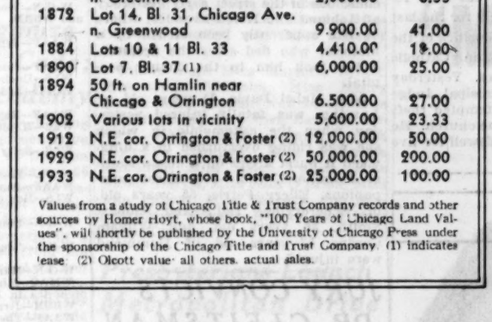
Values from a study of Chicago Title & Trust Company records and other sources by Homer Hoyt, whose book, "100 Years of Chicago Land Values", will shortly be published by the University of Chicago Press under the sponsorship of the Chicago Title and Trust Company. (1) Indicates lease. (2) Olcott value; all others, actual sales.



From $168,800 to $5,000,000,000, the black area shows the ups and downs in aggregate value of all land within Chicago's present corporate limits, from 1833 to 1933. Note the five major depressions through which Chicago real estate has passed and the extent of sustained recovery.

Study of Chicago's land cycle throughout the past 100 years helps to bring values into a true perspective. Though aggregate land values have generally drifted down for several years following each of the five major crises of 1837, 1857, 1873, 1893 and 1929, neither panic, war nor fire has been able to destroy them nor to depress them permanently. The aggregate value of city and suburban real estate has always recovered to new heights, and thereafter has never again gone so low as in any previous depression. Each cycle has proved again that land in Greater Chicago, conservatively valued and well purchased, is one of the best forms of investment available to capital.

CHARLES PIEZ, WARTIME FLEET CHIEF, IS DEAD

Former Chicago Business Leader and Engineer.

Charles Piez, chief executive of the government Emergency Fleet corporation during the war and friend of President Roosevelt, died yesterday in Garfield hospital in Washington. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Piez, who lived in Chicago until last May, was chairman of the board of the Link-Belt company of Chicago. He was a past president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and of the Commercial club of Chicago.

While pneumonia was the direct cause of his death, Mr. Piez' health had been failing for five years, and since February, 1932, he had been wholly inactive in business. Last May he moved from Chicago to Washington, where he made his home at the Shoreham hotel.

Selected by E. N. Hurley.

Mr. Piez was selected by Edward N. Hurley, then chairman of the United States shipping board, in November, 1917, to be vice president and general manager of the Emergency Fleet corporation to carry out the nation's ship building program. He later succeeded Charles M. Schwab as director general.

As chief executive of this enterprise Mr. Piez advised upon and directed the expenditure of $3,000,000,000 and had control of 600,000 employés. Mr. Schwab, on leaving the Emergency Fleet corporation, said of Mr. Piez: "I regard you, above all other men, as having contributed more to the work done in the fleet corporation than any one else."

Mr. Piez was a director of the Drexel State bank of Chicago, a director of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, a member of the executive committee of the Museum of Science and Industry founded by Julius Rosenwald. He received the honorary degree of doctor of commercial science from New York university, and was a member of the following engineering societies: American Institute of Mining Metallurgical Engineers; Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, Western Society of Engineers, and Engineers' Society of Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Promoter of Labor Laws.

Mr. Piez was instrumental in framing much of the labor legislation of the state of Illinois. He was a member of the commission that drew the state factory act, was chairman of the workmen's compensation commission, and a member of the state arbitration board.

Mr. Piez was born in Germany of naturalized American parents. He received his technical education as a mining engineer at the school of mines, Columbia university. He is survived by his widow, Laura Sadler Piez, formerly of Laurel, Md.; his sister, Ernestine Piez of New York city; nephews, Karl and Vernon Piez of Boston, Casper Piez of Collingswood, N. J., Walter Piez of Indianapolis, Richard Piez of Berkeley, Cal.; and nieces, Grace and Beatrice of Berkeley.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 2.—A novel method of fleeing from Russia came to light today following the forced landing in a Latvian field, just across the border from Russia, of a soviet mail plane piloted by Grigory Kravich.

Kravich informed authorities that he, pilot of the Leningrad-Moscow mail plane, had fled from Russia and did not intend to return.

Confesses Effort to Rob Church That Helped Him

Stephen Novak, 27 years old, 2403 South St. Louis avenue, has been receiving relief for his family for the last year from the parish authorities of the Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic church, 2600 Cermak road. Yesterday he confessed before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green the attempted theft of two poor boxes from the church. He was sentenced to the Bridewell for five months.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Driver Quizzed After Niles Center Crash.

Two persons were injured yesterday when a Greyhound bus drove through a funeral procession at Crawford avenue and Dempster street in Niles Center, wrecking the automobile in which they were riding in the cortége. The automobile burned after the collision.

The injured were Arthur P. Holz, 38 years old, 5743 Irving Park boulevard, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Hermina Christianson, 58 years old, 5741 Irving Park boulevard. Mrs. Christianson's condition is critical, it was said at St. Francis' hospital in Evanston, where she and Holz were taken.

Favored by Light, Police Say.

Elmer Chevalier of Madison, Wis., driver of the bus, was taken in custody by the Niles Center police. They said that the traffic light at the intersection was in his favor, but that the funeral procession had not passed Dempster street in Crawford avenue when he drove forward.

An unidentified Negro, about 55 years old, was killed yesterday when his car collided with that of Joseph Longnich Jr., 5322 South Artesian avenue, at Garfield boulevard and State street. Witnesses said that the Negro drove through a traffic light.

An unidentified man, well dressed and about 40 years old, was found unconscious in the street early yesterday at Ashland and North avenues, where he had apparently been struck by a motorist who fled after the accident. Police took him to the county hospital.

Mrs. Mabel Davis, 31 years old, of Lansing, was fatally injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding overturned in a ditch when it burst a tire on a curve south of Hammond, Ind. Her three companions, Ellery Petrie, 55 years old, of Schererville, Ind., and Hobart Smith, 36 years old, and William Cordna, 57 years old, of Hammond were injured.

JURY CONVICTS DR. GLEITSMAN OF GIRL'S DEATH

Dr. Emil Gleitsman, 67 years old, was found guilty of manslaughter last evening by a jury in Judge James F. Fardy's Criminal court. The jurors deliberated 40 minutes. The charge grew out of an indictment charging the physician, who is partly blind, with murder by abortion in connection with the death of Miss Mary Colbert, 854 North St. Louis avenue, on March 25.

Dr. Gleitsman, who had faced abortion charges five times before, has never been convicted until last evening. Assistant State's Attorneys John Leonard Murphy and Thomas Dillon said they would ask for an early sentence in the case. A motion for a new trial was set for hearing on Oct. 13.

The manslaughter conviction carries with it a statutory penalty of one to 14 years in the penitentiary. The prosecutors said they would hold in abeyance other charges pending the outcome of the new trial motion.

Dr. Oscar Ofner, widely known surgeon, died yesterday in his home at 556 Arlington place. Heart disease, from which he had been suffering for eighteen months, caused his death.

Dr. Ofner, who was 59 years old, was a native of Hungary, and before coming to Chicago in 1913 had served in high positions in Hungarian medical institutions. After a term as a lieutenant in the Hungarian army Dr. Ofner put in several years as an assistant in the obstetrical clinic at Budapest and eleven years as teacher of operative surgery at the Hungarian University of Sciences. Here he was a veteran staff member St. Joseph's, St. Elizabeth's, and Alexian Brothers' hospitals.

Surviving Dr. Ofner are his widow, Olga, and two children, Marion and Robert Ofner. Funeral services will be held in the chapel at 4717 Broadway at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow. Burial will be in Rosehill.

EMMA PHILLIPS, CONSUL'S WIDOW, IS DEAD AT 87

Mrs. Emma L. Phillips, 87 years old, widow of the Rev. Daniel T. Phillips, who served for eight years as American consul at Cardiff, Wales, died yesterday in her home at 7200 Lowe avenue.

Mrs. Phillips came to Chicago with her husband in 1892. Five years later he was appointed to the consular office in Wales by President McKinley and took his family there with him. He was reappointed by President Theodore Roosevelt and died in office in 1905. His sons, Ernest L. and Albert Phillips, also served in the consular service, and with him put in a total of thirty-five years in that work.

Surviving Mrs. Phillips are the two sons and a daughter, Mrs. E. D. Caswell. She will be buried in Oakwoods cemetery tomorrow afternoon following services at 1:30 at the Englewood Baptist church.

MILLION GALLONS OF APPLEJACK BEING DISTILLED

Scobeyville, N. J., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Laird & Co. distillery, holders of the first fruit distillers' and bonded warehouse permit issued since enactment of the eighteenth amendment, began today production of 1,000,000 gallons of apple brandy "for medicinal purposes."

The formality of the phrase can be dispensed with, plant officials said, as soon as repeal becomes effective. The Laird company hopes to have the beverage generally called applejack ready for consumption by Christmas. Orders already have been received from the Ritz-Carlton hotel bar in New York, John Laird, one of the proprietors, said.

PEER WHO SOLD GARDEN PRODUCE DIES IN ENGLAND

LEICESTER, England, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Sir George Beaumont, one of the most picturesque figures in Leicestershire, a county famous for its sportsmen, died today at the age of 52 years, at his home, Cole Orton hall. He was a descendant of a family tracing its ancestry to the Norman conquest.

Sir George not long ago surprised the villagers on his 4,000 acre estate by driving around and selling his own garden produce at prices half of those asked in the village market. Later he opened a small fruit, flower, and vegetable store in Coalville village, the girl sellers being clad in the baronet's racing colors—French gray and scarlet. Both ventures proved profitable.

Heir to the baronetcy is his 7 year old son, George Howland Francis Beaumont. The title was created in 1661 and Sir George succeeded in 1914. He served throughout the war and was wounded.

HUEY FILES PLEA TO WOMAN'S SUIT FOR DEFAMATION

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long today filed exception of "no cause or right of action" to the $500,000 character defamation damage suit filed against him by Mrs. Anne Ector Pleasant, wife of former Gov. Fuffin G. Pleasant, in East Baton Rouge District court.

Filing of the exception, which did not go into detail, followed a visit by Senator Long to the state capital.

The exception will be argued on a date to be set by District Judge W. Carruth Jones.

Wedding Will Be Held in Early Winter.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOME of the best friends of pretty Marguerite Foster and Leopold S. Fetcher, better known as Lee, received notes or telephone calls yesterday from these attractive and popular young people telling them that Miss Foster and Mr. Fetcher are engaged to be married early in the coming winter.

Miss Foster, the eldest child of the George B. Fosters of Dearborn parkway, received her early education at the Latin school and the University School for Girls in Chicago and then went to Les Fougeres in Lausanne, Switzerland. She made her debut in 1929 and is a member of the Junior league and the Service club.

Her younger sister, Geraldine, who went to Les Fougeres last winter, came home this fall in order to be here for her sister's wedding and now is going to the Latin school. They have one brother, George Jr., who is the youngest member of the family, being just 13.

Mr. Fetcher is the eldest of the four sons of the Edwin S. Fetchers of Winnetka, the others being Edwin Jr., John, and William. There is one daughter in the family, Miriam, who is east at college. Lee went to Cornell, but did not graduate, preferring to have several years abroad instead of a diploma. He lived for three years in France and Switzerland and since returning home has been working in Cincinnati, where he will take his bride to live. Mr. Fetcher is a grandson of the late John W. Root, famous architect, and a nephew of the present John Root. He is also a relative of Miss Harriet Monroe.

He came to Chicago for the weekend and stayed over for yesterday and today so as to be present tonight at the family dinner that Mrs. Fetcher is giving.

W. E. Clows Jr. Wed 25 Years

This is the silver wedding anniversary of the marriage of the junior William E. Clows, but, like the truly modern people they are, they aren't celebrating it together. It isn't convenient for them to be together today, so they aren't making any fuss or bother about it and the exchange of telegrams or long distance telephone calls will suffice for wishing each other "many happy returns of the day."

Mrs. Clow is up at Williamsburg in Ontario, where she goes periodically for treatment to relieve the arthritis from which she suffers, and Mr. Clow is expected to arrive home today from a partridge shooting expedition to the Island club in the Lac du Flambeau region of northern Wisconsin. Their elder daughter, Beatrice, Mrs. Lloyd A. Laflin, is at her home in Lake Forest, and the younger daughter, Francise, better known as "Baby," is visiting in the east.

Miss Mary Senior is to be cohostess with Miss Jean Wilhelm tonight at a party for the Goodman-Dewey bridal party, but unfortunately Miss Senior won't be at the party, for she cannot leave Vassar long enough to reach here today. She doesn't arrive until tomorrow, so the only prenuptial affair that she will enjoy is Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley's tea tomorrow afternoon following the rehearsal. The wedding of Miss Marjorie Goodman and Charles S. Dewey Jr. will take place Thursday afternoon.

Tonight's party is a dinner dance in the Empire room of the Palmer house and Miss Senior and Miss Wilhelm have invited a few outside the bridal party, making it a party of about 30.

Luncheon for Marchesa Marconi

Yesterday while the Marchese Marconi was being entertained at luncheon by the Museum of Science and Industry of the Rosenwald foundation in a private room of the Blackstone hotel, the marchesa was having luncheon with the wife of the Italian consul general, Mme. Castruccio, in the main dining room of the hotel. Also in the party was Mrs. David Sarnoff of New York and Mrs. Alfred Morton of Paris, who with their husbands are here with the Marconi party; Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, Miss Clara Lake, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Leo Wormser, and Mrs. Antonio Ferme.

Last night the marchesa and Mme. Castruccio and the other women of the Marconi party dined with Mr. and

Gold Splashes Kerchiefs for Formal Hours

Glitter Also Appears on Long Gloves.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A new invention to save the temper of laundresses . . . lipstick hankies made with a loop to snap over a conventional towel bar. They are a brilliant shade of red, as you may surmise, made especially for the gals who grab hastily for something to smooth away the tell tale edges after a hasty application of lipstick.

Some other new handkerchiefs glitter intriguingly in the cases. Brocaded squares to accompany your most glittering evening costumes . . . amazingly lovely things in white with fairy-like traceries of either silver or gold, or a filmy midnightblack chiffon splashed with golden stripes in criss-cross squares, or the same dark chiffon liberally dotted with penny gold dots. Quite decorative, but any shopper with any imagination will know they might be hard on the nose.

And speaking of glitter, have you seen the breathtaking new evening gloves . . . long romantic affairs of smooth black suede strewn with small shining rhinestones, or some fabulously lovely turquoise blue numbers accented between wrist and elbow with sparkling diamond like rhinestone, or the dusky pink gauntlet gloves combined with deep narrow godets of inky black suede, all spectacular creations particularly effective with any of the picturesque new long sweeping evening gowns.

Did you know you could buy ostrich feather trimmings by the yard? . . . some fascinating pale pink stuff made of what is called burnt ostrich, long uncurled fronds of ostrich that utter a good ten inches from the tape to which they are fastened.

Old and distinctly dated evening gowns can be transformed with deep ounces of either pink or white, with deep cape to swing over the shoulder straps of the same feathery new trimming.

WE are pleased to report that a bishop can recite a limerick at lunch, and also to give you the limerick which is a pretty good one. The bishop was the Rt. Rev. William T. Manning of the New York Episcopal diocese, and his host at the luncheon was the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart. It is an Einsteinian limerick, and, as remembered by Angus Hibbard, goes thus:

Limerick—Telegram—People—Nominee—Clipping.

She went out one day

JANET FAIRBANK, who made her debut in opera Saturday evening as Zerlina in "Don Giovanni" and delighted her audience with her acting as well as her singing, was deluged with flowers and telegrams. A wire that amused her considerably was from her brother, Benjamin, in Boston, and had to do with the title of a song that Miss Fairbank herself does not care for but that is a favorite of her mother, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank. It is "Surely the Time for Making Song Has Come," and when Miss Fairbank sings at home her mother is sure to ask for it. The wire from Brother Ben, which arrived just before the curtain went up, merely said: "Surely the Time for Making Song Has Come." And it was signed "Otto Kahn."

"The last time we crossed in the Electra we anchored in New York harbor and before we lifted anchor I wanted to tip a Columbia Yacht club servant who had been helpful. We served liquor aboard, since we were sailing under the Italian flag, and the fellow asked if he might have a bottle of whisky instead of money. I gave it to him, and learned he drank it up himself, all at one time, and got roaring drunk . . ." . . . Film Stars Organize Guild to Fight Code; 14 Quit Arts Academy

Fourteen of the film players, in a wholesale walkout, resigned from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, saying they were not satisfied with the manner in which the academy represented them at the code hearings. Twelve other stellar players, nonmembers of the academy, joined them in the protest.

Under the leadership of Frank Morgan, the 26 protestants began forming a screen players' guild, open to all film actors, to combat sections of the producers' code deemed objectionable and to fight the proposed formation of a salary control board.

Those joining in signing the telegram include Ann Harding, Otto Kruger and Eddie Cantor.

Mrs. Meeker Converted to Modern Art

Reveals New Conviction at Club Tea.

"I've been converted to modern art" was the greeting Mrs. Arthur Meeker gave Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Miss Alice Roullier yesterday afternoon at the opening tea of the season at the Arts club. And if you could have seen the joy with which the president and art chairman of this club, which specializes in very modern "shows," received Mrs. Meeker's news you would know how highly these two young women value the opinion of this older woman who is one of society's most cultured and charming women.

Mrs. Meeker went on to explain that she had been converted by hearing Daniel Catton Rich lecture many times this summer at the Art institute about A Century of Progress exhibit, which should be a feather in the cap of young Mr. Rich, for we're sure that many have tried before—apparently failed—to convert Mrs. Meeker.

Club Popular Meeting Place.

There was no exhibit to attract the members and guests yesterday, just an informal tea party opening the club. Every one habitually seen at Arts club parties was there, however, all glad the attractive club is open again, for it is popular for luncheon and tea.

Mrs. Goodspeed and Miss Roullier are just back from Paris and both were looking unusually smart, although Mrs. Goodspeed said that she was wearing a gown that had been purchased in Chicago long before she went to France. New silver trimming, resembling a necklace and bracelets, and a new velvet hat, however, gave her costume a Parisian touch. Miss Roullier also was in black with touches of white.

A few of the many who enjoyed a cup of tea or coffee were Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Mrs. George A. Poole, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, Mrs. Jefferson Jackson, Mrs. Clair E. More, Arthur Heun, Mrs. Louis K. Boysen, Miss Agnes Foreman, and Mrs. John F. Stacy.

Debutantes Told of Fashion Show.

At the Casino yesterday afternoon the debutantes heard about the part they will have in St. Luke's fashion show at the Stevens hotel on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 19. "No one must feel hurt if she is not asked to walk down the runway to show off clothes," explained Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed. "If a store shows sports clothes and requests an athletic type to show them, the willowy brunette will not be in much demand, naturally," she continued, "but every girl can help, either by modeling clothes or by selling cigarets and flowers."

Some of those who listened to Mrs. Reed were Miss Lucy Harrison, who will be here for the show, but who is leaving early in November to spend the winter in France, Italy, and Austria with the George Carrs; Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Miss Betty Alexander, Miss Kean Hughes, Miss Doris Bokum, Miss Fleury Leonard, Miss Peggy Hixon, Miss Charlotte Hubbart, Miss Gretchen Onderdonk, Miss Mary Kay Downs, Miss Barbara Shaffer, and Miss Eleanor Janney.

Others were Miss Marjorie Street, Miss Jean Wilhelm, Miss Nancy Morse, Miss Marion Newcomet, Miss Virginia Thatcher, Miss Barbara Hobart, Miss Lillian Lampert, Miss Myrtle Lampert, Miss Jeannette Schreiner, Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Nancy Harris, Miss Jean O'Brien, Miss Ann Palmer, Miss Barbara Ann Sargent, Miss Bobette Boysen, and Miss Helen Dawes.

Presbyterians Launch Metropolitan Drive for Spiritual Recovery

The 120 Presbyterian churches with their 50,000 members in the metropolitan area last night launched a spiritual recovery campaign. Directing the crusade is the Rev. Dr. Herman Weber, of New York. The area including communities from Highland Park to Joliet has been divided into ten sections in which mass meetings are being held. The purposes of the crusade are: more intensive personal service by church members, deeper religious devotion and increased giving. The crusade will last throughout October.

Good Morning!
He was a gangster's lawyer,
She was a gangster's moll,
And their romance worked out in a way
That was most ex-cep-tion-al.

In "Penthouse" you have a gangster melodrama with a new twist.

The piece is speedy, actionful, well acted, and unusually blessed as to crisp dialogue. Risque situations, of which there is a number, are handled with taste, and the comedy kettle is kept boiling right merrily.

Warner Baxter is seen as Jackson Durant, brilliant lawyer, who defends underworld sinners. The society girl he loves turns him down when he refuses to give up his practice for her sweet sake. Later she is to eat humble pie. But that is later.

Free from Durant, Sue immediately engages herself to Tom Siddall, who, before he knew her, had "kept" a certain pretty Mimi. Mimi is shot. Tom's suspected. And Sue pleads with Durant to defend her lover. . . .

And now Durant meets Gertie, who was a friend of dead Mimi's. He takes her to his penthouse to quiz her. Though their relations remain "strictly business," a romance devolps hotly. . . . Gertie's level head and beauty come to the rescue more than once during the thrilling sequences that are concerned with bringing the identity of the real murderer out into the daylight.

Nat Pendleton as a king racketeer who is a loyal friend of Durant's furnishes a lot of interest—human and comedy with a touch of pathos at the last. Georgie Stone features dynamically in a rat scaring scene that'll remind you of the Jack La Rue horse-whipping episode in "The Woman Accused."

Mr. Baxter does a fine, outstanding job as the lawyer, and Myrna Loy, a bit plumper than of yore, equals his performances with her slickly delivered portrayal of Gertie. Mae Clark has a brief, effective entrance as poor Mimi, and you'll care for the other players with the possible exception of Martha Sleeper as Sue. I didn't like anything about her—not even her hats.

"Penthouse" is an extraordinarily attractive photoplay pictorially, with its modernistic sets, beautiful lighting and costumes—all bearing witness to an alert directorial eye that never slept.

Morini Scores in Her Opera Debut in City

Role in 'La Traviata' Wins Large Audience.

"LA TRAVIATA."

Violetta.....Rosalinda Morini
Flora.....Marie Zara
Alfredo Germont.....Dimitri Onofrei
Gastone.....Francesco Curci
Giorgio Germont.....Mario Valle
Baron Douphol.....Fausto Bozza
Doctor Grenvil.....Natale Cervi
Annina.....Marie Zara
Conductor, Carlo Peroni

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Here is a sorrowful and tuneful piece, one of the most popular in the entire operatic répertoire. It deserves particular attention on this occasion because last night's performance had a newcoming and uncommonly interesting artist in the leading soprano rôle.

Miss Morini has been heard in concert at various times during the last year, but in spite of a reputation for many successful operatic appearances elsewhere, this was the first time that she had sung a lyric rôle here. She was a success, and there were several reasons therefor.

First and foremost, she is fully able to sing the music that Verdi wrote for the fair and frail heroine of what was at first a Dumas novel. Here is some tricky stuff to sing. Miss Morini met it easily, with complete composure and self-assurance. Her voice is brilliant and flexible, she has a good deal of a gift of expression, she knows her way about the stage, and she has definite ideas about the dramatic values of the piece.

But also, she is youthful of appearance and easy on the eyes. Wherefore both technically as a singer and artistically as a singing actress she scored, and a large audience bore noisy and continued testimony to the fact.

She had good help, which assisted both her individually and the performance collectively. Mr. Onofrei has appeared in various sorts of rôles since the San Carlo company came to the Auditorium. The melodic singing of the younger Germont was so much in his metier that it is somewhat difficult to say that he was not another star of the performance.

For that matter, there was a third star. Mr. Valle may customarily be considered a dramatic singer, but this performance showed beyond chance of an argument that he is also a lyric singer, and that of high ability. One must be exigent indeed to demand more fluency, finer line of tone than he presented to the audience in the second act of this opera. Time and space lack for complete consideration of the excellent work done by minor members of the cast.

SYNOPSIS.

Sheila, known as "Bun" O'Reilly, an American living in Paris, receives a phone call from Mrs. Thelma Craymer, a stranger, who mentions a mutual friend. Bun agrees to meet her for luncheon. On her way to keep the engagement Bun meets three American friends.

INSTALLMENT II.

SINISTER TONGUES.

Bun's glance followed Crawford as he lounged across the sidewalk. As she did so her eyes showed that soft glow that denoted they were resting upon something she liked to see. His tall figure, clad in loose flannels—he had been described as having a broad, nice, stomachless carcass—disappeared within the café door. Bun turned back to the others.

"Is everything all right with him?"

Bun's eyes clouded, but only for a moment. "I'd like to know how Surely that paper——"

"I've heard him say the same thing about you many times."

She laughed. "But my life's an open book. I do anything"—she hesitated for a bare second—"that pays."

Ames frowned himself out of a long silence. "Cut it, Bun. You're saddling yourself with a rotten reputation. Not with us. I mean with those who don't know you. After all—you're over here alone."

"That's less compromising than some company I know. It's what I like about Europe—its privacy. You don't have to explain away every one's curiosity."

"All this free lancing you do. Disappearing and reappearing from God knows where. Fine clothes. Car. Swanky apartment."

Bun inhaled reflectively. "Isn't that all to my credit, especially as I pay as I go?"

"That's just what bothers them—that you do pay."

"Then the only thing for me to do is prepare a sort of card index and have you pass it round to all inquiring friends." She put down her cigaret and reached for the list of drinks and turned its blank side up on the table With a pencil Beaton offered her she began to write.

"Sheila O'Reilly. Born——" she looked up. "Do I have to tell when? But why should I mind! I probably look every day of it. Twenty-eight." She wrote the date in a clear, upright handwriting.

"Education? I think I'd better say none. Governesses and European travel don't count, do they? Parents: conventional New York mother and entirely unconventional father—a bothersome combination when the offspring inherits characteristics from both—which I did. Loss of mother's fortune and death of both parents created the thrilling experience of being up against the world. Came to Paris with a contract to write weekly letters to the Butterfly Silk Stocking company. When company failed took up fashion articles. Last winter threaded a group of tourists through the flea-bitten byways of the near east. During August played society at the Lido and landed a socially ambitious family in the best European circles. Ready to accept any job—provided it pays. Never yet tried to lift the Mona Lisa from the Louvre—but might go even that far if the price were big enough." She considered what she had written with gravely wrinkled brow. "I think that's about all. I might add ambitions. They are suggestive. My present one is to buy an old manor I saw in Normandy last year—and spend my rapidly approaching senile years in a peaceful quietude." She pushed the card toward Ames. "Isn't that a record that would quell any sprouting anxiety?"

Bun looked out at the passing traffic. "You don't think I could say none?"

"You might—but it wouldn't ring true."

She reached for the card and wrote again. "Three serious offers of marriage—one from the corner policeman one night when he was drunk; one from a college professor who had recently lost his second wife; and one from a bootlegger who ran a speakeasy across the street. When the family fortune disappeared all three offers were withdrawn." She passed the card again to Ames.

"With some one else all this might be true. With you—no."

Bun drained the last drop of her vermouth. "And yet—believe it or not—it actually is true."

Crawford lounged forward from the café door. "Mrs. Thelma Craymer—I'll bet a hundred francs she calls it Craymair now—has lived here about seven years. Known in the American colony. One of the Ritz tea hounds—if you use the term in referring to a lady. Has her own car and chauffeur. That any help to you?"

"None in the least. I imagined all that. But thanks just the same."

"Then it's the low down you want! That'll take a little more time. Will tomorrow do?"

Bun looked at her wrist watch. "I'm afraid it won't, Fred, as I'm due to meet her now." She gave her hand to each in turn. "It's good to see you all again. I've half a mind to throw a party. Will you dine with me tonight—in the Bois? No other woman. I like having three men all to myself. It upsets the French so and proves all their logic wrong—so far as Americans go. Then at eight. I'll pick you all up at the Crillon."

They watched her as she threaded her way through the tables. When she was gone they sat down in fairly somber silence—as if the sunlight had suddenly gone under a cloud.

"Not only French logic," Ames grumbled. "American, too. How long have you known her, Crawford?"

"Ever since she's been here—ten years."

"Must have some sort of a social background—the way she barges around with the nuts. New Yorker, isn't she?"

"O, cut it out! I'm as fond of Bun as you are. And every bit as good a friend. But you know—so does Beaton—that we don't know a damn thing about her."

"I know all I want to," Beaton cut in. "She's tiptop—and I'm all for her."

Ames ordered a final cocktail. "All the same—I wish it was all a little more straight across the counter."

"For instance?"

"Well—this last disappearance. She's been away six weeks. Now—why doesn't she come out and tell us where she's been? Met a man this morning who said he saw her in Vienna two nights ago. I hope she's not got herself mixed up in one of these international secret agencies."

Crawford smiled wryly. "Perhaps she's not conspicuous enough yet to have to account for all her movements. What's she written on that card?"

"The so-called history of her life." Ames pushed the card toward him. Crawford glanced at it. When the conversation had shifted to another subject he slipped the card into his inside pocket.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

BLOOD WILL TELL.

Prof. Fordney had been invited to talk to the detective force of Kansas City by Lieut. Gordon.

After telling a story or two he said: "I had rather an interesting case some years ago which carries a lesson.

"Malcom Linderman, a retired engineer, seventy years old, was found dead by his bedside with several wounds on the forehead and right temple which had bled profusely. I was called in on the case by Sergt. Reynolds.

"The old gentleman's face and hands were covered with blood. When Reynolds, an observing officer, found a perfect impression of five left fingers on the palm of Linderman's left hand, he at once came to the conclusion that the engineer had been assaulted and that his murderer, after beating him over the head, had flung him to the floor. The victim was in frail health.

"The sergeant pointed out to me blood stains on the desk and foot of the bed.

"'You see,' he said to me, 'the old man must have tried to raise himself up, collapsed and in a final frantic effort to hold on to consciousness, clutched his hand, leaving the impression of his fingers on the palm.'

"I carefully examined the dead man's slippers and told Reynolds his deductions were wrong."

WHY WERE REYNOLDS' DEDUCTIONS WRONG?

[See solution on page 29.]

BY MARY MEADE.

We've suspected it for some time! For seasons now tangy mincemeat has been going about the business of puffing up soul warming pies—with a most absent minded expression on its countenance. And now we have the reason. For October and cool, nippy days are ushering in the newest excitement in culinary circles, mincemeat specials which don't even come within hailing distance of their old friend, the pie crust!

And what's even more important, we've discovered that the heavy and indigestible mincemeat of yesterday is not even distantly related to the mixtures of fruit and meats we may actually buy ready made and packaged today. Simply remember that such combinations contain a goodly supply of protein.

MINCEMEAT REFRIGERATOR COOKIES.
1 [9 ounce] package mincemeat
½ cup water
1 cup butter
¾ cup brown sugar
¾ cup white sugar
2 eggs
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup cut up nut meats

Add the water to the mincemeat and boil them together until almost dry. Cool the mixture. Meanwhile cream the butter and sugar and stir in the lightly beaten eggs. Sift the flour, soda, and salt together, and blend thoroughly with the butter mixture. Fold in the cooled mincemeat and the nuts, and form the mixture into a roll. Wrap in oiled paper or press into a stick mold to chill over night. To bake, slice cookies off the end of the roll, making them extremely thin, bake on a buttered baking sheet in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] for 10 minutes.

SPICY MINCEMEAT MUFFINS.
1 [9 ounce] package mincemeat
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup graham flour
¾ cup flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 egg
3 tablespoons melted butter

Add the water to the broken up mincemeat and boil together until almost dry. Sift together the dry ingredients, and blend thoroughly with the combined milk and beaten egg. Beat well and add the meat mixture and melted butter. Bake in greased muffin tins for 35 to 45 minutes in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.].

1 [9 ounce] package mincemeat
½ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
1-3 cup butter
1 cup molasses
½ cup sugar
2¾ cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
Few grains of salt
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg

Combine the mincemeat and the ½ cup of water and boil till quite dry. Allow to cool while you melt the butter in the hot water. Add the molasses and sugar to the latter mixture and stir thoroughly. Sift in the mixed dry ingredients, add the egg, and finally fold in the cooled mincemeat. Bake in a buttered pan at 350 degrees F. for 1 hour.

Favorite Pattern Honors Marriage with Double Ring

BY NANCY CABOT.

Perhaps the revived popularity of the double ring marriage service accounts for the renewed popularity of this old and interesting quilt pattern, which one expert estimates has been used more than any other in the many years of quilt history. It could hardly be called difficult, but the quilter must take care that the circular bands do not pucker.

For a quilt pattern of this design send five cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Wives Say Men Are Too Casual After Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What is this we hear about the "too-casual" manner in which you men treat your wives?

Let's say you're married five, eight, ten or more years, and things are not going as smoothly as they did in the beginning. Ever query yourself, gentlemen, on whether you're taking the little woman's devotion too casually? Whether you accept it without a word of appreciation, or a sign of the old devoted Romeo you used to be?

We hear tell that women are very frank in discussion of this fault of yours. In fact, we sat in recently at a "trial by feminine jury" on this particular point. True, you were not there to defend yourselves and no doubt you have reasons to offer for the casualness of your present attitude, but that's beside the point at the moment. Do you ever think of whether that wife of yours thinks of your devotion in terms of casualness?

You probably have been laboring under the impression that, as men go, you're a pretty darned good husband. You bring home the bacon, or as much of it as you can wrest from an ungenerous world. You pay the bills—grudgingly, complainingly sometimes—but you get them paid. You don't trifle with other women. You don't beat the youngsters, or the wife, or your mother-in-law. All right, so far as it goes, but wives do keep on wishing for lovers in their men. They don't want to be taken for granted.

We even hear that the working wife's income is treated with the same casual acceptance as her romantic moods. And that is not a woman's idea of sentiment.

True, they ought to get over it, act their ages, and know their men are doing the best they can, and be thankful for their blessings, but they don't. And they aren't exactly thankful when they get to thinking things over. They crave more. Anyway, they don't want to be treated as just another cog in the household machinery. Maybe they want to be thought the whole machinery. We don't know, any more than you men. But we do know that they're craving some of that old "wonderful girl" stuff and nice love making at which you used to be so competent.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

She Seems Interested.

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a girl but can't find out whether she likes me. Sometimes she seems to but she talks about other boys a great deal, one in particular. J."

If she accepts your invitations and gives you at least some of her time you're safe in assuming she's interested. Her mention of other boys isn't such stiff competition.

Autumn Clothes Take Slim Line, Many Curves

Slender Sisters Need to Build Up Bust.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

There's a hard season ahead for silhouettes, unless you have the kind that can wear a princess frock, for the princess seems to be the foundation line of all good fall and winter costuming.

Of course, the widened shoulder is going to be of some use to those reckoning their weights in more than ounces. But it surely requires a lot of slimness and neatness of line to do the princess dress act as expected. It's a little confusing to study the silhouette situation as presented in the better fashion magazines. They say you must be as slim as a wand, but you must have curves, and a bosom.

Foundation garments that improve the bust line will have to serve a temporary need, if not a permanent, because putting on such weight as will curve the bust line is not the quickest form of figure recovery.

However, the signs all point to this restoration to the silhouette of the curved bust line. The long, clinging dresses are pretty impossible without curves in the area mentioned. So, if you haven't the figure yet, you'd better pin on a bosom of some sort. There's no difficulty in getting the kind your particular figure needs.

Then, because the type figure is always in style, no matter what the year or season, you'd better begin to build up for health as well as beauty. It's well nigh impossible to do this unbuilding without adding weight the body over.

This slight increase in hips and waist makes very little difference in the slim effect you'll maintain, though they do add five to ten pounds. I wish the thin ones could see this, so they wouldn't be so scared to drink milk, take cream and butter in wholesome amounts and eat food that builds. I won't have space here to go into the diet, that can be obtained for a stamped envelope. Today I merely want to make women conscious of their figure needs if they hope to join the 1934 style parade.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The Turkish ambassador, Ahmet Muhtar, dean of the diplomatic corps, accompanied by the second secretary of the embassy, Issaki Zade Bulent, left Washington today by motor for Chicago, where, after stops in Pittsburgh and in Whiting, Ind., they will be at the Belden-Stratford hotel.

Teachers Fix Child's Opinion of Education

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Teachers, listen in! As I did on the train one day not long ago.

"Who've you got this year"

"I'll say! Boy! I'm sorry for you. We've got Miss Johnson this term, and isn't she simply neat! I'm glad last year is over," and a sigh followed this expression of relief at emerging from the sway of Miss Brown.

Teaching is a difficult profession. It takes more out of a person than any other kind of work, I think,—certainly out of a woman. In the first place, teachers in our public schools usually work under pressure. They are expected to cover certain ground regardless of the mental capacity of the children, and they have large classes. The inactivity that is imposed on the children and the amount of academic work required make it not easy to keep them interested and harmonious. Dealing with from thirty to fifty human beings for five hours every day for nine or ten months round is not easy.

But school life is not simple for the children, either. And teachers have it in their power to make or mar each day for the boys and girls in their classes.

I wonder if teachers realize the power they have to make unhappy, dull, and even fearful the little children, and the big ones, too, who are forced to be with them for hours each day.

Wedding Will Be Held in Early Winter.

Today at 12:30 o'clock the hostess committee of the Illinois commission to A Century of Progress and the Dante Alighieri society will give a reception and buffet luncheon for the Marconis in the Illinois Host house at the Fair. Mrs. Marco Adrogna and Col. Trygge Siqueland are in charge of arrangements, and Dr. Italo F. Volini is chairman of the reception committee.

This afternoon there is to be a reception for the distinguished Italian scientist and his wife in the Italian pavilion, and tonight President and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes are giving a dinner for them in the Court of Honor of the Federal building at A Century of Progress.

Mira Lee Benoist at Prophet's Ball

Miss Mira Lee Benoist, daughter of the William F. Benoists of Winnetka, left last night for St. Louis, where her family used to live, to attend the Veiled Prophet's ball tomorrow night. The Veiled Prophet's ball is an annual affair in the Missouri city and the outstanding social affair of each season. The most prominent debutante of each winter is chosen as the queen, or perhaps we have put the cart before the horse, for whoever is chosen queen always develops into the most prominent and popular bud of her season. Her maids of honor are daughters of well known families, too, and to be chosen as the queen or one of her maids assures a St. Louis debutante a brilliant winter.

Miss Benoist, who made her debut in Winnetka last winter, is sailing on Oct. 15 on the Duchess of Atholl from Montreal to visit Miss Elizabeth Dawson in York, England. The girls will do some hunting in Scotland and when Miss Benoist returns in three months Miss Dawson will accompany her home for a visit in Winnetka.

Mrs. Howard Linn will read some French poems with musical accompaniments, Chauncey McCormick will talk about A Century of Progress exhibit at the Art institute, and René Weiller, the French consul, will speak at the opening meeting of the season of Le Cercle Français this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

One Hundred Club Meets.

Those who have winter homes at Miami Beach and belong to the Committee of One Hundred, which has grown so that it now numbers three hundred and sixty and represents two hundred and fifty cities, will have their annual dinner tonight in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel.

Fred A. Poor is chairman of the committee in charge. While the men are dining at the Drake their wives will attend "Dinner at Eight" at the Grand Opera house, and the two groups will meet at midnight at the Firestone building in the Fair grounds for a supper dance and theatrical entertainment that Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Firestone will give.

Gov. David Scholtz and Mrs. Scholtz of Florida are here for the dinner, and so are Mayor and Mrs. A. Frank Katzentine of Miami Beach, and dozens of other prominent people from the north, east and south.

After a lovely summer in Santa Barbaraba, where they occupied the house of their relatives, the Clarence B. Mitchells, the John P. Kelloggs and their children arrived at home in Lake Forest yesterday. Mrs. Kellogg and Mr. Mitchell are sister and brother. Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. King, came home on the same train with the Kelloggs.

Potter Palmers Expect Guests.

The Potter Palmers, who have just arrived at home from a summer in Bar Harbor, are expecting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Lewis Thorne, to come from their home in Millbrook, N. Y., later this month for a visit.

Miss Nancy Doering and Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid are sailing on the Manhattan on Oct. 11 for Miss Weaver's school in Munich. Nancy is the youngest of the junior Edmond J. Doerings' daughters and Mary Elizabeth is the Bryan S. Reids' daughter.

The Volney Fosters are expecting a visit from their son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. Rex Benson of England, in December. Maj. and Mrs. Benson are coming to this country in November, but they probably will not come to Chicago until almost Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux are at home after a summer abroad. They plan to make their annual visit to Florida in January.

More travel and change in location plans: Mr. and Mrs. William K. Meyers, who moved to Winnetka last spring expecting to be year 'round commuters, have moved back to town for the winter . . . Mrs. Julie Manierre Mann and her son, Billy, changed their plans and instead of going to California for the winter they are motoring to Florida. They will be at Sarasota where Mrs. Mann can study at the Ringling School of Art and Billy will be in a preparatory school . . . Mrs. Philip Harris Giddens of New York is visiting her mother, Mrs. B. M. Gresham of East Chestnut street . . . the Andrew McNallys have returned to Evanston after having spent the summer at their place in the Thousand islands.

D. F. Smith II. to Wed Eastern Girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Van Wie of 40 Lloyd road, Montclair, N. J., announce the engagement of their daughter, Jeannette, to Daniel Freeman Smith II., son of Frank W. Smith of Evanston. Miss Van Wie is a member of the Junior League of Montclair.

Mrs. Henry Paulman of 4845 Kenwood avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Beverly, to Louis James Stirling, son of James Stirling Jr. Miss Paulman is a graduate of Vassar, class of 1931, and Mr. Stirling is a graduate of the University of Chicago, where he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Scandrett Jr. gave a dinner-dance at their country house, Sotobed, at Idlewild, in Orange county, for Mr and. Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Johnston, who were married last spring, and Mr. and Mrs. Everest Denslow Haight, who were married in August.

Dr. and Mrs. James C. Ayer, who are at Shadowland, Glen Cove, will be at the Hotel Pierre after Oct. 9 until they go to their winter home at Nassau.

ENGAGEMENT

Mrs. Harriet Rogers Rose of 7301 Bennett avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy Rogers, to Joseph Baldwin Grigsby of Chicago. Miss Rose is a graduate of the University of Illinois and a member of Beta Phi Alpha sorority. Mr. Grigsby is a graduate of the University of Michigan and a member of Sigma Delta Kappa fraternity. The wedding will take place on Oct. 15 and the couple will live in Washington, D. C.

Noel Coward's Operetta May Be Seen Here

"Bittersweet" Revived for St. Louis Season.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Bittersweet," the operetta by Noel Coward which had long runs in London and New York about four years ago, is a prospect for the Chicago stage within the next month or six weeks. This piece, as revived by the St. Louis Opera company under the direction of J. J. Shubert last summer, is now being played in Dallas, Tex., as an attraction for the period of the state fair. At the conclusion of this engagement, early in November, the Messrs. Shubert hope to bring the organization to Chicago.

The principals in the cast are Allan Jones, who sang here last spring in "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time," and "The Red Robin"; Leonard Ceeley, who figured importantly in the long Chicago runs of "Nina Rosa" and "Marching By"; Margaret Carlisle, who sang Helen Morgan's rôle in the first Chicago engagement of "Showboat"; Berna Deane, remembered as the prima donna of "The Vagabond King," "The Love Call," and "Nina Rosa"; Larry Rich, Harry K. Morton, and Zella Russell.

"Bittersweet" had Peggy Wood, an American, as its heroine during its London run, and Evelyn Laye, an English girl, in that rôle during its American engagements.

The Theater Guild has decided that Monday, Nov. 6, will be the right date for the opening of its Chicago season, with Ina Claire in S. N. Berhman's comedy, "Biography," as the play. The engagement will be of two weeks' duration. This play and its successors on the subscription program of the Theater Guild and the American Theater society will be given at the Erlanger theater if Messrs. Olson and Johnson will move "Take a Chance" out of that playhouse when the World's Fair closes.

At present, however, the comedian-managers are manifesting intentions to remain in the Erlanger indefinitely unless their box office receipts drop below the minimum set down in their contract. This constitutes what is known as a dilemma, over which the Chicago management of the Theater Guild is fretting.

Walter Hampden will begin his season in a new version of Victor Hugo's "Ruy Blas" in the Cort theater, New York, on Oct. 23. A cross-country tour, including Chicago, will follow this engagement.

Taffeta Details Adorn Wool Frocks; Looped Scarf Replaces Cat's Bow

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Lucien Lelong has in his fall and winter collection a number of stunning little woolen dresses tricked out with taffeta details. They give women something dainty to replace the organdie and pique details worn so much last summer. Last, but a long way from least, is the way Lelong substituted a sort of looped scarf for the big cat bow which has become entirely too familiar to be chic. Just how this goes is demonstrated in the illustration

The model here shown is made of a greyed-blue angora woolen, and the looped scarf arrangement is made of taffeta striped with pale grey, dark grey, green and blue. This forms a collar at the back of the neck, which widens over the shoulders in front, falls part way down over the arms in front, and is brought up to the neckline in the center and held by a silver buckle.

The dress has a plastron yoke below the neckline in front and a seam from this down the center front to the hem. Half way down the skirt are two knife pleats in the seam to give width to the skirt. The belt is of navy blue leather with a silver buckle.

HIGHER BUDGET IN NEXT YEAR FOR NEW YORK

O'Brien Data Lacks $23,-950,000 Item.

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Despite promises of the Tammany city administration to economize to avert municipal bankruptcy, the 1934 budget, in its present form, represents an increase of nearly $20,000,000 over 1933.

This startling fact came to light today. Mayor John P. O'Brien transmitted the tentative figures to the board of estimate, and the mayor said the budget totalled $514,302,928.03, "an actual reduction of $4,125,044.13 under the original budget figures for 1933."

The mayor, however, did not include $23,950,000 the city must insert in the 1934 budget to protect funds borrowed from its bankers. That would raise the $514,302,928 total, used by the mayor, to $538,252,928. The 1933 budget total was $518,427,972.

Means Higher Tax.

Based on the figures now available, the 1934 tax rate would be $2.64 per $100 of assessed valuation. This figure is an increase of thirty-one points over the basic tax rate for 1933, which was $2.33.

Controller George McAneny would not estimate the rate today because he must do so officially later. The unofficial estimate was reached by dividing the total of assessed valuation by the sum of $435,000,000. The $435,000,000 includes $429,000,000 to be raised from real estate, $4,000,000 for additional debt service charges, and an estimated $2,000,000 from new taxes and the additions of new taxable property.

Realty Burden Limited.

Whatever the basic tax rate may be, McAneny explained, the tax burden on real estate will not exceed $429,000,000 collected from it this year. Tax collections from real estate are limited to that amount for the next four years under the city's recent agreement with its bankers.

The budgetmakers expect to raise the full $429,000,000, and the reduction of $1,056,883,898 in the assessed valuation of real estate for next year makes an increased tax rate mandatory.

"The $4,025,144 reduction shown in the mayor's budget message was made after necessary increases in the budget had been absorbed," Mr. McAneny said. "It should be emphasized that Budget Director Maurice A. Stephenson actually has cut $11,000,000 from the departmental budget requests. The $23,850,000 which must be inserted in the budget to protect loans from the bankers has not yet been included because the city is awaiting authority to include it from the state legislature.

Says City Has Enough.

"With the budget total indicated as about $538,000,000, the city has resources of $500,000,000 to meet the budget. In addition we have $25,500,000 coming from taxes already authorized. That includes $11,000,008 from increased water rates, $7,000,000 from the taxicab taxes and $7,500,000 from beer and excise taxes next year, assuming that prohibition will then be out of existence.

"That leaves $13,000,000 which still must be met. We can raise that amount by new taxation, by administrative economies or a combination of both. We have taxes proposed by the building and sanitation department, and there also is the proposal to reduce the amount of tax-exempt property. The tax on public utilities will go directly into unemployment relief, which is outside the budget."

The budget in its present form will now go through the board of estimate and a series of public hearings.

Peter Grimm, heading the realty group, is contending that at least $25,000,000 can be pruned out of the budget without impairing the efficiency of the city's services.

Large Exemption List.

Real estate of a total value of $4,689,803,389 is exempt from taxation by law, the largest class of such buildings being the city's own property, valued at $3,451,704,025.

Churches, asylums, homes, hospitals, benevolent and charitable associations and similar organizations own $969,343,889 worth of property which is now exempt. Samuel Untermyer, the city administration's financial adviser, is urging the abolition of exemptions on a large part of the buildings in this category.

In Manhattan the Empire State building boasts the largest assessment on office buildings—$32,500,000, a reduction of $1,500,000. Rockefeller Center, approaching completion, has had its assessment jumped from $5,200,000 to $25,000,000.

Rockefeller Center's Radio City Music Hall leads the list of theaters with a valuation of $11,500,000 and the Waldorf-Astoria stands at the head of the hotels, although its assessment has been reduced from $25,000,000 to $23,000,000. The Bronx, however, claims the most heavily assessed piece of property in the city, that of the United Electric Light and Power company. It is taxed on a value of $56,500,000, unchanged from last year's list.

TAMMANY CHIEF DEFIES FARLEY AT PARTY MEET

Resolution by Him Urges O'Brien Support.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Taking the Democratic state committee by surprise at its meeting here today, John F. Curry, the leader of Tammany Hall, defied Postmaster General James A. Farley, the state and national chairman, and put through a resolution calling for the support of regular candidates at the forthcoming election.

It was equivalent to calling for the support of Mayor John P. O'Brien in the New York city election, as opposed to Joseph V. McKee, of whose candidacy Mr. Farley is considered a supporter.

Mr. Farley, as spokesman for President Roosevelt and Gov. Lehman, was shown to be in complete control of the state organization, however. He could have stopped the Curry resolution and he permitted its adoption only as an afterthought, undoubtedly impressed by its futility.

Brooklyn Ally Helps.

In getting the motion through Mr. Curry had the coöperation of his Brooklyn ally, John H. McCooey, and of Jeremiah T. Mahoney, committeeman from Manhattan.

The resolution was not on the schedule. The meeting was called primarily to nominate Judge Leonard C. Crouch of Syracuse to succeed himself as a judge of the Court of Appeals, adding the Democratic indorsement to the Republican, and to transact other routine business.

The routine included resolutions complimentary to the administrations of President Roosevelt and Gov. Lehman and to the work of Mr. Farley himself, and it had been disposed of and a motion to adjourn seemed in order when Mr. Curry rose and asked to be heard.

Offers His Resolution.

"Mr. Chairman," he said, "I wish to offer the following resolution:

"'We urge all loyal Democrats to support the candidates of the party chosen at the primary election or by party convention, and to such candidates we pledge our individual support.'"

Farley first objected to the resolution, and then after a pause, said: "However, I will accept it." Mr. Farley called for a vote and the ayes had it.

The independent candidacy of McKee against Mayor O'Brien was the chief topic of conversation among the Democratic leaders here for the meeting.

POLICEMAN DIES AFTER FATHER.

Policeman Joseph Wisniewski, 55 years old, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 3021 North Sacremento avenue. Relatives said that the shock of the death of his father, Michael Wisniewski, 83 years old, on Friday, caused the fatal heart attack.

EXPLAINS WATER TERMINAL PLAN OFFERED TO U. S.

Maj. Putnam Speaks to Union League Club.

The program for completing the terminal facilities of the Illinois waterway in the Chicago area, for which the Chicago regional port commission and Chicago officials are seeking funds from the federal public works administration, was summarized yesterday before the Union League club by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, director of the commission.

Maj. Putnam proposed that the government undertake the expense of widening and improving the Calumet-Sag channel from the sanitary canal ta Lake Calumet, the improvement of the terminal harbor in the lake and the improvement of the Grand Calumet river from the Little Calumet to the Indian Harbor canal.

Proposes Bridge Improvements.

He proposed that the government also undertake the equipment, alteration or reconstruction of all bridges over the sanitary canal from Lockport to Cicero avenue in Chicago, and of all bridges over the Calumet-Sag canal and that portion of the Grand Calumet river to be improved.

Local authorities, he proposed, should provide a bulk interchange terminal at the mouth of the Chicago river, to handle bulk freight interchange between lake vessels and harbor lighters, that they should raise all bridges east of Cicero avenue over the canal and the river to a 21 foot clearance as soon as financial conditions permit, and that they undertake to get right of way for the federally financed portion of the project without expense to the federal government.

Plead at Capital This Month.

A committee of city, county, sanitary district and state highway officials headed by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] is to go to Washington some time this month to ask a federal appropriation of $40,382,000 for the federal portion of the project.

This would include the widening of the Calumet-Sag channel to 250 feet from Lemont to Blue Island, construction of locks at Blue Island, widening of the Calumet river to 300 feet from Blue Island to Lake Calumet, dredging five basins in the south end of that lake for a barge terminal, and raising bridges, which would be of the fixed type, to 35 feet above the water level of the waterway route.

Wife Charges Husband Threw Coffee in Her Face

After Attorney Harry X. Cole had filed a divorce bill on her behalf yesterday in the Superior court, Mrs. Cecil E. Devereux, 4557 Lake Park avenue, went before Judge Joseph Sabath and testified that if her husband, Louis A. Devereux, 2040 East 82d street, beat her again she feared she would commit suicide. Judge Sabath issued an injunction restraining Devereux from molesting her. Mrs. Devereux charged that her husband threw a cup of coffee in her face on their tenth wedding anniversary, a year ago.

RELIEF SESSION OF LEGISLATURE STARTS TODAY

BY PARKE BROWN.

"I hope to see all the bills passed by one house this week," was Gov. Horner's statement last night concerning the prospects for the first special session of the general assembly which convenes in Springfield at 10 o'clock this morning.

Beyond this optimistic expression of his own desire, the governor would not go. He regards the entire program covered by his executive call as of first importance. He is particularly anxious about early action on bills to provide relief funds for the winter, but he also favors immediate passage of the other legislation the purpose of which is to permit Illinois to take full advantage of its opportunities under various phases of the national recovery program.

It was reported that the governor declined—with his usual courtesy—to agree upon having the session mark time this week because of the national convention of the American Legion which many legislators desire to attend from beginning to end.

Whether his desire to avoid delay will be realized may be known this morning when the roll of the two houses is called. The attendance at the first tap of the gavel may be increased tomorrow and Thursday by late arrivals who content themselves with participation in two or three days of the Legion activities.

But the first day is expected to show whether there is any prospect of a large attendance, one sufficient to warrant a belief that a two-thirds affirmative vote might be obtained this week.

Passage of bills by two-thirds vote of each house is required in order to make new laws effective when the governor signs them. Passage by mere majority vote would not permit their taking effect until July 1, 1934.

Through its president, Lafayette Markle, the Chicago Automobile Trade association yesterday issued one of the expected protests against the proposal to issue bonds for relief purposes which would be retired by a diversion of the gasoline tax quotas of the counties benefiting from the proceeds.

According to the Markle statement, replies to a questionnaire showed 75 per cent of the members of the association opposed to this sort of diversion. There had been expectations that the percentage would be much higher.

STRIBLING DIES FROM INJURIES IN AUTO COLLISION

Death Takes Fighter After Operation.

Macon, Ga., Oct. 3 Tuesday.—William Lawrence [Young] Stribling, Georgia heavyweight, died at 6 a. m., Eastern Standard time, today from injuries received Sunday in a motor accident.

The end came an hour after the fighter lapsed into unconsciousness, following a dogged fight which his physicians said was possible only by a person of his tremendous vitality.

At his bedside were his parents, "Pa" and "Ma" Stribling, his manager and trainer, his wife, Claire, herself a patient at the hospital following the birth of their third child, born two weeks ago, and a younger brother, Herbert, a fighter in his own right.

Physicians said death was due to complications arising from internal injuries suffered when Stribling's left foot was severed and his pelvis crushed in a collision between his motorcycle and an automobile.

Popular in Home Town.

Stribling was very popular here. He was a member of the Kiwanis club and organizer of an independent basketball team. The boxing world knew him as a clean young fighter, who took them on from the bottom to the top, but who failed to muster the power that would carry him to the championship.

Motorcycles and airplanes, outside the ring, occupied him. He got a thrill out of dashing through traffic on his motorcycle and when he tired of this he took his plane aloft to exhibit his prowess as a pilot. He held a transport pilot's license and a commission in the air corps reserve.

Stribling's plans to become a boxer were laid by his parents the day he was born—the day after Christmas in 1904—at Bainbridge, Ga.

The family became the Three Novelty Grahams. Two years later Herbert was born and the act was changed to the Four Grahams, who toured the world in vaudeville.

They Traveled Far.

China, Japan, Mexico, and many other countries saw them—the elders doing a tumbling act and the brothers, W. L. and Herbert [now Baby Stribling of the prize ring] meeting in a three round bout.

Young Stribling made his debut as a professional at 16 in Atlanta. He fought all comers in Georgia and gained a national reputation in 1923 in a fight with Mike McTigue. Twice Referee Harry Ertle changed his decision, finally calling the match a draw.

The Striblings, with Pa and Ma doing the managing and seeing to the ballyhoo, toured the country with W. L., winning from such fighters as Harry Krohn, Bill and George Shade, Jimmy Darcy, Dan O'Dowd, Young Bob Fitzsimmons, and Mike Burke.

He continued to climb, whipping Bear Cat Bill Clemons, Bud Gorman, and Johnny Risko. He lost to Paul Berlenbach in 1926 in a fight for the light heavyweight title and thereafter became unpopular, many charging him with lack of courage.

Loses to Sharkey.

Sharkey won the decision and Stribling was labeled as through. Again Stribling came back, starting with a knockout of Otto Von Porat in Chicago and Phil Scott in London.

Stribling's last chance at the heavyweight title came in 1931, when he lost by a technical knockout to Max Schmeling in the 15th round in Cleveland, O.

On Dec. 26, 1925, his 21st birthday anniversary, Stribling and Miss Clara Virginia Kinney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Kinney of Macon, were married in this city. The bride was the daughter of a prominent southern family. They had met for the first time in high school.

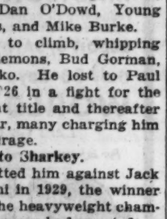
William Veeck's Condition Poor, Doctor Reports



WILLIAM VEECK.

The condition of William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago National league baseball club, who is confined to the St. Luke's hospital, was reported poor last night.

His illness has been diagnosed as leucemia, a disease of the blood, by his attending physician, Dr. Leo C. Clowes, who ordered him to the hospital last Friday. Preparations have been made for a blood transfusion in the event the step is necessary.

While admitting that Mr. Veeck is a very sick man Dr. Clowes yesterday expressed hope that he would be able to leave the hospital in a week or ten days.

OLDTIME WHITE STOCKINGS.

RECENT passing of George F. Gore, member of the old Chicago White Stockings in the late '70s and named as baseball's first holdout for a higher salary, brought several letters from oldtime fans telling of those teams.

Helper A. B. Adams writes: "Gore, who in 1878 demanded a salary of $2,500 and compromised on $1,900, was a great batter as well as fielder. He led the league in batting with .365 in 1880. He never wore a glove. He also is credited with 5 assists in one game. I have a picture of the team of 1882, 11 players, of whom eight wore mustaches. Here is the lineup:

"Mike J. Kelly, rf; Hugh Nichol, rf; George F. Gore, cf; A. Dalrymple, lf; Capt. A. C. Anson, 1b; J. L. Quest, 2b; E. N. Williamson, 3b; Thomas Burns, ss; Larry Corcoran, p; F. E. Goldsmith, p; Frank S. Flint, c.

"Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo, Detroit, Troy, Worcester, Providence, and Boston were in the league then. Can any one tell me if any member of the 1882 team is still alive and was the league then known as National league?"

The National League of Professional Baseball Clubs was organized in 1876 and has been in existence ever since. The other query is answered in a communication from Helper John S. Burke, who names the White Stockings of 1880, who played on the lake front grounds at the foot of Washington street. It differs from the above 1882 list only in that Fred Pfeffer is placed at second base and the positions of Tom Burns and Ed Williamson are transposed to third base and shortstop, respectively.

Then he says: "Dalrymple is a retired railroad official living at Warren, Ill. Fred Goldsmith lives in Detroit. The others have passed away.

Apples.

And now the apple trees will sleep,
For in the orchard grass lie deep
The fallen apples—Northern Spies,

The fragrant heady scent they leave;
And on long winter nights to dine
On apples that taste of summer sunshine.

Jimmy Leto Stops Halaiko in 7th Round

BADGERS EASE RULE ON GRADES FOR ATHLETES

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Eligibility rules governing members of University of Wisconsin athletic teams, termed by Dean George C. Sellery of the college of letters and science as the most rigorous in the Western conference, were relaxed today by vote of the faculty.

Dean Sellery, who recommended the change after an investigation of classroom grades required of athletes in other Big Ten universities, said the the faculty action "gives our athletes an equal chance with those of other schools."

Dean Sellery's investigation was prompted by charges last spring that members of the Badger faculty were prejudiced against athletes. This the dean denied, saying that the fault was in the rule, and not its enforcement.

Grade Point Rule Changed.

The rule modified by the faculty today is known as the ".8 grade point rule."

To be graduated students must have grade points equal to or in excess of the number of their credits. While 70 is a passing grade [D], no grade points are given for marks under 78 or C. Grades of C rate one grade point; B [85-93], two grade points, and A [93-100], three grade points.

Athletes heretofore have been required to maintain an average of .8 grade point per credit to be eligible. That is, if a football player were taking 15 hours of work he had to make 12 grade points the preceeding semester.

Chance to Make Up Now.

Members of the debating team, glee club and other extra-curricular organizations were held to no such iron clad rule. If they were a bit short on grade points in one semester they could catch up with a little cramming in the next. Now football players will have the same oportunity.

Among those who greeted the announcement with cheers was Coach Clarence W. Spears of the Badger football team, who is preparing his men for their first game of the season with Marquette here next Saturday.

MICHIGAN REGULARS DEMOTED.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The biggest shakeup that has taken place on a Michigan football team in years occurred this afternoon when Coach Harry Kipke pulled Capt. Stan Fay out of the first string lineup and three of his linesmen, Kowalik and Savage, guards, and Austin, tackle, over to the second team. The jolt was unexpected, although it had been known that Kipke feared his contingent of seniors might take things too easy. He told them today they had done just that against the freshmen Saturday.

Bill Renner was put at Fay's place in the backfield, to team up with Everhardus, Heston and Regeczi. Bill Borgmann was put at Savage's guard, Willard Hildebrand at the post vacated by Kowalik, and John Viergever at tackle. Willis Ward remained at right end, but it was because both

That's a swell piece Harry Kipke wrote for a magazine last week. . . . Wonder if he has read it. . . . Northwestern could profit from it. . . . Against Iowa the Wildcats had a punt and a pass, but apparently no prayer.

Jim Kahn, who used to write Golden Gloves stories for the New York Daily News, will be official scorer in world series games at New York. . . . There will be four official scorers in Chicago city series. . . . Two were appointed by Commissioner Landis for no good reason and two by the Baseball Writers' association. . . .

The Bears have won their first two games, but Coach Halas has lost 20 pounds. . . . How much do you suppose those two defeats and tie have taken off Curley Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers? . . .

WGN to Broadcast Series Opening Battle at 12:15

W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station, will broadcast the first game of the world series between the New York Giants and Washington Senators starting at 12:15 p. m., Chicago time, today. The broadcast will come through the facilities of the Columbia Broadcasting system and will start fifteen minutes in advance of game time in New York. Ted Husing, Columbia sports announcer, and four assistants will cover the series.

W-G-N will broadcast each of the world's series contests as well as the city series between the Sox and Cubs which will start tomorrow. The city series will be broadcast on W-G-N independently of the chain by Bob Elson, THE TRIBUNE'S baseball announcer.

CUBS VOTE 27 SHARES, SOX 29 OF SERIES CASH

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Generosity was in the air yesterday when the White Sox and Cubs, meeting in the privacy of their respective clubhouses, voted on splitting up the prospective loot from the city series which opens tomorrow at Wrigley field. The Cubs also had to decide how to apportion their third place world series money. The shares of this will be dispensed the same as the purse derived from the local battles.

The Cubs, who haven't yet lived down their world series division of last year when they forgot to remember their desposed manager, Rogers Hornsby, and limited Mark Koenig to a few hundred dollars, were careful to avoid further embarrassing comment. They cut in all the hands for a full share of both city series and third place moneys. This included Robert Lewis, traveling secretary; Andrew Lotshaw, the silent trainer, and Coaches Johnny Corriden and John Schulte.

The Cubs declared 27 shares which, with contributions from both purses, will run between $1,000 and $1,500 if they win the city series. The amount depends entirely on the receipts from the first four games in each post-season event. The Cubs also will make up a $540 purse for the clubhouse boy, $200 for the bat boy, and $50 each for the two clubhouse messengers whose chief duty is to lug in sandwiches when the athletes feel the need of sustenance, which is frequent.

Two young men who became Cubs only recently—First Baseman Adolph Camilli and Catcher Gordon Phelps—were not included in the split. They were sent home last week, not being eligible for the city series, and before departing each was taken care of financially by William Veeck, the club president. Stanley Hack, the infielder who was recalled from Albany before the Sept. 1 deadline, will receive a full share. Hack, whose right wrist was fractured by a ball pitched by Roy Parmelee of the Giants in a game two weeks ago, will remain in Chicago for another month for treatment.

The White Sox city series shares totaled 29. This took care of all the players who were with the club prior to Sept. 1, and thus are eligible for the event. One of the 29 shares will go to Joe Barry, road secretary, and another to Coach Jimmy Austin. Purses also will be made up for the clubhouse attendants. Paul Gregory, although ineligible for the series because he was recalled from Milwaukee after the closing date, will be awarded a full split.

McManus Loses Job as Manager of Boston Sox

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Marty McManus, manager of the Boston Red Sox since the middle of the 1932 season, has been given his unconditional release, Eddie Collins, general manager of the Boston club, announced tonight. No successor has been named.

The release of McManus, who was promoted to the managerial job last year when John [Shano] Collins resigned, was not an unexpected move. When McManus failed to hoist Boston above seventh place this year it was generally believed that a change in managers would be the next move in the program of rebuilding the club that is being carried on by Collins and Thomas Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The world series, as usual, has been pretty thoroughly played in advance on paper and little remains to be done about it now beyond the physical performance of a certain number of ball games at the Polo grounds, New York, and on the Griffith lot in Washington. Ostensibly that is all there ever is to any world series, but actually, this festival consists in large part of reading matter prior to the games, much social gadding about by the professional set, such as baseball experts from out of town, players, managers and scouts, and a lot of bunting and band music.

In some cities the citizens, having few excuses for public disorder, make the world series an occasion for one or more nights of promiscuous shoving and hauling and horn blowing in the streets of the local Rialto. This has been done in Cincinnati, St. Louis, and Washington since the war, and there was also some throwing of confetti and sucker right hands on the sidewalks of Pittsburgh when the Pirates were playing first the Senators and later the Yankees.

Chicago, New York Just Can't Get Excited.

Chicago and New York never did really haul off and let go and it would be an imposition on the facts to allege that New York was all agog over this world series on the night before the starting of the same. New York's emotions were well under control and if anybody had started smacking total strangers, particularly strange ladies, over their heads with sockfuls of flour or soot, strictly in a spirit of innocent fun, anywhere along Broadway by way of celebration, that one would have been severely pushed in the face and presently delivered to the polyclinic for salvage and repairs. The excitement in New York was newspaper excitement. World series stuff sells newspapers and the papers sell tickets, but when you peer out the window for signs of general festivity you observe the city in a state of great calm.

The out of town experts and the fat old red faced managers of the Jack Hendricks type, the passé ball players of other years come to town on job shopping business were congregated in the Hotel New Yorker. They were around the lobby, rocking, with their top coats slung under their arms, standing now on this leg and now shifting to that one to ease the pressure on their hips, and asking one another "How's the little wife?" and "How are you fixed for next year?" and "What do you say we go up to room four-forty-what and sit around and knock over a couple and tell a few harmless falsehoods?"

Mr. Fullerton, the Sage, Is Around.

Old Mr. Hughey Fullerton, who looks more than ever like a benign and understanding priest of a tough and poverty stricken steel mill parish, was standing among the foliage of a lobby palm smoking one of his dreadful gaspers made with butchers' paper. No, that isn't right. He was smoking an ordinary cigaret. Mr. Fullerton spoke about those gaspers of his. He said he had had to give them up. His throat wasn't bothered, but he couldn't see through the soot any more.

Mr. Fullerton was the one who began the amusing business of moving columns of figures, in four decimals, around a page, to arrive at the result of a world series before the result was in. The first time he did it he was right and he went on doing it year after year from 1906 until a few seasons ago. He just said "To hell with it" and went out to Columbus, O., to set around and whittle and just be a sage.

Lots of mathematicians have tried to figure out world series since Hughey first did it, but nobody ever created any more stir with these mysterious processes until Prof. Mordecai Ezekiel of the United States department of agriculture came along last winter with a very similar formula, involving an imaginary black ball swinging above a curved line, by which the farmers were invited to control the birthrate of pigs. Nobody could understand Prof. Ezekiel's proposition, either, but I thought at the time that it was ideal material for a

GIANTS RELY ON HUBBELL; WHO FOR SENATORS?

Cronin Refuses to Name Pitcher.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The Washington Senators and the New York Giants, who surprised everybody except themselves by winning a couple of pennants, are all set to battle each other in the world series, come 1:30 o'clock [12:30 Chicago time] tomorrow afternoon at the Polo grounds.

HEINIE MANUSH.

The outlook for the big baseball climax holds promise of technical, tricky baseball, and the possible absence of personal showmanship of the Ruth-Gehrig brand so evident last year. There will be stars and there will be goats, in all probability. But the names and reputations of the individuals eligible for these rôles afford little room for speculation before the series start.

Infielders Lead Teams.

Though the spectacle has no outstanding prima donnas, it is not without its personalities. Take Manager Bill Terry and Manager Joe Cronin, for instance.

It will be the first time in history that two active infielders have vied with each other in a world's series. It will be the first series in which playing managers have been factors in the actual play since Frank Chance and Fielder Jones led the Cubs and White Sox in the 1906 world series.

Then there is Carl Hubbell, brilliant left handed screw ball pitcher of the Giants. More has been said and is being said about Hubbell than any other individual on either roster. On him rest the Giant hopes. He won the New Yorkers a pennant and they are counting on him to win the first game tomorrow and the world championship, too. Terry has said he's going to let Carl have his chance to win three of the games. He's counting on youthful Hal Schumacher to win the other one necessary to accomplish the championship. Or, if Hubbell can't win three, maybe Terry will ask Fred Fitzsimmons to win one.

Manush Likely to Star.

The man picked by many to be the offensive star of the series is Heinie Manush, burly outfielder of the Senators. The Giants haven't seen many dig in, vicious demons like Manush. Manush hates and challenges all gents in the pitching profession until he gets his base hit or otherwise lands on first base. Then infielders become his mortal enemies. When Heinie gets on base the immediate impulse of all infielders is to run to the dugout and strap on catchers' shin guards.

Manush worked out with his mates in the Polo grounds this morning and later said that he thinks the funny shaped Giant premises look like a set up for him.

Compared team for team on their records in their respective leagues, the figures show the Senators infinitely a stronger outfit. The Senators led the American league in hitting and they led it in fielding. The Giants were fifth in hitting and third in fielding in the National league. The Senators have Alvin Crowder, who won 24 games, and Earl Whitehill, who won 22. Hubbell was the only Giant to reach the 20 mark.

Giants Rely on Fighting Spirit.

The Giants know these things, but claim the indominable spirit which carried them to the National league championship will carry them to success in the impending series. This is needful optimism from the New York viewpoint, but it might be well for New York partisans to give the Senators credit for a little spirit on their own.

The Senators were trailing the Yan-

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Football rules governing the use of the forward pass probably never will be understood by the average fan. It is known that failure to catch a pass brings the ball back to the point of the previous down. But the questions of eligible and ineligible receivers, a pass by the team which did not put the ball into play, two forward passes on the same down, and so on, remain a foreign language to spectators and, in some instances, to the players.

All players on the defense are eligible to intercept forward passes. The men on the ends of the offensive scrimmage line and the backs are eligible to receive forward passes thrown by the offensive team.

Three Rules on Eligibility.

There are three general rules which clarify eligibility. These rules follow:

1. When a defensive player touches a forward pass, all players of both teams may recover the ball before it touches the ground.

2. The eligible receiver of the attacking team who touches a forward pass must recover the ball unless it is touched by a defensive player. In other words, if the left end of the offensive team first touches a pass, it cannot be caught by another member of the same team originally eligible unless an opponent touches the ball in the meantime.

3. If a forward pass touches an ineligible player of the team throwing the ball [the five center men on the line of scrimmage] the ball goes to the opponents at the point of the preceding down. The penalty cannot be declined. This is true even if the player touched the ball unintentionally. Moreover, if an eligible receiver steps on the side line or over it [out of bounds], he becomes ineligible to receive the ball until it is touched by an opponent.

This Clears Up a Tough One.

Two forward passes on the same down are not permitted. If such a play is made it is considered to have been an incompleted pass which brings the ball back to the point where it was put into play and the offense loses a down.

Sunday when the Chicago Bears played Boston at Soldiers' field Bronko Nagurski threw a 25 yard forward pass to Luke Johnsos. Johnsos then attempted a lateral pass to Bill Hewitt. The ball, however, was thrown forward. This was the SECOND forward pass on the same down. The ball was brought back to the point where the Bears had put it into play, with the loss of a down.

Why Purdue Lost 15 Yards.

If the team which did not put the ball into play makes a forward pass, the penalty is loss of 15 yards from the point of the illegal pass. In 1931, when Purdue defeated Northwestern at Soldiers' field, Northwestern punted to Purdue. The receiver of the kick, after returning the ball to Northwestern's 15 yard line, attempted a lateral pass which was thrown forward a yard or so. Purdue was penalized 15 yards from the point of the illegal pass. The Boilermakers retained possession of the ball.

The same unusual play happened in another Northwestern game that year. Pug Rentner received a punt. He was tackled near the side line and attempted to fumble the ball out of bounds. His fumble was delayed until the officials ruled it a throw, and since it was slightly forward Northwestern lost 15 yards for an illegal forward pass.

SAVOLDI MAKES A DROP KICK; BEATS HIMSELF

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—The drop kick that Joe Savoldi made famous in the wrestling game proved his undoing tonight as the former football star knocked himself out in an unsuccessful attempt to wrest from Jim Browning a claim to the world's heavyweight championship before a crowd of 10,000 in Madison Square Garden.

In a furious finish, after 36 minutes and 51 seconds of flying tackles, head locks, airplane scissors and Japanese arm locks, Savoldi hurled his feet at Browning. Both feet landed square in the pit of Browning's stomach, knocking the Missourian flat on his back and apparently ready to be counted out.

Savoldi, however, fell heavily on his head and was easy prey for Browning, who slowly got to his knees, crept over to where Joe lay and draped his 230 pounds over Savoldi's body, while he slowly applied an arm lock. Savoldi weighed 200 pounds.

Johnny Layton, who has been commuting between his homes in Sedalia, Mo., Chicago and his fishing shack in the woods of northern Wisconsin, as well as visiting Hollywood, Cal., during the summer, will begin his tour of the country as part of the national better billiards program early this month.

Layton, who has held the world's three cushion billiard title ten times and the pocket crown once, generally is regarded as one of the best known billiard instructors using the diamond system. Layton also will make another attempt for the world's three cushion title this winter.

Canadiens, Maple Leafs Trade Goal Tenders

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens and the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey league today completed a deal trading goal tenders. George Hainsworth will play with Toronto and Lorne Chabot will tend goal for the Canadiens this season. Both players immediately came to terms with their new employers.

Wunsch Leads Notre Dame AgainstKansas

He thus becomes the first appointed captain in Notre Dame history. Anderson will name a leader for each of the nine games this fall. A captain will be elected at the end of each season, instead of at the beginning. The most valuable players also will be selected.

Wunsch is a 200 pound guard who broke in as a sophomore in 1931. Excess poundage kept him on the bench most of last year. He reported 30 pounds lighter this fall after a summer in a warehouse.

He was a star sprinter for South Bend Central High school and is now one of the fastest men on the squad over short distances. He is the first Irish regular from South Bend since 1927, when Ike Voedisch, present assistant coach, played end.

KANSAS SQUAD INTACT.

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—The University of Kansas football squad today went through its first practice for the Notre Dame game Saturday in South Bend. All the regulars escaped injury in the 14 to 0 victory over Creighton Saturday.

In winning over the Central Missouri State Teachers and Creighton, the Jayhawkers relied on a simple running attack, so Notre Dame will be the first to face the Kansas passing offense, with Ole Nesmith and Ray Dumm veteran half backs, doing most of the throwing.

The Kansas line, with veterans from end to end, has proved its mettle in the first two games, as have the backs, including Sophomores Ed Hall, Big Six sprint champion, and John Peterson.

INDIANA LOSES BACK.

IOWA TACKLE INJURED.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—With one exception the same University of Iowa football players who upset Northwestern Saturday will be able to take the field against Bradley this week-end, Dr. A. S. Fourt, Hawkeye medical adviser, announced after a checkup today.

Lloyd Hoffman, 250 pound sophomore tackle, will be lost to the team for a week at least as a result of a sprained ankle. He is expected to return to the lineup before the game against Wisconsin, Oct. 14.

Coach Solem excused all players who tarted against the Wildcats from practice today, concentrating on the second team. The regulars will report tomorrow.

DETROIT BOWLERS TAKE 2D PLACE IN LEGION TOURNEY

The Judge Faust post of Detroit rolled into second place last night in the National American Legion Bowling tournament by shooting 2,799 at the Bensinger Wabash alleys. Racine, Wis., landed fifth with 2,690.

In the doubles R. Roverson and J. Hunt of Indianapolis are in front with 1,239, followed by C. Goodrow and H. Allen, Detroit, 1,129; C. Mack and D. Glyvka, Indianapolis, 110; C. Bishoping and H. Brawer, Detroit, 1,028, and L. Porter and H. Crumit, Detroit, 993.

In the singles C. Mack's 644 is high. K. Ludiker of Detroit is second with 600, Gluvka third with 574, Goodrow fourth with 557, Allen fifth with 552. Hunt leads the all-events with 1,855.

The bowlers voted to hold the tournament apart from the Legion convention, starting with a telegraphic meet in the spring and in the next year conduct the tourney at the same time as the American Bowling congress.

Wilberforce-Tuskegee Game Committee Named

A committee to coöperate with Tuskegee Institute and Wilberforce university in promoting the Tuskegee-Wilberforce football game, which will be played at Soldiers' field, Oct. 21, yesterday was named by a group of representatives of both institutions. The committee is headed by Richard Jones, chairman.

PLAYS that made FOOTBALL HISTORY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Michigan defeated Purdue, 14 to 13, in 1930 by a trick play, but the Boilermakers suffered the strangest series of fumbles and penalties before Michigan scored the winning touchdown that any Big Ten team ever has experienced.

Coach Harry Kipke of the Wolverines referred to this scoring play in a recent magazine article, but he didn't name the play, which has been in Michigan's repertoire since 1897; nor did he give the circumstances preceding the play.

Michigan's scoring play that October afternoon is familiarly known as "Old 83." It was invented by Fielding H. Yost in the days of his point a minute teams. Yost told us in a discussion of this play three years ago that it has been broken up on three occasions by the referee getting in the way of a lateral pass as he followed the player who he thought had the ball.

Purdue Crumbles After Leading, 13-0.

Even so, the play in itself might not be unique except for Purdue's attack of jitters. Purdue was the 1929 Big Ten champion, and by winning, 14 to 13, from Purdue in 1930, Michigan went on to share the conference title with Northwestern. Purdue, after scoring two touchdowns in the first period for a 13 to 0 advantage, crumbled on defense in the second quarter. With the score 13 to 7, Purdue fumbled THREE times after holding Michigan within the 20 yard line and then lost the ball a FOURTH time by offside when Michigan fumbled and a Purdue player pounced on the ball. Only after the fourth misplay did the Wolverines score the winning touchdown.

Purdue swept through the Wolverines in the first quarter like a tornado. Yunevich received credit for the first touchdown on a one yard plunge, and Van Bibber, a tackle, kicked the extra point. Minutes later Pope passed to Keegan, and the score was 13 to 0 when Van Bibber missed the kick.

In the second period, with the ball on Michigan's 33 yard line, Newman passed to Daniels, who ran 48 yards to the goal. Newman's placement was good. Then Purdue's veterans went into a tail spin.

It's a Game of Give and Take.

Following an exchange of punts, with the ball in Purdue's possession on its 30 yard line, Keegan fumbled. Morrison recovered for Michigan, but the Boilermakers held and took the ball on their 18 yard strip. On the second play Kissell fumbled, and Daniels recovered for Michigan. Again Purdue held and took the ball on its 16 yard line. Again Kissell fumbled and this time Samuels of Michigan dropped on the ball on Purdue's 26 yard line.

Three consecutive misplays certainly should be a record, but Michigan's luck hadn't run out. For a third time Michigan attacked, and Simrall fumbled. Purdue recovered, but the ball was brought back and given to Michigan because a Boilermaker was offside. With this series of breaks Purdue didn't know whether it was playing football or drop the handkerchief.

Hudson hit through tackle for 2 yards and then Newman called for 83. Wheeler ran around the right end of the Purdue scrimmage line and scored. Then Newman's placement sent Michigan into the lead, 14 to 13, which was the final score. Neither threatened seriously in the second half.

STARS REJOIN ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Capt. Herman Walser and Frank Froschauer, two Illini stars who were forced to sit on the sidelines Saturday in the opening game against Drake, were back in action today as Illinois began preparation for the game with Washington university at St. Louis Saturday.

Playing on the first team were Schustek and Waller, ends; Antilla and Cummings, tackles; Bennis and Kuhn, guards; Frederick, center, and Froschauer, Lindberg, Fischer and Gano, backs. Jack Beynon, regular quarter back, replaced Gano in the latter part of the signal drill.

OHIO CO-CAPTAIN AILING.

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Joe Galius may be the sole captain of the Ohio State football team when it opens its season against Virginia at Ohio stadium Saturday. There was considerable doubt today whether Sid Gillman, the other Buckeye co-captain, would be able to play. Gillman suffered a shoulder injury in the practice game with the reserves Saturday.

Other ailing members of the squad, including Mickey Vuchinich, center; Max Padlow, end; Regis Monahan, guard, and Tommy Keefe and Dick Heekin, half backs, are expected to be ready for the first game.

Approximately 40,000, including 30,000 high school students issued special invitations, are expected to attend the opener.

BIERMAN DRIVES GOPHERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Stressing the fact that the Gophers played only one quarter of real football in their first game against South Dakota State college Saturday, Coach Bernie Bierman today had the University of Minnesota football squad back at hard work for the Big Ten opener against Indiana here next Saturday.

Bierman expressed himself as heartily displeased at the play in the first three periods and declared that the Gophers would have to improve fast in order to be ready for the veteran Hoosiers.

The guard positions were considered the weakest part of the Gopher battle front last Saturday. If Bill Bevans becomes eligible he will do much to solve the problem.

Sahlin Again at Quarter for Maroons

Preparations for the season opener against Cornell college on the Midway Saturday occupied the University of Chicago football squad yesterday in its first single practice session. Coach Clark Shaughnessy limited the drill of the varsity to a light dummy scrimmage on both offense and defense.

S. Vin Sahlin, quarter back, who was demoted last week, yesterday was restored to the varsity lineup, and alternated with Fliun.

The opening lineup will contain six sophomores and one veteran who is new to his post, John Womer, shifted from tackle to end this year. It is probable that Shaughnessy will give this group as much playing experience as possible because of the number of new men.

Merritt Bush, tackle who sustained a leg injury two weeks ago, has recovered to the point where he could be used against Cornell, but the Maroon trainers recommend a further week of rest for safety.

N. U. SHIFTS LINEUP.

The Northwestern football squad returned to practice yesterday for two weeks rehabilitation before its next start of the season against Stanford at Soldiers' field, Oct. 14. The Wildcats figure that they are a better team than they appeared to be against Iowa, and intend to prove it against the west coast eleven.

A general shakeup in the Wildcat lineup is contemplated by Coach Dick Hanley before the team next takes the field. Al Kawal, star guard, returned to practice yesterday after 10 days of inactivity due to a dislocated shoulder. His presence will add considerable offensive and defensive strength.

Ollie Olson, who has performed at full back for the last two seasons, henceforth will appear at quarter back, where he will divide the signal calling duties with Roy Augustson. This will enable Chilly Sutton and Hugh Duvall, hard hitting full backs, to see more action. Duvall, who was unable to play in the Iowa game because of a sprained wrist, has rejoined the squad.

Al Lind, sophomore center, was shifted to right guard in yesterday's practice. Coach Hanley indicated that he was pleased with the work of two sophomore tackles, Chambers and Kopecky, and that they will see considerable action unless Heuss and Riley, veterans, show improvement.

OHIO U. TO TEST PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—"Impressive offensive power and two lines that will more than match ours in weight and defensive ability," read the scouting report turned in to Coach Noble Kizer of the Purdue eleven this afternoon on Ohio university's 61 to 0 rout of Morris Harvey Saturday. The report caused Kizer to revise his practice plans for the season's opener here next Saturday and he announced that the first three days of the week will be devoted to intensive scrimmage drills.

Ohio may provide a big problem for the Boilermakers. Although Purdue has one of the best four year records in the country, the visitors have a better one. Since the start of the 1929 season Ohio university has played 36 games, winning 32 with only three losses and one tie. In the same time the Boilermakers have played 34 games with three losses and one tie.

The Ohio U. eleven demonstrated last fall that it is capable of handling the Notre Dame style of offense, which is used by Purdue, when it defeated the Navy, 14 to 0.

Tonelli Knocks Out Broglio in Opening Round

Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, last night scored his 22d victory in as many professional appearances by knocking out Nick Broglio of Herrin, Ill., in the first round of the scheduled six round windup at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Broglio was floored for the count after 56 seconds of fighting. Danny Neenan, lightweight, stopped Paul Dempsey in the fourth round of the semi-final. Other results:

Lenny Cohen stopped Frank Mirabal [4].
Moss Brawner and Merril Town drew [4].

Eddie Chinski beat Frankie Keevil [4].
Al Schiario beat Art Mitchell [4].
Scotty Sylvano beat Pete Verri [4].
Red Johnson beat Orea Miller [4].
John Holda and Johnny Mason, drew [wrestling].

Next Monday a working agreement with the New York athletic commission will be signed by the Illinois commission, Chairman Joe Triner announced yesterday. New York already has signed the pact.

Under the agreement New York and Illinois will recognize each other's dictums if they believe they are justifiable.

Both commissions are to begin their working agreement next week under virtually the same rules as at present but a more amicable understanding will be attempted.

For example, the state commission will continue to recognize Kid Chocolate as junior lightweight champion and Barney Ross as junior welterweight as well as lightweight, title holder, while New York does not recognize junior champions.

The Illinois commission yesterday voted to refuse recognition of verbal contracts between promoters, managers or fighters in the future. This left Billy Cepak, Cicero promoter, without an opponent for Kid Irish Friday. Leo Rodak had agreed to box Irish and then signed to compete at Midway arena on the same date.

John Krone has announced that he will present wrestling shows at the Arcadia sports center this winter. . . . On Oct. 11, a wrestling card will be offered at Springfield, Ill. . . . The Peoria Boxing club has filed an application for a promoter's license. . . . So has the Centralia, Ill., Elks.

Henry Rothier and Dick Sisk, local welterweights, will meet in a six round windup at the Midway arena Friday.

Phil Kenneally will meet Harold Sampson in the windup of the weekly boxing show of the Catholic Youth Organization at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street, Thursday night. Last week Kenneally won a decision over Jim Paze.

In the semi-windup, Jimmy Christy, national A. A. U. runnerup, will meet Barney Ryan. Six other bouts will be on.

CHICAGOANS WIN NATIONAL LEGION GOLF CROWNS

O'Shea Takes Army Title; Fetz Leads Gobs.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

George O'Shea of the Indian Boundary post, Chicago, and Gus Fetz, from Blackhawk post, Chicago, yesterday shared the national championships of the American Legion at the Olympia Fields Country club. George, no foreigner to titles, having won the state Knights of Columbus tournament twice, in addition to the Kiwanis and 40 and 8 titles, came through with 71-78-149 to take the army trophy, while the gobs' prize went to Gus with 78-79-157. Fetz had difficulty on his finishing round.

Illinois foursomes swept the two team prizes. The victors included O'Shea, Austie Claeyssens, 153, and Jim Carberry, 157, both of Homer Dahringer Post, and Eddie Gayer, La Grange, 153. Their total was 612. They were followed by another home quartet which included Fetz, Horace McDougal, of Giles post, 161; Hank Bowbeer, Berwyn post, 162, and Kelsey Cleveland, Wilmette post, 162. Their aggregate was 642.

The Man o' War post of Lexington, Ky., sent a fife and drum corps of 50 members, attired in regulation jockey's tack, to regale the golfing legionaires.

Beagle Hounds Go on Chase for Rabbits Oct. 14

BY BOB BECKER.

Scores of beagle hounds are going to run through the woods and field beginning the morning of Oct. 14, when the 30th annual licensed field trial of the Western Beagle club starts at Bass Lake, Ind. This interesting test for the rabbit dogs will continue through Oct. 18. On that evening the beagle club will hold its bench show, an event which is staged in connection with the trials.

Approximately 1,000 acres of countryside are available for the field trial. According to officials of the club, game is abundant so that the merry little hounds will have plenty of opportunities to show their hunting ability. R. B. Falkiner, secretary of the Western Beagle club, states that the public is invited to the trials.

Entries for the various events will close tomorrow. Sportsmen who plan to attend the trials should go to the Best View hotel at Bass Lake, where they will be directed to the field trial grounds which are east of the lake.

Of all the different kinds of hunting for which dogs are used the sport of running cottontails with the musical voiced beagles is the one that most of us associate with the cold, snappy mornings of the winter when there is snow on the ground. The noise of the fast little hounds on the trail of a rabbit is to cottontail hunting what the fox hound is to fox hunting.

The beagle virtually is a miniature fox hound. He has to be big and solid for his inches and capable of a lot of wear and tear when he takes the trail and follows the scent of his quarry. And a good beagle hound has these characteristics, besides possessing an affectionate and companionable disposition which makes him a good pal.

On the morning of Oct. 14 the Bass Lake field trials will start with both the 13 inch and the 15 inch dogs going into action. Then on succeeding days there will be field trial events for dogs of both sizes in some six or seven events which will be run on the field trial grounds. Gustav Erickson of Lake Villa, Ill., and George McGinnis will be field judges.

MAJORS DRAFT 12 PLAYERS FROM MINOR LEAGUES

Phillies and Dodgers Lead with Three Apiece.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Eight major league clubs selected 12 players from the minors by the draft route at the annual major league draft meeting tonight. The Philadelphia and Brooklyn Nationals took three each, as many as were selected by the whole American league.

The New York Giants, champions of the National league, took steps to strengthen a possible weak spot at second base next season by picking a former major leaguer, Fresco Thompson, from Buffalo's International league champions. Thompson, starting the season with Jersey City, but playing most of the year with Buffalo, batted .304 through the league season and playoffs, and led in base stealing with with 37 thefts.

Tail Enders Get First Pick.

According to the system by which the last place clubs get first choice, the Giants were the last in the league to get their pick.

The first to be picked were two of the six ex-major leaguers who moved up again by the draft route. The St. Louis Browns selected a pitcher, L. M. [Buck] Newsom, who was up a couple of years ago with the Chicago Cubs and with Brooklyn. Newsom had won 31 games and lost 10 with the Cubs' Pacific Coast league farm at Los Angeles up through Sept. 23. The Cincinnati Reds picked Irving Jeffries, former Chicago White Sox infielder, who batted .343 for St. Paul this year.

The Phillies drafted an outfielder, Louis O. Chiozza, a powerful batter, from Memphis, and Pitchers Kirk Davis and George Darrow from San Francisco and Galveston, respectively. Davis, playing with only a fair team, won 19 games and lost 14, while Darrow won 22 and lost 7.

Morgan to Red Sox.

Brooklyn selected Second Baseman James Bucher, who belonged to Columbus but played all year with another of the St. Louis Cardinals' chain, Grensboro. Bucher led the Piedmont league in batting with a .360 average, drove in 117 runs, and hit 25 homers. The Dodgers also got Outfielder Glenn Chapman from Indianapolis and Catcher Ray Berres from Birmingham.

The other players drafted were Eddie Morgan, former Cleveland first baseman, who went to the Boston Red Sox from New Orleans; Outfielder Ray Holland, formerly with Detroit and the Boston Braves, by Cleveland from Minneapolis; and Art Veltman, who used to catch for the Giants and was picked by Pittsburgh from Oakland.

SERIES BETTING IS HEAVIEST IN MANY YEARS

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Interest in the world series, opening tomorrow at the Polo grounds, is greater than it has been for several years, as far as the betters are concerned, according to Jack Doyle, veteran Broadway betting commissioner.

"There are ten fellows offering money on the Giants to one for the Senators," said Doyle. "But," he added, "the big money is on Joe Cronin's boys."

For instance, Doyle said, while a dozen or more betters placed bets of around $100 on the Giants with him, one Senator backer offset this with a wager of $1,000 on the American league entry.

This bet was on the opening game, on which Doyle has made the Giants favorites, with Carl Hubbell pitching, at 6 to 5. Doyle therefore laid $1,200 against the better's $1,000 on the result of the first contest.

For the entire series, Doyle's odds still remain 7 to 10 against the Senators and 6 to 5 against the Giants.

According to Doyle, more than one million dollars will change hands on the entire series.

Secret Marriage of Stone, Tiger Outfielder, Revealed

Maryville, Tenn., Oct. 2.—(AP)—A ten year romance that began in Maryville college led to the altar last Jan. 11 for John Thomas Stone, Detroit outfielder, and Ruth Cordelia Ellis of Maryville. Announcement of the secret marriage was made today by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace L. Ellis. Stone and his wife are on their honeymoon in Chicago.

World Series Opens Today at New York

kees by 6½ games almost before the season got in full swing. It took some spirit to keep going after such a bad start and it took some fight to stage a pretty riot such as that in which the Senators and Yanks participated in Washington after Buddy Myer popped Ben Chapman one on the nose for trying to cut him down at second base.

Some snippy things have been written about Bill Terry and his relations with the boys who inform the world of goings-on in baseball. We hold no especial brief for Terry, but it must be said that he has not been guilty of a lot of silly mystery stuff such as Manager Joe Cronin has been putting on around headquarters here today in regard to the name of the pitcher he will assign to the opening game.

Can't Emulate Mack.

Connie Mack's mysterious behavior as leader of the Philadelphia Athletics in the 1929 world series was justified, for the use of Howard Ehmke, a complete surprise, was effective. Cronin, however, can't confuse the Giants with any possible selection for tomorrow, and his attempts at masterminding have been ludicrous, especially since there is no necessity for bolstering weaknesses.

In response to feverish inquiries about his pitching choice he flippantly has suggested that he "may go with McColl," his 39 year old rookie from Chattanooga, or that "Moe Berg has been showing a good fast ball recently."

Baseball men continued to incline to the belief that Owner Clark Griffith would instruct Cronin to start Walter Stewart, a left hander. Observers who have followed the workings of the Griffith-Cronin mind all year were just as confident that Crowder would be given the call, an assignment for which he asked while still in the training camp at Biloxi, Miss., last spring. Others, among them most of the New York guessers who guess on their own, thought that the left handed skill of Whitehill was best designed to get Washington off to a good start.

Some Look to Weaver.

Some still held to the thought that Monte Weaver, with his "downer," would be the best choice. Few fly balls are hit off Weaver's sinker, and fly balls are dynamite in the freak Polo grounds.

Whitehill was the only pitcher who did any throwing in the Polo grounds workout this morning. Cronin hasn't "touched a ball" for five days. Stewart and Weaver did some exercises and hit a few fungoes. With this information, do your own experting as to Washington's starting pitcher.

Fred Fitzsimmons, veteran right handed pitcher of the Giants, reported at the Polo grounds today with a swollen ankle, the result of an injury in the game he pitched in Brooklyn Saturday, and will not appear against the Senators until the third game—the first in Washington—on Thursday.

Report Vines Ready to Sign as Tennis Pro

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.—Ellsworth Vines, who was deprived of his amateur tennis title last month, is ready to sign as a professional for $50,000. Vines is on the verge of signing a contract calling for that sum to join William T. Tilden's professional organization, it was learned today shortly after Big Bill's arrival from Europe aboard the North German Lloyd liner Bremen.

The Californian, it was stated, will receive $25,000 for an eight months' tour under the Tilden banner, starting in January at Madison Square Garden, and has been guaranteed an additional $25,000 as his share of the profits from by products.

Vines will play Tilden at the Garden Jan. 10, it is reported, and again Feb. 21, when their match will feature the first of nine "professional Davis cup series." Henri Cochet of France, who recently joined the professional ranks, and Martin Plaa, veteran French pro, also will take part in the latter competition, which will consist of four singles contests and one doubles engagement. The other eight shows will be staged in leading cities throughout the country between February and September.

Tilden will open his annual barnstorming tour of the United States at the new Park Avenue Tennis club, first of the chain store system of courts he hopes to establish throughout the country, with a two day series of matches featuring himself, Vincent Richards, Frank Hunter, Kozeluh and Barnes next Saturday and Sunday.

N. Y. Cheers Silently for World Series

Youngsters Have Glory as Their Goal.

It must be very pleasant to be as young and up-to-it as Joe Cronin, the kid manager of the Senators, and Joe Kuhel, his first baseman, and Blondy Ryan and Carl Hubbell of the Giants. This world series ball is money ball, to be sure, but these young ones have glory in their eyes, too, and the world series is no mere set of ball games. They believe what they read and hear about world series heroes and world series goats, and if they ever did hear of the case of Casey Stengel they were not impressed by his fate.

Casey Stengel played for the Giants in the last word series which they played against the Yankees, and hit two home runs, each of which won a ball game, the only two games the Giants did win. The next spring Mr. Stengel opened the season in New Haven.

They are young enough to recall Pepper Martin of the Cardinals, who stole everything from the Athletics but the deed to the park and then settled down to the status of just-a-ballplayer. But at that Pepper Martin had his hour. He was a hero and he has his clippings with which to remind himself. Achievements are very momentary in the baseball business, but name me a business in which they are not. Those pyramids seem pretty substantial just now, but they may be just a flash in the pan at that.

NEW YORK MAYOR TOO BUSY TO SEE SERIES OPENING

New York, Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Some one else will throw out the first ball of the world's series at the Polo grounds tomorrow. It won't be Mayor John P. O'Brien.

What they are he did not say, and he manifested no special regret at his inability to attend the game. Mayor O'Brien has been booed at several public appearances recently.

OUTBOARD MEET DRAWS NATION'S LEADING PILOTS

Outstanding outboard drivers from all sections of the country, including the five leading women pilots, were converging on Chicago last night for the fifth annual national outboard events, to be held at the World's Fair Saturday and Sunday. One hundred and fifty-two entries already have been received. The meet is expected to attract more drivers than have ever before competed in a power boat regatta in this country.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sharp of Tulsa, Okla., Miss Ruth Re Doo of Flint, Mich., Miss Hilda Mueller of Bay City, Mich., Mrs. Ruth Herring of Fort Worth, Tex., and Mrs. Seth Ruhland of Alhambra, Cal., are the women pilots who will vie with the champion men drivers for the national title in each racing class and for trophies and cash prizes.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM — COURTESY EFFICIENT SERVICE ALWAYS

Consider the Railroads —as Developers

In the United States more than 100 million people live and work within ten miles of the nearest railroad.

This did not just happen to be true. It is true because most of this country has grown up along its railroads. They have been the great developers.

As the early railroads were built, settlers came in, farms were placed in cultivation, towns sprang up, and business began to be carried on. Ever since then the dependable transportation provided by the railroads has been an influential factor in the continued development of the country.

Today the railroads carry the nation's business. Because business has been dull, the railroads have had less to do, but as business revives the rail network of the country again will hum with activity.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

WOODLANDER IS SLOW TO START, BUT HE CAN RUN!

Wakes Up in Stretch to Win by 5 Lengths.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A crowd of 8,000, including many visitors to the American Legion convention, watched Woodlander, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago, come from behind to s ore an easy victory in the 40 and 8 purse at the Washington park race track yesterday afternoon.

Woodlander, acquired only recently by Mrs. Denemark from J. W. Parrish of Kentucky, was the favorite in the betting, but scared his backers half to death when he lagged behind Ma, Shuffle Off, and Kentucky Helen in the early stages.

He gave them another fright after he had worked his way into the lead in the stretch, where he faltered just for an instant. Kentucky Helen came up alongside him and threatened to go out on top.

A second later Jockey Wright pulled Woodlander together, gave him the boot with his heels and slashed him with the whip. Woodlander was a great horse from there until the finish. He pulled away from his rivals and drew out to win by five lengths.

Kashgar Closes Gap.

Kentucky Helen, which had given him a stubborn battle most of the way, faltered, just lasting long enough to be second. Kashgar closed an enormous gap and was third with Prince Charlo fourth. There had been a plunge on Kashgar but he wasn't nearly good enough to catch the flying leaders.

It was American Legion day at the track and just before the 2 year olds paraded out to contest for the 40 and 8 purse the Man o' War post drum and bugle corps from Lexington, Ky., its members wearing the racing silks of most of the famous turf establishments in America, paraded up and down the club house lawn to give the spectators and added thrill.

Woodlander Returns $6.06.

The 40 and 8 purse brought together several of the eligibles for the Lake Side handicap, the last of the 2 year olds stakes to be run in Chicago. It is down for a decision one week from Saturday.

Woodlander reeled off the 5½ furlongs over a slow track in 1:08. He is a son of Rolled Stocking-Rosewood and appeared to like the slow going which prevailed.

He won many backers near post time and paid $6.06 to win, $3.20 to place, and $2.92 to show. Kentucky Helen paid $5.42 to place and $3.78 to show. Kashgar was at $3.85 to show.

BANKERS FIGHT RFC CONTROL THROUGH STOCK

Seek Modification of Federal Plan.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the early launching of the administration's preferred stock scheme now virtually assured banks throughout the country, particularly the big metropolitan institutions, are hinging their acceptance of the plan upon a modification of the terms in order that the big banks, at least, may escape RFC control.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, has been demanding that newly organized national banks must submit to RFC domination as the price they pay for the use of RFC funds. He has been urging that incorporation papers for such banks include provisions which would permit the RFC to hire and fire officers, directors and employés and exercise practically complete control over policies and operations.

Fight Political Control.

Now that the administration proposes to persuade all national banks to take RFC funds in exchange for blocks of their preferred stock the officers of existing banks are doing their utmost to prevent the application of such rules in their own cases.

Mr. Jones implies that the big squeeze to force national banks to expand their capital by selling preferred stock to the RFC is aimed at expanding bank credit for business under the recovery program. The banks say they don't need more cash, that, in fact, they can't find suitable borrowers for what they already have and they look with askance upon the move to set up the RFC as a preferred stockholder over the present holders of the common stock.

Realizing that the program has got to get under way soon if at all and knowing that New York banks must be induced to set the pace for the rest of the nation, the RFC is understood to be willing to make concessions in order to get things moving.

See End of Differences.

President Roosevelt's letter to Chairman Jones, published yesterday morning, is regarded in financial circles as a step toward eliminating the differences between New York bankers and the RFC over the terms on which the RFC is to take bank preferred stock.

The bankers take the position that there is no reason why preferred stock should have voting powers as long as it is in good standing, dividends are paid and stipulated reserves are paid in the sinking fund for retirement. Preferred stock in almost all corporations is non-voting, they agree.

Opinion among bankers concerning the possible results of RFC supervision of national banks and partial control of operations is somewhat divided. Some argue that even if it had a vote in the management of banks the RFC would not dare exercise that power to any great degree and that RFC supervision would add nothing that hasn't already been imposed by the federal reserve board and the controller of the currency.

Might Exploit Powers.

Other bankers declare that a political body like the RFC eventually would be bound to exploit the tremendous powers conferred upon it by ownership of preferred stock with voting rights.

The latter point to the record in the cases of banks that have already sold preferred stock to the RFC. In many cases, either by deliberate intent or otherwise, they say, former RFC men have been placed in key positions.

In Cleveland the National City bank, a sound and well managed but comparatively small institution, after the nation-wide moratorium took over some of the business of two of its larger closed contemporaries. In doing so it needed more capital to accompany the big increase in deposits. Four millions of the additional capital was supplied by the RFC through the purchase of preferred stock. Later, on July 11, Sidney B. Congdon, liquidator of the Guardian Trust company, who had been connected with the RFC in Washington, was made president of the National City. Mr. Congdon, prior to his RFC connection, had been vice president and credit manager of the Bank of Pittsburgh, which closed three years ago.

Three Other Examples.

In New Orleans the Hibernia National bank was organized to succeed the old Hibernia Bank and Trust company. Rudolph S. Hecht, president of the old bank, was made chairman of the board, and A. P. Omahorn, who had been in charge of the New Orleans agency of the RFC, was elected president and a director. The bank has $3,000,000 of capital, half of it preferred stock sold to the RFC.

In Grand Rapids Gerald Hadlock, formerly connected with the Chicago office of the RFC, has been made vice president. This bank received its charter Aug. 22 and sold $250,000 of preferred stock to the RFC.

In Fort Wayne, Ind., a new bank, the National Bank of Fort Wayne, is being organized with RFC participation to succeed the old First National Bank and Trust company. Albert West, RFC man, is reported to be in line for the job of executive vice president.

Fear More Federal Power.

With a plan already announced by the administration for the reorganization and reopening of closed banks on a large scale with RFC participation, bankers predict that the federal government will be getting farther into the banking business.

They reason that it is inevitable and perhaps just that the RFC should insist on running reopened banks whose reopening is due solely to RFC aid.

At the same time they insist that in cases where the RFC forces its funds on a bank already in operation and does so as part of the credit expansion drive the RFC should be kept out of its management as long as dividends are paid on the preferred and the sinking fund provisions lived up to.

N. Y. Bankers Split on Selling Stock to U. S.

New York, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Executives of leading local banks are understood to have made known their attitude today toward the government's proposal that they sell preferred stock issues to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

It was reported that their views were communicated directly to Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation today at a private luncheon arranged for Jones by Seward Prosser, chairman of the managing committee of the Bankers Trust company.

Attitude Not Disclosed.

No statement came from banking sources or from the R. F. C. chairman after the luncheon, but it was recalled that Jones on a visit to the financial district about two weeks ago sounded the bankers on the preferred stock subject. It was assumed that his visit today was to learn the banker's answer.

There is said to be a considerable divergency of opinion among the bankers as to the wisdom of issuing and selling preferred shares of the R. F. C. as part of the government's program for reopening closed banks.

Want Banks to Set Example.

Washington is seeking the coöperation of the larger banks in the belief that their action in issuing the stock will encourage smaller institutions to do likewise and thus provide them with sufficent additional capital to prepare them for admission into the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

In some banking quarters it was asserted the local institutions might agree to sell the preferred stock issues to the R. F. C. if the government declares that the situation with respect to reopening of closed banks and effecting deposit insurance is sufficiently critical to call for it.

BANK DEPOSIT INSURANCE ADDS NEW OFFICIAL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—[Special.]—Staffing of the central office of the new federal deposit insurance corporation was begun today with the appointment of W. N. Stronck, Tucson, Ariz., banker, formerly of Chicago, as assistant to the directors.

Together with Walter Stewart, now a member of the staff of the comptroller of the currency, who will become secretary of the corporation, Mr. Stronck will share the major executive work of the new venture into guaranteeing deposits.

Prior to going to Tucson to become the head of bank Stronck was the senior partner in W. N. Stronck and company, consultants in bank management. The firm maintained offices in Chicago for about 12 years.

RFC WANTS CUT IN RATE IT PAYS FOR ADVANCES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation asked the treasury today for a reduction of the 3 per cent interest rate it pays on money advanced to it.

In a letter to Dean Acheson, undersecretary of the treasury, Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC pointed out that the latter had made numerous noninterest bearing loans, notably relief advances, to the states.

In addition, a plan was recently announced for 3 per cent loans to banks which would, in turn, advance the money to NRA industries.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—The United States treasury will pay close to the lowest interest charge in its history on its latest issue of short term discount bills. Acting Secretary Acheson announced tonight that the $100,000,000 of ninety-one day discount bills offered last Saturday drew total subscriptions of $247,660,000. The accepted bids ranged from 99.980, equivalent to a rate of about 0.08 per cent per year, to 99.965, equivalent to about 0.14 per cent. The average price was 99.974, equivalent to a rate of about 0.10 per cent. The bills will be dated Oct. 4 and will mature Jan. 3, 1934.

Large Banks to Cut Down on Directors

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Reorganization of the boards of Chicago banks to conform with the provisions of the banking act passed by the last congress will necessitate many changes in the present setups. It was indicated in financial quarters yesterday that the Chicago banks will reduce the number of their directors to 25 at the regular annual meetings instead of waiting until the provision setting this limit goes into effect next summer.

MARSHALL FIELD. [Acme Photo.]

The act also provides that persons engaged in the securities business shall not serve as directors of reserve member banks. This clause will become effective Jan. 1, 1934, or several months before the provision limiting the number of directors. Both requirements will be met at the same time by banks in Chicago, it is indicated.

The boards of both the First National bank and the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company now exceed the number set by the act. The First National has a board of 49 members. Thus, it is necessary to cut the present board in half.

Make Plans to Cut Boards.

It is understood that preliminary plans for reducing the number of directors are being made.

The Continental Illinois now has 38 directors, necessitating the retirement of 13 present directors. Four of the present directors have connections with security companies. They are Marshall Field and Charles F. Glore of Field, Glore & Co.; William H. Mitchell of Mitchell, Hutchins & Co., and Charles H. Schweppe of the Lee Higginson corporation. In the normal course of events these men either will have to give up their security business or their directorships.

The three other loop banks are now within the prescribed limit. The Harris Trust & Savings bank has 20 directors and the City National Bank and Trust has a board of 15 members. The Northern Trust company has 9 directors. No successor has been chosen by the Northern Trust to succeed the late Erza J. Warner.

Two deaths among directors of the First National have taken place since the last organization meeting. Only one new director, Bentley G. MacCloud, vice president, has been added.

Other Possible Bars.

The act also disqualifies as a board member "a director, officer or an employé of a corporation [other than a mutual savings bank] or a member of a partnership organized for any purpose whatsoever which shall make loans secured by stock or bond collateral to any individual, association, partnership or corporation other than its own subsidiaries."

Strictly interpreted, this would bar the officers or directors of corporations which lend to employés on collateral from becoming directors of member banks. This was not intended by the framers of the act, it is asserted, and how strictly it will be interpreted by the administration remains to be seen. Conceivably the officers and directors of such firms as Sears, Roebuck & Co. and Armour & Co. would be disqualified under this clause.

TEXAS OIL REFINERS SAY RECOVERY ACT IS NOT CONSTITUTIONAL

Tyler, Tex., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Combatting charges of certain East Texas oil refiners that the government exceeded its authority in requiring reports on the origin of oil shipments, A. D. Ryan, chief investigator for the department of the interior, testified in federal court today that prorating in the east Texas field "so far as federal authorities are concerned is on a voluntary basis and has been since the field was discovered."

The suit was brought by the Panama Refining company against Ryan and other government officials.

Charles Fahy, first assistant solicitor for the department of the interior, raised the question of "sufficiency" of the complaint. The national recovery act program, the plaintiffs asserted, is in violation of section 1 of the 14th amendment to the federal constitution. They seek to restrain interference with the operation of their properties.

They object to the requirements of reports and tenders on all oil intended for interstate shipment under the NRA.

Ryan testified he merely requested reports and his men had instructions to gauge no tanks without the consent of the owners. He said some bypasses were dug up by agents of the division of investigation, but that none was destroyed.

INDIANA HARBOR STEEL PLANT TO BE IMPROVED

Improvement on the Indiana Harbor plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company which will cost around $250,000 have been approved and work will be started at once, President Frank Purnell announced yesterday.

The company's new steel alloy department at Indiana Harbor has been in operation for about a week. Additions to the bar and billet mills will complete the program of rounding out the plant, Mr. Purnell said.

The improvements also will include a new unit for rolling railroad tieplates. This will double the plant's capacity for producing this product in anticipation of expected railroad orders.

Dollar Rallies After Break to Near Low

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—After having broken more than one cent in its gold value, the dollar rallied early this afternoon to 64.43 cents, less than a quarter of a cent from its lowest point reached in today's Paris trading.

The rally probably resulted from the closing of the Paris market and the consequent cessation of the selling of American currency there.

The gold standard exchanges all soared to within a few points of their record highs. The franc reached 6.11 cents, compared with its high of 6.15 cents, and closed at 6.08, up 7 points net.

Sell Dollar Abroad.

European speculators and traders resumed selling of dollars in foreign markets at the opening and drove it down to 64.27 in terms of gold, before the New York market was opened. It opened here at 64.47 and held near that figure during the forenoon, off about one cent.

This was less than half a cent above the low point of 63.71 touched by the dollar on Sept. 20, when the French franc rose to 6.15 cents.

The action of the exchange markets as well as the dispatches from London and Paris disclosed skepticism there concerning the reliability of forecasts here that President Roosevelt contemplated taking a definite stand against currency inflation and stabilization of the dollar.

Fear Commodity Decline.

If the traders had expected such a declaration, they would have bought dollars in anticipation of a rise in American currency.

Sterling weakened slightly against gold and the price of that metal advanced in London with the result that it was moved up in the United States to $31.88 an ounce, 42 cents higher than on Saturday.

Wholesale Commodity Index Advances Again

Dun's index number of wholesale commodity prices rose to $162,632 for Oct. 1 against $136,555 on the same date in 1932. This was the seventh consecutive monthly advance, but it was the smallest gain for any single month since April.

STOCKS DECLINE; ROOSEVELT TALK FAILS OF CLEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—With barely enough speculative steam behind the market to maintain trading headway, stocks worked moderately lower today. Mirroring the low state of interest, the new week got under way with a turnover of 959,000 shares, the smallest since Aug. 15.

Finding little in the week-end news to stir enthusiasm, it was apparent that traders were waiting some word from President Roosevelt in his address to the American Legion convention on the government's monetary policy. The President, however, threw no light on that moot question, and the speech, while it was encouraging in showing that the administration has no intention of backing down on its veterans' bonus policy, provided little incentive for market activity.

Stock Offerings Light.

The one encouraging factor of the session was the continued evidence that the market at the moment is as thin on the offering end as it is on the bidding side, meanwhile awaiting some inspiring development to lift it out of its current apathy.

A fresh outbreak of weakness in the dollar, which carried the American unit down close to the extreme bottom of a fortnight ago, had scant effect on stocks aside from the gold and silver shares. An early burst of buying in the metal issues indicated that speculative operations there, based on the theory that inflation of some sort must develop, has not been abandoned.

American Smelting, United States Smelting, Dome, McIntyre, International Nickel, and Cerro de Pasco were the centers of attention. The rise in these stocks, however, was carried only to the noon hour, when they turned down with the rest of the list.

Other Groups Dull.

Eliminating the metal and mining division, the market might as well have closed shop for the day. Motors worked up a fair volume in spots, but got nowhere. Chrysler and General Motors both dipped a point or so on the day.

Most of the rails were lower on meager turnovers.

A recession of more than 3 points in American Telephone, coming after a sharp rally at the close of last week, created a bad impression for other utilities issues, with Peoples Gas about the only prominent issue able to buck the trend.

Oils were firm, but marked unsettlement was apparent in alcohols, chemicals and foods. Farm machinery shares were naturally depressed by lower wheat prices.

U. S. Steel tried hard at the start, but, together with other heavy industrials, spent most of the day a point or so below previous finals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The 2 cent coach rates put in effect on its system by the Great Northern railway on Aug. 1, increased the number of local passengers by more than 50 per cent, M. M. Hubbert, general eastern passenger agent, said today. The standard rate is 3.6 cents a mile.

"Travel in August and September gained 50 per cent from the same months last year," said Mr. Hubbert. "This does not reflect the full effect of the lower fares, because, for almost every month of the current year they showed a decline in local travel. The 2 cent rate is the lowest in history. We also have lowered dining car prices."

Senate Bank Quiz to Open Again Today

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Foreign loan transactions of Dillon, Read & Co., New York private banking house, and its conduct of two investment trusts will hold the immediate attention of the senate banking committee investigating Wall street practices tomorrow, when it resumes hearings after a summer recess.

The hearings, expected to last two months and form the basis for remedial legislation at the coming session of congress, will turn next to operations of the Chase Securities corporation's stock market activities, the Associated Gas and Electric company, and loose ends connected with inquiries into J. P. Morgan & Co., and Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Clarence Dillon, head of Dillon, Read & Co., and three other partners have been summoned for tomorrow and the examination of Dillon was expected to take up the day's session.

Predicts "Interesting" Quiz.

Announcing the committee's program after a two and one-half hour conference with Chairman Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], Ferdinand Pecora, chief counsel of the committee, told newspaper men the Dillon inquiry would be "very interesting."

The two investment trusts to be studied are the American and Foreign Investment, and the United States and International Investment corporations.

Responding to inquiries, Pecora said the Dillon, Read investigation would not go into the purchase by that banking house several years ago of the stock of the Dodge Brothers Automobile company.

"That was a big transaction, but there is nothing for us to go into," he said.

The committee prosecutor said he expected to reach the Chase Securities corporation, affiliate of the Chase National bank, sometime next month, and then to take up the Associated Gas and Electric company's operations.

Associated Gas "Complicated."

The inquiry into the Associated Gas and Electric company was decided upon only recently, Pecora said. He intended to "get evidence" on how the company sold $800,000,000 of securities in this country.

He described the utility firm's setup as "a corporate labyrinth resembling the Insull group in structural formation," and said the federal trade commission had been investigating it for two years.

"They have not completed their investigation because of the complicated structure," he said. "There doesn't seem to be any banking firm identified as such with the utility company, although the Chase corporation had some minor part in its financing."

Pecora said details of the financing of motion picture firms would be gone into during the Chase and Kuhn, Loeb inquiries. He said the firms involved included the General Theaters and Paramount Publix corporations.

Trading Here in Butter and Eggs Nearing Record

Trading in butter and egg futures in the first nine months this year on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange has exceeded all but two previous years for the same period. Sales at the close of September totaled 29,999 cars of eggs and 23,188 cars of butter, or 53,187 cars combined. Sales at the end of September last year were 28,666 cars and in 1931 sales were 35,781 cars.

RAILWAYS READY TO LOWER FARES; FIX BASIS TODAY

BY PHILLIP HAMPSON.

Final action on the question of reducing railroad passenger fares in the west is expected to be taken today at a meeting of western rail officials. The meeting will decide to put substantial reductions into effect as of Dec. 1, according to reports in rail circles yesterday.

It was stated that the probable new fares will be three cents a mile for one way first class travel, two cents a mile for round trip travel, good in all equipment, and a flat two cents a mile rate for coach travel. The present basic rate is 3.6 cents a mile. The surcharge for Pullman travel is also expected to be eliminated.

Western and eastern rail officials have not yet been able to reconcile a few differences on passenger fares, according to reports. The eastern lines favor a basic rate of three cents a mile, with a round trip fare of two or two and a half cents.

Oppose Two Cent Rate.

The eastern lines also are reported opposed to a two cents a mile rate for one way trips. The eastern lines are also said to be unable to agree on the question of mileage books. The southern lines favor fare reductions.

The two cents a mile round trip fares favored by the western roads would have a thirty day limit. Elimination of the surcharge for Pullman travel means another substantial cut in the cost of transportation, since the surcharge is a half the regular Pullman fare.

The decision of the western roads to make the reductions, whether the eastern roads go along with them or not, was practically reached at a meeting last Friday, it was stated, and today's action is expected to be purely formal. One official estimated that about 98 per cent of the mileage of the western roads favors the reduction.

Plan to Meet Competition.

"The western railroads are in a position where they must reduce their fares to a point where they can meet competition," one executive stated yesterday. "The buses on the highways and the private automobile are here to stay. We must have fares which will attract the public, and I believe the new rates we have decided upon will stimulate travel.

"Railroad officials must not forget that there is a large section of our population that has never ridden in a train. Many are growing up bus minded. We must have fares which will permit parents to take their children on railroad trains. As it is, the first thing many of the coming generation will think of when planning to travel is a bus, since they have become accustomed to automobile travel."

Lower Fares in West.

The western roads operate in the territory west of Chicago. A number of them now have a two cents a mile rate between Chicago and the Twin Cities and points in the west. This fare does not apply to intermediate points. Also a number of the transcontinental lines which operate tourist cars will honor the two cents a mile fares in them.

The committee of the Western Association of Railway Executives which has been studying the fare question includes: Carl R. Gray, Union Pacific; Paul Shoup, Southern Pacific; Ralph Budd, Burlington; L. W. Baldwin, Missouri Pacific; and Fred Sargent, North Western.

New York, Oct. 2.—With dealings in bonds on the stock exchange today amounting to only $7,707,200, domestic corporation issues and United States government bonds drifted irregularly lower, while foreign loans, reflecting the weakness in the dollar today, pointed higher. The trading pace was the slowest for a five-hour trading day since Sept. 1.

All the French government and municipal loans touched the highest levels since issuance, on advances ranging from 1⅜ to 6 points. Other socalled gold payment issues, however, failed to show comparable strength.

German Bonds Higher.

Dutch East Indies loans showed small gains, and Sissy government 5½s were down ⅞ of a point. In other sections of the foreign group, German bonds averaged higher, as did Scandinavian loans. Serb government issues climbed 1 to 2 points. Bonds of the Latin American group closed irregular.

Of the dozen active United States government long-term issues, nine lost 1-32d to 8-32ds point, one, the Liberty 3½s held unchanged, while the Fourth Liberty 4¼s, and the Treasury 3¼s moved up 4-32ds and 2-32ds point, respectively. The turnover in the government issues amounted to $1,525,200, or nearly 20 per cent of the total dealings.

Changes Not Important.

Few of the active issues in the domestic corporation list had net changes for the day of any importance, but some of the infrequently dealt in issues showed fairly wide fluctuations. Most of the New York Rapid Transit issues closed higher, and in general the utility group held up better than did the railroad and industrial sections of the list.

Domestic bonds on the curb exchange were dull and easier. American Rolling Mills obligations, the most active of the entire list, were weak. Foreign loans closed strong.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Investors' Guide: Please send me information on Sears, Roebuck common.—O. J.

Answer: Sears, Roebuck & Co. is the largest general merchandiser in the world. It started out primarily as a mail order business. Increased use of automobiles by farmers and good roads began to attract the farm element to neighboring communities to make their purchases. To counteract this the company set up a chain of retail stores. The mail order business, although accounting for less than half of total sales in 1932, has operated profitably for many years, and was the only unit except the manufacturing division to stay in the black in 1932.

Opening of the retail stores, although providing diversification, presented new problems. Capital requirements were provided through bank loans, which are gradually being extinguished. The company has been eliminating some unprofitable units. During 1932 it opened four large department stores.

Sales for the four weeks to Sept. 10, 1933, rose to a point where they were 18 per cent greater than in the corresponding 1932 period, the third consecutive increase this year. For the 32 weeks to Sept. 10, 1933, sales were 7.5 per cent less than in the corresponding 1932 period.

A profit of $1,620,000, or 34 cents a share, was reported for the 24 weeks to July 16, in contrast to loss of $2,120,000 for the 24 weeks to July 16, 1932. Elimination of inventory losses, which cost the company about $4,000,000 in 1932, operating economies and placing of retail outlets on a more efficient basis enabled the company to operate in the black in contrast to 1932, despite smaller sales.

Net sales from Dec. 31, 1931, to Jan. 28, 1933, aggregated $271,089,000 and loss was $2,533,000, the first since 1921. Sales for the 1931 calendar year totaled $316,295,000, against $350,429,000 for 1930 and $403,472,000 for 1929. Net income equaled $2.47 per share in 1931, $3.01 in 1930 and $6.62 in 1929.

At the close of 1932 current assets, including $13,148,000 cash assets, totaled $82,331,000 and current liabilities, including $26,017,000 notes payable, totaled $35,177,000. Working capital was $47,154,000, against $80,280,000 the year before.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 4,780,064 shares of no par common stock on which nothing is being paid.

15 MILLION STOCK SALE IN $15,700 MINE IS HALTED

N. Y. Court Acts as Result of Investigation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 2.—The sale to the public of approximately $15,000,000 securities in a mining property bought by the promoters for $700 in cash and the assumption of $15,000 in liabilities, was temporarily halted today in the New York county Supreme court by Justice Louis A. Valente. He signed a temporary injunction restraining the Federal Mines and Power company and the Montana Mines and Power company from the further sale of securities to the public within this state.

The order is also directed against David Palter and Martin Lederer, dealers in securities at 82 Wall street, and Edward B. Cassatt, George D. Bender and Jules R. Wemlinger, officers in the Federal Mines and the Montana Mines companies.

Prosecutor Gets Complaints.

The action was begun by Assistant State's Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall, who conducted an investigation after complaints had been received. McCall charged that Cassatt, Bender and others bought some mining property in Montana in 1932 for $700 from a receiver in bankruptcy. On the property were liens, judgments and taxes not exceeding $15,000 which were assumed by the purchasers.

The Federal Mines and Power company was incorporated in Washington and shortly afterwards title was transferred to the Federal Mines and Power company in charge for its 100,000 shares of capital stock of 50 cents a share par value. Cassatt and his associates, it is asserted, redonated to the treasury enough stock to satisfy the judgments and liens on the original property.

Organize Another Company.

McCall further charges that in May, 1933, Cassatt came to New York to finance the Federal Mines and Power company, and that he was introduced by David Palter and Martin Lederer, securities salesman. Palter, Lederer, Cassatt, Wemlinger, and Bender organized the Montana Mines and Power company, an Arizona corporation, with 5,000,000 shares of $1 par value, to which the Federal Mines and Power company transferred its property in return for 3,000,000 shares.

Mr. McCall charged that Palter and Lederer agreed with the Montana Mines and Power company to "take down" the remaining 2,000,000 shares of the Montana Mines and Power company at $1 a share for the first million shares and $1.15 a share for the second million. They offered the stock to the public at $2 a share and by Aug. 1, 1933, 4,800 shares of the stock had been sold.

McCall estimates that if stock selling had continued it would have been possible for those named in the action to receive about $15,000,000 from the public.

Gas Appliance Society Plans Advertising Drive

Plans for carrying on an extensive retail campaign through newspaper advertising were announced last night by the Gas Appliance Society of Metropolitan Chicago to six hundred dealers in Chicago and suburbs attending a meeting in the Stevens hotel. Executives of the Moore corporation, the George D. Roper corporation, the Cribben & Sexton company and the Detroit Stove company also attended.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—As the new month opened today with prices at the season's peak and some wools decidedly scarce, indications pointed to further and early price advances in the Boston wool market.

Estimated receipts of domestic wool at Boston, reported to the Boston Grain and Flour exchange during the week ending Sept. 30, amounted to 38,423,300 lbs. compared with 1,481,200 lbs during the previous week.

The following quotations are on grease basis for Ohio and similar wools:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today, but it developed that late Friday 21,000 bags of Cuban were sold to a local refiner at 2.53c for October shipment, a decline of 2 points from the previous spot price. After recovering early losses, futures eased again and closed at net declines of 1 point on all positions. Sales were 12,000 tons. Final prices were within a point of the lowest. Prices follow:

Farmers Hold Shipments Awaiting U. S. Action.

Abnormally small receipts of hogs arrived for the market yesterday, the run at Chicago at 15,000 being the smallest for a Monday since the banking holiday last March. The offerings were equal to a normal week-end supply and far below the requirements of even a bearish Monday market. Consequently prices soared 25 to 40 cents over the Saturday level, but buyers had orders for only limited numbers at the sharp advance.

All but the heavy lard type hogs shared in the rebound. Butchers exceeding 325 pounds were extremely slow and carried bids showing only 10 to 15 cents advance over the lowest point of last week. Some of the heaviest of these were carried over unsold because of the unsatisfactory condition of the market for heavy stock.

Top Jumps 35 Cents.

The extreme top price soared 35 cents to $5.15, while the general average at $4.40 showed 30 cents advance compared with Saturday and was 20 cents above last Friday's price. Current quotations still are 30 to 40 cents under the high point of two weeks ago.

Farmers are holding back cattle and hogs as a result of the uncertainty that has developed in the live stock trade the last two weeks. Last week's drastic price slashing and the drop in provision markets also were factors curtailing the movement from the country. The uncertainty, members of the trade believe, is due chiefly to the clouded monetary situation and also to the failure of the government to announce the amount of the processing tax that is to be levied on pork soon.

Cattle Prices Decline.

Notwithstanding the light cattle receipts here yesterday, additional losses were recorded in the market, with prices about as low as any Monday in more than four months. Most of the decrease was in offerings from nearby feedlots. The range shipped in more light cattle than usual, making the tonnage of beef lighter than it has been on a Monday in many weeks.

The rank and file of steers declined 10 to 15 cents in value, closing at the low point of the season, with some consignments still in first hands at the finish. Choice 1,294 pound steers topped the market at $6.85, while long yearlings averaging 1,066 pounds reached $6.65, and mixed yearling steers and heifers sold at $6.25.

Receipts of lambs were rather heavy yesterday, but sellers managed to stave off a break until late in the afternoon when some sales were off 10 to 15 cents. Top natives reached at $6.75 to $7. Country demand for feeding and breeding stock was fairly good.
